Jock Saves Time

Getting up at two o'clock in the morning is more than a little trying for young Jock Macomber of New York, but true to his name, Jock sees a chance to save something—time. You won't have to get up in the wee hours if you'll set your clock ahead an hour on April 25 before going to bed.

Business Favors Aid to Far East

Report Also Recommends Slash in Help to Western Europe

Washington, April 25 (AP)—A team of 55 American businessmen has advised the Eisenhower Administration to slash economic assistance to Western Europe and increase it to the Communist-threatened Far East.

The business leaders also have urged that the State Department be given complete control over all foreign aid programs and that the existing Mutual Security Agency be abolished.

These views were given to Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen as part of a 4,000 word report based on a on-the-spot survey of foreign aid operations in 14 countries.

Report Kept Secret

The report, still classified as secret, concludes that American aid has accomplished its purpose of bettering economic conditions in Europe. A substantial cutback is recommended for nearly all European countries, except West Berlin and divided Austria.

Congress appropriated $1,282,000,000 for "defense support" assistance to Western European nations in the fiscal year ending June 30. This money is used to buy machinery, raw material, food, fuel and other supplies to help dollar-short governments increase their military budgets.

The stepped-up economic aid to the Far East presumably would go to Formosa, the Philippines and the three Indochina states now battling against Communist-led rebel armies.

These were the only Far East areas visited by the business executives. In Europe, they toured Denmark, France, Western Ger-

Hours of Switch Over Announced by Firms for Traveling Public

Eastern Daylight Saving time goes into effect at 2 a. m. Sunday when clocks will be moved ahead one hour. That time will continue throughout the summer until the last Sunday of September.

Better set the clock ahead before retiring to prevent late arrival at an appointment on Sunday.

With the advent of Daylight Saving time or "fast time" bus companies and railroads will conform to the new time, although in many instances timetables will still be carried on Eastern Standard time in order to avoid confusion where daylight time is not being observed.

Adirondack Transit Lines will change to the Daylight Saving time schedule at midnight and operate on new time. No change in schedules are contemplated at this time.

Greyhound will also operate on Daylight Saving time although timetables will still list Eastern Standard time with buses conforming to the new time.

Using Same Schedules

Railroads will also conform to Daylight Saving time. Locally the West Shore will put the new time into effect at 2 a. m. Sunday and schedules are unchanged except the time shown on the schedule will be advanced an hour so that the trains will run the same as at present in communities such as Kingston where daylight time is observed. Trains 631 and 618, running between Kingston and Albany and served by a Budd car, are not listed on the new timetable. These trains leave Kingston for Albany at 12:14 p. m. and arrive in Kingston from Albany at 11:50 a. m.

Local bus lines will conform to the daylight time, a necessity since working people, school children and others using the buses, will be required to meet the summer time.

All Airlines Conform

This year for the first time all scheduled air lines will operate on Daylight time where it is in effect. In the past airlines have used only Standard time. Out of New York city commuter trains will go on Daylight Saving time but long distance trains will remain on standard time.

One fourth of the states in the country will be operating Sunday on Daylight time. At 2 a. m. Sunday Eastern Standard time will become 3 a. m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time and it will not be until the last of September that this hour lost tomorrow will be made up.

Leftists Will Defy No Parade Order

New York, April 25 (AP)—A threat of open defiance loomed today over the city's action prohibiting the customary leftist May Day parade.

Sponsors said marchers will turn out despite the ban—and at the risk of riot.

Police said there will be no parade.

For years, the May 1 parade has been held on city streets, but yesterday city officials, branding the affair a Communist demonstration, imposed a ban backed up by a court order.

Leon Straus, chairman of the United Labor and People's May Day Parade Committee, responded with a call to supporters to march anyway.

He conceded the parade probably would lead to violence between the marchers and the police, but added:

"As law-abiding citizens we will do all in our power to prevent violence. We . . . will march on the first of May."

Said Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan: "The police will take whatever action is necessary."

Strengthens Position

Tokyo, April 25 (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's Liberal party rolled up an impressive triumph in Friday's Senate (House of Councillors) election, possibly strengthening Yoshida's position in his fight to keep his job. The Liberals had nailed 38 of 97 seats by 5 p .m., and independents who frequently vote with the Liberals had collared 25 more. The leftist Socialists had 11 seats, the next highest total. The small but Vocal Communist party didn't win a seat.

More Misery Stories Told By Soldiers

One Tells Story of Ride on Cow as Wounds and Frigid Weather Cause Many Deaths

Freedom Village, Korea, April 25 (AP)—Two American soldiers who endured more than two years of misery as prisoners of the Communists told today how more than 2,300 comrades died of exhaustion, hunger and wounds in two North Korean stockades.

M/Sgt. Gilbert Christie, 42, of Montezuma, Ind., said "much over 50 per cent" of 3,000 prisoners in his camp died during the winter of April 1950-51.

Cpl. John L. Watters Jr., of Beckley, W. Va., said 800 out of 1,500 United Nations captives died in Camp No. 5 at Pyoktong between April 1, 1951, and August, 1952.

Most of the 17 Americans, four British and four Turks released by the Reds today looked fairly strong. A few walked haltingly. One Yank saw the sign "Freedom Village" here and hurled his crutches away in joy.

Bitter, Cold March

Christie described a bitter March as a captive in the winter of 1950:

"I, myself, was one of the fortunate ones. I collapsed and passed out and rode the rest of the day on a cow. I had two wounds—a fragment in the chest and a broken arm—and I needed help from one of the fellows who kept me balanced on top of the cow."

Watters said treatment of prisoners did not improve "until the last three months."

He was wounded in the leg, hip and stomach near Kunu Nov. 26, 1950, and was taken to a Korean hut 50 miles north of the city.

"They started bringing in more wounded until there were 24 altogether within two weeks," he related. "Many of the wounded died. In fact, out of the 24, only three are living."

Allied planes strafed the area, he said, since there were no markings to show the UN captives were held there.

"They strafed us about a dozen times. I was grazed slightly in the back by a bullet."

Waited Two Months

Cpl. John King, 29, of Orlando, Fla., said he was captured April 25, 1951, but did not get into a prison camp until December, 1951.

He said he rode a truck the entire way. He was a member of the fifth regimental combat team of the 24th Infantry Division.

He said it was two months before he received any medical treatment. Then he underwent two operations.

He said he had been hit in the back, hip and stomach by shrapnel.

"All my operations were done by guesswork," he said. "They felt me with their fingers and if I sounded all right they said, 'we will cut here'."

King said that while in prison camp he could not get around.

"They carried me to the basketball games.

"I got a piece of shrapnel still in me which I will have taken out when I get out," he went on.

Afraid of Operation

King said he would not let the

Reds Give Additional Men to U. S.

16 More Servicemen Than Are Promised Get Freedom From Communists

Panmunjom, April 25 (AP)—Another 100 allied prisoners—including a bonus number of Americans, British and Turks—were freed today as the Communists kept their promise to continue the exchange of sick and wounded captives beyond the original limit.

The Reds said they would free 13 more Americans and 71 disabled South Koreans tomorrow as truce negotiators return to this neutral zone for the first full dress armistice talks since last Oct. 8.

17 Let Go Today

Seventeen Americans, four British, four Turks and 75 South Koreans came back today, bringing the total to the 600 the Reds said they would exchange in six days. But of the total:

136 were Americans—16 more than promised.

32 were British—12 more than promised.

15 were Turks—equal to the number of non-Koreans the Reds said they would exchange aside from British and Americans.

17 others included men from Colombia, Australia, Canada, South Africa, Greece, the Philippines and the Netherlands.

400 were South Koreans.

Both sides have said they would continue the exchange beyond the 600 originally pledged by the Reds and the 5,800 promised by the UN command.

Neither Side Talks

Neither side has said how many more it will trade, but some observers have speculated the exchange could go indefinitely.

The UN command proposed Friday that sick and wounded be exchanged continuously while hostilities continue. The Reds have not replied.

"A South Korean lieutenant freed Saturday said the Communists hold "more than a thousand seriously sick and wounded South Korean prisoners" near Manpo in North Korea.

There were no litter cases among the Americans, British and Turks exchanged Saturday. Some limped slightly, but otherwise all appeared to be in fairly good physical condition.

The Americans included a navy fighter pilot, an air force enlisted man, four marines and 11 soldiers.

Everything Ready

The navy flier, Ens. Marvin S. Broomhead of Salt Lake City, was married six days before leaving for Korea in 1952. He said his Plane was shot down by Red anti-aircraft fire over northeast Korea Feb. 8, 1952, while he was flying from the carrier Valley Forge.

Everything was in readiness for the return of the top-level truce negotiators at 11 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. Saturday, EST). Originally scheduled for Saturday, the meeting was postponed one day at the Communists' request.

Only one major issue stands in the way of an armistice. The UN command refuses to return some 50,000 Chinese and North Korean prisoners who have said they do not want to go home. The Communists have insisted on the return of all prisoners of war.

Meanwhile, the UN prisoner of war command said Chinese prisoners on Cheju Island have turned on Red agitators inside their stockades in recent days. Fifteen agitators were beaten so severely that three died later, the command said.

Pro Communist and anti-Communist groups of prisoners have clashed frequently, but mostly Red strong-arm squads have had the upper hand.

Take Up Rent Controls

Washington, April 25 (AP)—The Senate temporarily set aside the submerged lands bill at 10:50 a. m. today to take up the House-passed bill for the temporary extension of rent controls.

Experiment Flight Ends in Fire Crash

Crewmen of B-29 and Jet Die in Flames as Two Planes Are Lost

Westhampton, April 25 (AP)—A secret experimental flight by a B-29 Superfort and an F-84 Thunderjet ended in flaming disaster yesterday, with the two craft carrying all their six crewmen to death.

The planes, flying together when they suddenly burst into flames high above Long Island, apparently collided. However, investigators said no one on the ground actually saw them come into contact.

Air force spokesmen said the flight was of a "classified nature." The service denied an earlier report that the bomber was refueling the fighter in flight at the time of the crash. However, no other details of the mission were disclosed.

The pilot of the jet and the five men aboard the superfort were from the Wright Air Development Center at Dayton, O.

Both planes had taken off from a field at the Republic Aircraft Corp. in Farmingdale and winged eastward about 50 miles until they were over Great Peconic Bay, an arm of Long Island Sound cutting into the island about 100 miles from New York.

Crash Over Bay

It was while over the bay that they crashed, about an hour after their takeoff.

Witnesses on the ground said

Russians Flatly Reject Some of Ike's Conditions

Brinkley Held for Jury In Downtown Shooting

Richard Boggs Is Serious in Kingston Hospital From Shotgun Wounds in Back; Accused Man Tells DA He Bought Gun Same Afternoon

Ulie Brinkley, 32, of 7 West Strand, was arrested in Port Ewen early last night on a charge of first degree assault in the alleged shooting of Richard Eoggs, 31, of 3 Canal street, who was taken to Kingston Hospital in serious condition as the result of gunshot wounds in the back and stomach.

Brinkley waived examination before Judge Raymond J. Mino this morning and was held for the grand jury.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John, who was notified and arrived at the scene soon after the shooting, which was reported to city police at 6:35 p. m., said that sworn statements indicated Brinkley had stood in the doorway of his apartment at 7 West Strand and fired approximately 75 feet into his victim's back as Boggs was walking along Canal street toward Rondout Creek. Boggs fell in the street.

One shot was fired from a 12-gauge shotgun which, according to St. John, Brinkley had purchased on the afternoon of the shooting from Sam's Gun Store on North Front street. The district attorney said Brinkley had also bought five shells for the gun.

Both in Brawl Thursday

The shooting appeared to be the result of a grudge between the two men, St. John said, pointing out that they had been in a brawl Thursday night. Knives were taken from them at that time, he stated.

He said Brinkley was apparently not intoxicated at the time of the shooting.

Brinkley was arrested just south of Sior's Garage, Port Ewen, approximately an hour after the shooting following an intensive search by a large group of city and county police officers. The actual arrest was made by City Officers George Loughran and John Crespino.

Gun Found in Doorway

St. John said the gun was found in the doorway of the Brinkley's apartment at 7 West Strand.

It was reported at the hospital late this morning that Boggs was "still serious but slightly improved."

Dr. Sam Maroon, who treated him at the hospital last night, said that "two or three large fragments" appeared to have penetrated the back and stomach and that Boggs had lost a lot of blood. The lower intestine was perforated, he said, and the sacrum "badly shot."

Also assisting in the investigation last night was Assistant District Attorney James J. Abernethy, Lt. William J. Leonard, Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg, County Investigator Arthur Brown, Vincent Pretsch (official stenographer for the district attorney), City Officers James Burns and Ernest Bartroff, Special Officer Harold Bowers and Detective Frank Sammons.

Backers See Victory for Oil Measure

Morse Hits Bill in Long Speech of Opposition; Area CIO Council Is Appealing to Ives

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Backers today predicted victory without compromise for a bill to establish state ownership of offshore submerged lands—a bill against which Sen. Morse (Ind.-Ore.) talked around the clock for a Senate record.

Morse talked for 22 hours and 26 minutes, ending at 10.06 a. m., a speech he had started at 11:40 a. m. yesterday. His effort easily surpassed the mark set May 29-30, 1908 by the late Sen. Robert La-Follette, Sr., Wisconsin Progressive who held the floor for 18 hours and 23 minutes in a battle over a currency bill.

Local Opposition

Concerted opposition against the bill has been voiced by the Upper Hudson Area Industrial Union Council of the CIO which describes the tidelands issue as a "hundred billion dollar steal."

The Council, made up of CIO unions throughout the Mid-Hudson area, points out that Senator Herbert H. Lehman is leading the fight against what it describes as "the off-shore oil grab."

Mrs. Mabel Fisher of Kingston, the Council secretary, points out, however, that Senator Irving M. Ives of New York has "not lifted a finger to stop it. As of now," she says, "there is every reason to believe that he will give it his support.

The Council urges voters to contact Senator Ives and tell him their stand. New York state alone stands to lose more than four billion dollars in income, if the bill passes, Mrs. Fisher said.

Get President's Support

Proponents of state ownership had renewed support from President Eisenhower and one highly placed supporter of the measure said in an interview "There will be no compromise on this bill."

He predicted the long-talking opposition will be forced into submission next week.

Before the President spoke out yesterday, Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio said he was exploring the possibility of modifications in the legislation on which both sides could agree.

The President called for prompt passage of the bill and said he was "deeply concerned" over the delay of his legislative program caused by prolonged Senate debate entering its 18th day today.

Morse Stand

On the merits of the submerged lands bill, Morse said it was so worded as possibly to prevent the building of dams by the federal government on lands under navigable streams.

He noted that the bill prohibits "use" of such lands by the federal government.

Morse also criticized the indefinite provisions of the bill in defining state boundaries. He said the Senate should accept the

Nine years of outstanding 4-H Club work have brought to Hilda Sauer of Kyersike, the honor of being chosen National 4-H Holstein Achievement Champion. Hilda started by buying a registered pure-bred calf from another 4-H member at a special calf selection day. Now she has a small herd of her own, consisting mostly of descendants of the original project animal. Her best cow, on twice-a-day milking, produced 18,560 pounds of milk and 623 pounds of fat in a 305-day test.

Brewing Firm Is Negotiating for Tillson Building

Ballantines Would Use Bus Garage for Storage Purposes, Says Spokesman

P. Ballantine and Sons, brewing firm of Newark, N. J., is negotiating the purchase of a large fireproof plant at Tillson together with water rights for Rosendale village water, it was announced today.

The building, now used to house buses, is owned by the Rondout Valley Service Corporation, of which John Van Gonsic is president. It has a capacity of approximately 30 buses and is situated on a three-acre tract of land along Route 32 at Tillson.

Would Be for Storage

Included in the purchase is a large underground pipe line connecting with the Rosendale water system.

The building would be used at present as a distributing plant. Other plans may be announced.

The committee in charge of negotiations for the Ballantine firm consists of Frederick A. Gibbs, divisional branch manager; John Farrell, secretary; Frank Duer, transportation; H. Val Haley, news plants, and George Pfersh, construction engineer.

Represented by Attorneys

Preliminary negotiations were transacted on Friday in the office of John Van Gonsic, in the presence of Joseph Weishaupt, secretary, and Lawrence Van Gonsic, general manager of Adirondack Trailways.

Attorney George Rusk represents the Rondout Valley Service Corporation. Attorney Vincent G. Connelly represents the Ballantine firm under authorization of John Farrell, secretary.

Joseph F. Saccoman, local real estate broker, is handling the negotiations under the authority of Frederick A. Gibbs, divisional branch manager.

Saccoman said today he expects to have an announcement next week on the future plans of the Kingston building of the firm.

P. Ballantine and Sons at present maintain a distributing plant on Field Court in this city.

Police Drive 90 Miles An Hour After Auto

New York, April 25 (AP)—The driver of an automobile stolen from a New Jersey man led police cars through Manhattan streets today in a 90 mile an hour chase in which 14 shots were fired.

Forty police in 20 patrol cars participated in various stages of the pursuit that ended against a fence at York avenue and 75th street with the capture of one of two suspects.

The other escaped. He was believed wounded by police gunfire.

The arrested man identified himself as Robert Ringhardt, 39, a Brooklyn longshoreman on parole after serving four years of a seven and a half year sentence for robbery.

Police said the automobile, a two toned green Cadillac, was owned by Bernard Goldsmith, Berkeley Heights, N. J., and was stolen April 18. It was riddled with bullet holes and damaged from sideswiping patrol cars.

The police said the car, with two men in it, stopped at a filling station on 10th avenue near 53rd street before dawn. The men obtained gasoline, then held up the attendant, robbed him of $90, and drove off. A friend of the attendant telephoned police. Radio alarms sent the patrol cars into action.

A power plant fence halted the flight and the two men jumped from the car and ran in opposite directions.

Infantry Blasts Attacking Chinese

Almost 200 Are Killed in Two Bloody Hours of Bloody Fight

Seoul, April 25 (AP)—Grim U. S. infantrymen, using bayonets, rifle butts and hand grenades, cut down about one-third of a 500 to 750-man Communist force that smashed against allied lines in central Korea today.

Fifty Chinese attackers who jumped ino the American trenches were wiped out. In all, nearly 200 Reds were killed or wounded in three hours of bloody fighting, the Eighth Army said.

The rest of the Red attack force scurried for cover under withering fire from the Third U. S. Infantry Division.

The Reds hit an American outpost and nearby main line position just east of Jackson Heights about midnight.

The besieged American troops weathered a hail of 4,000 rounds of Red artillery and mortar fire during the battle.

Arillery Blocks Attempt

The Chinese tried twice to reinforce but a curtain of allied artillery fire blocked each attempt.

In the air, allied warplanes Friday had a busy day. Jet and propeller-driven attackers smashed at the Communists with 1,370 sorties (individual flights), turning Red ground targets into smoking ruins.

U. S. Sabre Jets shot down one Communist MIG jet and damaged three more, the air force reported.

Soviet Set For Serious Peace Talks

Red Press Raps Speech Made by President, Accuses Him of Atom War Threat

Moscow, April 25 (AP) — The Soviet Union agreed today to business-like discussion with the west on the great controversies troubling world peace but flatly rejected what appeared to be some conditions laid down by President Eisenhower.

The Russian agreement was outlined in a statement carried across the entire front pages of Moscow's principal newspapers—Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist Party's Central Committee, and Izvestia, the organ of the Supreme Soviet.

"The Soviet government will welcome any step of the American government or any other government if it is directed at the friendly settlement of difficult questions," the statement said.

"This is evidence," it continued, "of the readiness of the Soviet side for serious business-like discussions of outstanding problems."

The statement added, that the Russians would participate in direct conversations and, when necessary, in negotiations through the United Nations.

From Top Soviets

Although it was unsigned and entitled solely "on the address of President Eisenhower," it seemed clear from the wording that it was correct to call the article a statement by the leadership of the Soviet Union.

It was clearly and definitely an answer to President Eisenhower's April 16 speech.

(In that address, the President challenged the new Soviet government to prove its peace overtures by agreeing to global disarmament and taking concrete steps to end the tensions that threaten World War 3.

(Eisenhower said the first step toward peace must be the establishment of an honorable armistice in Korea, followed by political discussions leading to free elections in a United Korea. He also called for an end to Red aggression in Indo-China and Malaya, an Austrian peace treaty, unification of Germany and independence for the east European satellites of Russia.

(In Washington today, White House Press Secretary Jame A. Hagerty said there would be no comment until the full Pravda statement has been received by the U. S. government.)

Attacks President

The Soviet statement sharply attacked some things Eisenhower said and many things that U. S. Secretary of State Dulles has said since the President made his appeal in speaking before the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Referring directly to Eisenhower's remarks, the Soviet statement accused him of trying to threaten the USSR with atomic war.

(Eisenhower said the alterna-

"They started bringing in more wounded until there were 24 altogether within two weeks," he related. "Many of the wounded died. In fact, out of the 24, only three are living."

Allied planes strafed the area, he said, since there were no markings to show the UN captives were held there.

"They strafed us about a dozen times. I was grazed slightly in the back by a bullet."

Waited Two Months

Cpl. John King, 29, of Orlando, Fla., said he was captured April 25, 1951, but did not get into a prison camp until December, 1951.

He said he rode a truck the entire way. He was a member of the fifth regimental combat team of the 24th Infantry Division.

He said it was two months before he received any medical treatment. Then he underwent two operations.

He said he had been hit in the back, hip and stomach by shrapnel.

"All my operations were done by guesswork," he said. "They felt me with their fingers and if I sounded all right they said, 'we will cut here'."

King said that while in prison camp he could not get around.

"They carried me to the basketball games.

"I got a piece of shrapnel still in me which I will have taken out when I get out," he went on.

Afraid of Operation

King said he would not let the

Reds Give Additional Men to U. S.

16 More Servicemen Than Are Promised Get Freedom From Communists

Panmunjom, April 25 (AP)—Another 100 allied prisoners—including a bonus number of Americans, British and Turks—were freed today as the Communists kept their promise to continue the exchange of sick and wounded captives beyond the original limit.

The Reds said they would free 13 more Americans and 71 disabled South Koreans tomorrow as truce negotiators return to this neutral zone for the first full dress armistice talks since last Oct. 8.

17 Let Go Today

Seventeen Americans, four British, four Turks and 75 South Koreans came back today, bringing the total to the 600 the Reds said they would exchange in six days. But of the total:

136 were Americans—16 more than promised.

32 were British—12 more than promised.

15 were Turks—equal to the number of non-Koreans the Reds said they would exchange aside from British and Americans.

17 others included men from Colombia, Australia, Canada, South Africa, Greece, the Philippines and the Netherlands.

400 were South Koreans.

Both sides have said they would continue the exchange beyond the 600 originally pledged by the Reds and the 5,800 promised by the UN command.

Neither Side Talks

Neither side has said how many more it will trade, but some observers have speculated the exchange could go indefinitely.

The UN command proposed Friday that sick and wounded be exchanged continuously while hostilities continue. The Reds have not replied.

A South Korean lieutenant freed Saturday said the Communists hold "more than a thousand seriously sick and wounded South Korean prisoners" near Manpo in North Korea.

There were no litter cases among the Americans, British and Turks exchanged Saturday. Some limped slightly, but otherwise all appeared to be in fairly good physical condition.

The Americans included a navy fighter pilot, an air force enlisted man, four marines and 11 soldiers.

Everything Ready

The navy flier, Ens. Marvin S. Broomhead of Salt Lake City, was married six days before leaving for Korea in 1952. He said his Plane was shot down by Red anti-aircraft fire over northeast Korea Feb. 8, 1952, while he was flying from the carrier Valley Forge.

Everything was in readiness for the return of the top-level truce negotiators at 11 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. Saturday, EST). Originally scheduled for Saturday, the meeting was postponed one day at the Communists' request.

Only one major issue stands in the way of an armistice. The UN command refuses to return some 50,000 Chinese and North Korean prisoners who have said they do not want to go home. The Communists have insisted on the return of all prisoners of war.

Meanwhile, the UN prisoner of war command said Chinese prisoners on Cheju Island have turned on Red agitators inside their stockades in recent days. Fifteen agitators were beaten so severely that three died later, the command said.

Pro Communist and anti-Communist groups of prisoners have clashed frequently, but mostly Red strong-arm squads have had the upper hand.

Take Up Rent Controls

Washington, April 25 (AP)—The Senate temporarily set aside the submerged lands bill at 10:50 a. m. today to take up the House-passed bill for the temporary extension of rent controls.

Experiment Flight Ends in Fire Crash

Crewmen of B-29 and Jet Die in Flames as Two Planes Are Lost

Westhampton, April 25 (AP)—A secret experimental flight by a B-29 Superfort and an F-84 Thunderjet ended in flaming disaster yesterday, with the two craft carrying all their six crewmen to death.

The planes, flying together when they suddenly burst into flames high above Long Island, apparently collided. However, investigators said no one on the ground actually saw them come into contact.

Air force spokesmen said the flight was of a "classified nature." The service denied an earlier report that the bomber was refueling the fighter in flight at the time of the crash. However, no other details of the mission were disclosed.

The pilot of the jet and the five men aboard the superfort were from the Wright Air Development Center at Dayton, O.

Both planes had taken off from a field at the Republic Aircraft Corp. in Farmingdale and winged eastward about 50 miles until they were over Great Peconic Bay, an arm of Long Island Sound cutting into the island about 100 miles from New York.

Crash Over Bay

It was while over the bay that they crashed, about an hour after their takeoff.

Witnesses on the ground said

Richard Boggs Is Serious in Kingston Hospital From Shotgun Wounds in Back; Accused Man Tells DA He Bought Gun Same Afternoon

Ulie Brinkley, 32, of 7 West Strand, was arrested in Port Ewen early last night on a charge of first degree assault in the alleged shooting of Richard Eoggs, 31, of 3 Canal street, who was taken to Kingston Hospital in serious condition as the result of gunshot wounds in the back and stomach.

Brinkley waived examination before Judge Raymond J. Mino this morning and was held for the grand jury.

District Attorney Howard C. St. John, who was notified and arrived at the scene soon after the shooting, which was reported to city police at 6:35 p. m., said that sworn statements indicated Brinkley had stood in the doorway of his apartment at 7 West Strand and fired approximately 75 feet into his victim's back as Boggs was walking along Canal street toward Rondout Creek. Boggs fell in the street.

One shot was fired from a 12-gauge shotgun which, according to St. John, Brinkley had purchased on the afternoon of the shooting from Sam's Gun Store on North Front street. The district attorney said Brinkley had also bought five shells for the gun.

Both in Brawl Thursday

The shooting appeared to be the result of a grudge between the two men, St. John said, pointing out that they had been in a brawl Thursday night. Knives were taken from them at that time, he stated.

He said Brinkley was apparently not intoxicated at the time of the shooting.

Brinkley was arrested just south of Sior's Garage, Port Ewen, approximately an hour after the shooting following an intensive search by a large group of city and county police officers. The actual arrest was made by City Officers George Loughran and John Crespino.

Gun Found in Doorway

St. John said the gun was found in the doorway of the Brinkley's apartment at 7 West Strand.

It was reported at the hospital late this morning that Boggs was "still serious but slightly improved."

Dr. Sam Maroon, who treated him at the hospital last night, said that "two or three large fragments" appeared to have penetrated the back and stomach and that Boggs had lost a lot of blood. The lower intestine was perforated, he said, and the sacrum "badly shot."

Also assisting in the investigation last night was Assistant District Attorney James J. Abernethy, Lt. William J. Leonard, Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg, County Investigator Arthur Brown, Vincent Pretsch (official stenographer for the district attorney), City Officers James Burns and Ernest Bartroff, Special Officer Harold Bowers and Detective Frank Sammons.

Backers See Victory for Oil Measure

Morse Hits Bill in Long Speech of Opposition; Area CIO Council Is Appealing to Ives

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Backers today predicted victory without compromise for a bill to establish state ownership of offshore submerged lands—a bill against which Sen. Morse (Ind.-Ore.) talked around the clock for a Senate record.

Morse talked for 22 hours and 26 minutes, ending at 10.06 a. m., a speech he had started at 11:40 a. m. yesterday. His effort easily surpassed the mark set May 29-30, 1908 by the late Sen. Robert LaFollette, Sr., Wisconsin Progressive who held the floor for 18 hours and 23 minutes in a battle over a currency bill.

Local Opposition

Concerted opposition against the bill has been voiced by the Upper Hudson Area Industrial Union Council of the CIO which describes the tidelands issue as a "hundred billion dollar steal."

The Council, made up of CIO unions throughout the Mid-Hudson area, points out that Senator Herbert H. Lehman is leading the fight against what it describes as "the off-shore oil grab."

Mrs. Mabel Fisher of Kingston, the Council secretary, points out, however, that Senator Irving M. Ives of New York has "not lifted a finger to stop it. As of now," she says, "there is every reason to believe that he will give it his support.

The Council urges voters to contact Senator Ives and tell him their stand. New York state alone stands to lose more than four billion dollars in income, if the bill passes, Mrs. Fisher said.

Get President's Support

Proponents of state ownership had renewed support from President Eisenhower and one highly placed supporter of the measure said in an interview "There will be no compromise on this bill."

He predicted the long-talking opposition will be forced into submission next week.

Before the President spoke out yesterday, Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio said he was exploring the possibility of modifications in the legislation on which both sides could agree.

The President called for prompt passage of the bill and said he was "deeply concerned" over the delay of his legislative program caused by prolonged Senate debate entering its 18th day today.

Morse Stand

On the merits of the submerged lands bill, Morse said it was so worded as possibly to prevent the building of dams by the federal government on lands under navigable streams.

He noted that the bill prohibits "use" of such lands by the federal government.

Morse also criticized the indefinite provisions of the bill in defining state boundaries. He said the Senate should accept the

Ballantines Would Use Bus Garage for Storage Purposes, Says Spokesman

P. Ballantine and Sons, brewing firm of Newark, N. J., is negotiating the purchase of a large fireproof plant at Tillson together with water rights for Rosendale village water, it was announced today.

The building, now used to house buses, is owned by the Rondout Valley Service Corporation, of which John Van Gonsic is president. It has a capacity of approximately 30 buses and is situated on a three-acre tract of land along Route 32 at Tillson.

Would Be for Storage

Included in the purchase is a large underground pipe line connecting with the Rosendale water system.

The building would be used at present as a distributing plant. Other plans may be announced.

The committee in charge of negotiations for the Ballantine firm consists of Frederick A. Gibbs, divisional branch manager; John Farrell, secretary; Frank Duer, transportation; H. Val Haley, news plants, and George Pfersh, construction engineer.

Represented by Attorneys

Preliminary negotiations were transacted on Friday in the office of John Van Gonsic, in the presence of Joseph Weishaupt, secretary, and Lawrence Van Gonsic, general manager of Adirondack Trailways.

Attorney George Rusk represents the Rondout Valley Service Corporation. Attorney Vincent G. Connelly represents the Ballantine firm under authorization of John Farrell, secretary.

Joseph F. Saccoman, local real estate broker, is handling the negotiations under the authority of Frederick A. Gibbs, divisional branch manager.

Saccoman said today he expects to have an announcement next week on the future plans of the Kingston building of the firm.

P. Ballantine and Sons at present maintain a distributing plant on Field Court in this city.

Police Drive 90 Miles An Hour After Auto

New York, April 25 (AP)—The driver of an automobile stolen from a New Jersey man led police cars through Manhattan streets today in a 90 mile an hour chase in which 14 shots were fired.

Forty police in 20 patrol cars participated in various stages of the pursuit that ended against a fence at York avenue and 75th street with the capture of one of two suspects.

The other escaped. He was believed wounded by police gunfire.

The arrested man identified himself as Robert Ringhardt, 39, a Brooklyn longshoreman on parole after serving four years of a seven and a half year sentence for robbery.

Police said the automobile, a two toned green Cadillac, was owned by Bernard Goldsmith, Berkeley Heights, N. J., and was stolen April 18. It was riddled with bullet holes and damaged from sideswiping patrol cars.

The police said the car, with two men in it, stopped at a filling station on 10th avenue near 53rd street before dawn. The men obtained gasoline, then held up the attendant, robbed him of $90, and drove off. A friend of the attendant telephoned police. Radio alarms sent the patrol cars into action.

A power plant fence halted the flight and the two men jumped from the car and ran in opposite directions.

Soviet Set For Serious Peace Talks

Red Press Raps Speech Made by President, Accuses Him of Atom War Threat

Moscow, April 25 (AP) — The Soviet Union agreed today to business-like discussion with the west on the great controversies troubling world peace but flatly rejected what appeared to be some conditions laid down by President Eisenhower.

The Russian agreement was outlined in a statement carried across the entire front pages of Moscow's principal newspapers—Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist Party's Central Committee, and Izvestia, the organ of the Supreme Soviet.

"The Soviet government will welcome any step of the American government or any other government if it is directed at the friendly settlement of difficult questions.," the statement said.

"This is evidence," it continued, "of the readiness of the Soviet side for serious business-like discussions of outstanding problems."

The statement added, that the Russians would participate in direct conversations and, when necessary, in negotiations through the United Nations.

From Top Soviets

Although it was unsigned and entitled solely "on the address of President Eisenhower," it seemed clear from the wording that it was correct to call the article a statement by the leadership of the Soviet Union.

It was clearly and definitely an answer to President Eisenhower's April 16 speech.

(In that address, the President challenged the new Soviet government to prove its peace overtures by agreeing to global disarmament and taking concrete steps to end the tensions that threaten World War 3.

(Eisenhower said the first step toward peace must be the establishment of an honorable armistice in Korea, followed by political discussions leading to free elections in a United Korea. He also called for an end to Red aggression in Indo-China and Malaya, an Austrian peace treaty, unification of Germany and independence for the east European satellites of Russia.

(In Washington today, White House Press Secretary Jame A. Hagerty said there would be no comment until the full Pravda statement has been received by the U. S. government.)

Attacks President

The Soviet statement sharply attacked some things Eisenhower said and many things that U. S. Secretary of State Dulles has said since the President made his appeal in speaking before the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Referring directly to Eisenhower's remarks, the Soviet statement accused him of trying to threaten the USSR with atomic war.

(Eisenhower said the alterna-

Infantry Blasts Attacking Chinese

Almost 200 Are Killed in Two Bloody Hours of Bloody Fight

Seoul, April 25 (AP)—Grim U. S. infantrymen, using bayonets, rifle butts and hand grenades, cut down about one-third of a 500 to 750-man Communist force that smashed against allied lines in central Korea today.

Fifty Chinese attackers who jumped ino the American trenches were wiped out. In all, nearly 200 Reds were killed or wounded in three hours of bloody fighting, the Eighth Army said.

The rest of the Red attack force scurried for cover under withering fire from the Third U. S. Infantry Division.

The Reds hit an American outpost and nearby main line position just east of Jackson Heights about midnight.

The besieged American troops weathered a hail of 4,000 rounds of Red artillery and mortar fire during the battle.

Arillery Blocks Attempt

The Chinese tried twice to reinforce but a curtain of allied artillery fire blocked each attempt.

In the air, allied warplanes Friday had a busy day. Jet and propeller-driven attackers smashed at the Communists with 1,370 sorties (individual flights), turning Red ground targets into smoking ruins.

U. S. Sabre Jets shot down one Communist MIG jet and damaged three more, the air force reported.

Kyserike Girl Is National Champ

Nine years of outstanding 4-H Club work have brought to Hilda Sauer of Kyersike, the honor of being chosen National 4-H Holstein Achievement Champion. Hilda started by buying a registered pure-bred calf from another 4-H member at a special calf selection day. Now she has a small herd of her own, consisting mostly of descendants of the original project animal. Her best cow, on twice-a-day milking, produced 18,560 pounds of milk and 623 pounds of fat in a 305-day test.

Your Life and Mine

by CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

GOING AROUND IN CIRCLES

A few years ago Hy Gardner told about Ed Wynn's four-way hair-growing formula. It went like this. The first capsule grew hair over night, but left the patient with a weak heart. The second capsule cured the heart condition but loosened the teeth. The third tightened the teeth but left one eye blind. The fourth restored the sight but brought the baldness back.

So much of our living is after that pattern. We go through motions that bring us out just about where we started. Instead of venturing out into the explorative areas of some real neighborliness we are content to make the same old rounds of a nodding acquaintance—and nothing more. We don't want to get too friendly for fear our venture of friendliness may get too demanding—so we choose the infertile, frigid routines instead.

Nothing takes the tuck out of the human spirit like the barren experience of forever going around in circles. Someone has said that the roads which lead nowhere are hard to build. And living that gets us nowhere is a disheartening process, too. One trouble with journeys that follow the pattern of the circle is that the spirit of adventure is slain thereby. Allowing for the fact that the merry-go-round is a symbol of childish glee; it is a pretty poor symbol for life. We get off where we got on—and, in life, that is exactly what we were never meant to do.

John Harsen Rhoades has given us a list of eight "do-mores" which, if followed, will help us to avoid the perils as well as the dissatisfactions of circuitous living. "Do more than exist—live. Do more than touch—feel. Do more than look—observe. Do more than read—absorb. Do more than hear—listen. Do more than listen—understand. Do more than think—ponder. Do more than talk—say something."

Edward Rowland Sill had caught the challenge of getting and keeping out of the circuitous rut when he wrote:

"Forenoon and afternoon and night,—Forenoon
And afternoon and night,—Forenoon and—What!
The empty song repeats itself.
No more?
Yea, that is Life. Make this forenoon sublime,
This afternoon a psalm, this night a prayer,
And Time is conquered, and thy crown is won."

Ackerly Directing Gospel Barn Work

Morton E. Ackerly, a former Kingstonian, is directing the work at the Gospel Barn, Harmony, Pa.

Born in Easton, Pa., in 1908, Ackerly at an early age moved to Kingston and graduated from Kingston High School. His mother, Mrs. E. R. Ackerly, lives on Fair street, this city.

After his graduation from high school, Ackerly attended Lafayette College, graduating in 1935. Since that time he served as missionary evangelist. He received his Th.M. degree from Dallas Theological Seminary, a non-denominational institution in Dallas, Tex., in 1939. He has served as missionary evangelist and Bible teacher in New York, Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico and in Mexico. In Harmony, he is establishing another New Testament-patterned church at the Gospel Barn, and a Bible Conference center.

Ackerley's father, grandfather and great grandfather were all preachers of the Gospel, the latter being a circuit rider.

ELLENVILLE NEWS

Lathrop Is Elected Savings Bank Head

Ellenville, April 24—Francis H. Lathrop, secretary and treasurer of the Ellenville Savings Bank since 1945, has been elected president of the 84-year-old institution following the resignation of Henry F. Hoornbeek, it was announced this week.

At the same time, it was announced that Charles F. Kaiser, Jr., had been elected secretary, and Floyd Howe, teller, and an employe of the bank for 32 years, had been promoted to treasurer. Hoornbeek's seat on the board of trustees of the bank probably will be filled at the June meeting, it was indicated.

Lathrop became affiliated with the bank, which is the largest and oldest savings bank in the county outside of the city of Kingston, June 1, 1934, after being previously employed by the Manufacturers Trust Company in New York.

Lathrop whose father, John K. Lathrop, was trustee of the Ellenville Savings Bank for 17 years, and who was president of the Kerhonkson National Bank at the time of his death in 1948, entered the banking field following his graduation from Dartmouth in 1932.

Howe, the new treasurer, joined the staff of the bank December 1, 1920. A native of this village he is a graduate of Ellenville High School, a former village trustee, and a vestryman, of St. John's Memorial Church.

Hoornbeek whose resignation as president and trustee, was "regretfully accepted" by the board, had headed the bank since 1945 and had been affiliated with it since November 17, 1900.

He was elected treasurer in 1906, secretary in 1924 and succeeded C. Dwight Divine as president in 1945. Dean in Ellenville banking circles, he was feted by the bank's board of trustees at a golden anniversary dinner in his honor Nov. 15, 1950.

Lathrop becomes the bank's 10th president. The bank which was founded June 1, 1869 has paid out over five and a half million dollars in dividends to its depositors and now has total assets of over $10,000,000.

Drop Squeezes Broilers

Raliegh, N. C. (AP) — The general drop in farm prices has resulted in North Carolina broilers selling at or near the break-even point. Broilers which cost 24 or 25 cents a pound to produce are now bringing in 26 cents a pound, says a North Carolina State College poultry marketing specialist. Charles W. Williams says competition from other broiler areas and the drop in beef prices are largely responsible. He advocates more efficient broiler production as the best way to combat the situation.

Your Life and Mine

by CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

GOING AROUND IN CIRCLES

A few years ago Hy Gardner told about Ed Wynn's four-way hair-growing formula. It went like this. The first capsule grew hair over night, but left the patient with a weak heart. The second capsule cured the heart condition but loosened the teeth. The third tightened the teeth but left one eye blind. The fourth restored the sight but brought the baldness back.

So much of our living is after that pattern. We go through motions that bring us out just about where we started. Instead of venturing out into the explorative areas of some real neighborliness we are content to make the same old rounds of a nodding acquaintance—and nothing more. We don't want to get too friendly for fear our venture of friendliness may get too demanding—so we choose the infertile, frigid routines instead.

Nothing takes the tuck out of the human spirit like the barren experience of forever going around in circles. Someone has said that the roads which lead nowhere are hard to build. And living that gets us nowhere is a disheartening process, too. One trouble with journeys that follow the pattern of the circle is that the spirit of adventure is slain thereby. Allowing for the fact that the merry-go-round is a symbol of childish glee; it is a pretty poor symbol for life. We get off where we got on—and, in life, that is exactly what we were never meant to do.

John Harsen Rhoades has given us a list of eight "do-mores" which, if followed, will help us to avoid the perils as well as the dissatisfactions of circuitous living. "Do more than exist—live. Do more than touch—feel. Do more than look—observe. Do more than read—absorb. Do more than hear—listen. Do more than listen—understand. Do more than think—ponder. Do more than talk—say something."

Edward Rowland Sill had caught the challenge of getting and keeping out of the circuitous rut when he wrote:

"Forenoon and afternoon and night,—Forenoon
And afternoon and night,—Forenoon and—What!
The empty song repeats itself.
No more?
Yea, that is Life. Make this forenoon sublime,
This afternoon a psalm, this night a prayer,
And Time is conquered, and thy crown is won."

Ackerly Directing Gospel Barn Work

Morton E. Ackerly, a former Kingstonian, is directing the work at the Gospel Barn, Harmony, Pa.

Born in Easton, Pa., in 1908, Ackerly at an early age moved to Kingston and graduated from Kingston High School. His mother, Mrs. E. R. Ackerly, lives on Fair street, this city.

After his graduation from high school, Ackerly attended Lafayette College, graduating in 1935. Since that time he served as missionary evangelist. He received his Th.M. degree from Dallas Theological Seminary, a non-denominational institution in Dallas, Tex., in 1939. He has served as missionary evangelist and Bible teacher in New York, Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico and in Mexico. In Harmony, he is establishing another New Testament-patterned church at the Gospel Barn, and a Bible Conference center.

Ackerley's father, grandfather and great grandfather were all preachers of the Gospel, the latter being a circuit rider.

Lathrop Is Elected Savings Bank Head

Ellenville, April 24—Francis H. Lathrop, secretary and treasurer of the Ellenville Savings Bank since 1945, has been elected president of the 84-year-old institution following the resignation of Henry F. Hoornbeek, it was announced this week.

At the same time, it was announced that Charles F. Kaiser, Jr., had been elected secretary, and Floyd Howe, teller, and an employe of the bank for 32 years, had been promoted to treasurer. Hoornbeek's seat on the board of trustees of the bank probably will be filled at the June meeting, it was indicated.

Lathrop became affiliated with the bank, which is the largest and oldest savings bank in the county outside of the city of Kingston, June 1, 1934, after being previously employed by the Manufacturers Trust Company in New York.

Lathrop whose father, John K. Lathrop, was trustee of the Ellenville Savings Bank for 17 years, and who was president of the Kerhonkson National Bank at the time of his death in 1948, entered the banking field following his graduation from Dartmouth in 1932.

Howe, the new treasurer, joined the staff of the bank December 1, 1920. A native of this village he is a graduate of Ellenville High School, a former village trustee, and a vestryman, of St. John's Memorial Church.

Hoornbeek whose resignation as president and trustee, was "regretfully accepted" by the board, had headed the bank since 1945 and had been affiliated with it since November 17, 1900.

He was elected treasurer in 1906, secretary in 1924 and succeeded C. Dwight Divine as president in 1945. Dean in Ellenville banking circles, he was feted by the bank's board of trustees at a golden anniversary dinner in his honor Nov. 15, 1950.

Lathrop becomes the bank's 10th president. The bank which was founded June 1, 1869 has paid out over five and a half million dollars in dividends to its depositors and now has total assets of over $10,000,000.

Jerry Laks and Allen Feinsilver, who spent a 10-day vacation with their families here have returned to St. Lawrence University at Canton.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Campbell and family visited their families in New York for a few days.

Attorney and Mrs. Raymond G. Cox had as Sunday visitors their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelly, of Monticello.

Harold R. Rollin, who was employed as an engineer by the New York City Board of Water Supply for five years, has resigned to accept a position with the New York State Department of Public Works.

Miss Celia Wilhelm, who is still a patient in the local hospital, is improving slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Collins of Greenwich are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. George Mitteer on Circle avenue. Mrs. Mitteer is improving slowly after a major operation at the hospital recently.

Mrs. William Schiff and children David and Laurel, of Brooklyn, have been spending the past week with the children's grandmother, Mrs. Lillian Schiff. Mr. Schiff spent the weekend here and upon his return was accompanied by his family.

Drop Squeezes Broilers

Raliegh, N. C. (AP) — The general drop in farm prices has resulted in North Carolina broilers selling at or near the break-even point. Broilers which cost 24 or 25 cents a pound to produce are now bringing in 26 cents a pound, says a North Carolina State College poultry marketing specialist. Charles W. Williams says competition from other broiler areas and the drop in beef prices are largely responsible. He advocates more efficient broiler production as the best way to combat the situation.

Worn Screw Holes Are Fixed Easily

A common annoyance around a home is the frequency with which screws become loosened, especially those holding hinges or other moving devices.

Most satisfactory way to overcome this, if the worn screw hole is large, is to cut a wooden peg to fit the hole, coat it with wood glue and drive the peg firmly into the hole. After the glue has set, cut off any portion of the peg projecting above the surface and drive the screw into it. Plastic wood packed tightly into the hole serves in the same manner, but this material must be allowed to harden for 24 hours.

If the screw hole is small, steel wool worked into the opening will provide a holding surface for the screw when it is driven back into the hole.

When the wood is thick enough, substitute a longer or slightly thicker screw. The extra or wider threads wil bite into new wood and hold fast.

Substitute for Asphalt

Little, if any, natural asphalt is used now in the manufacture of asphalt roofing. The material with which it is impregnated is obtained mostly from the petroleum industry. Known as "asphalt flux", this oil is highly refined before it goes into the making of asphalt shingles and other roofing products.

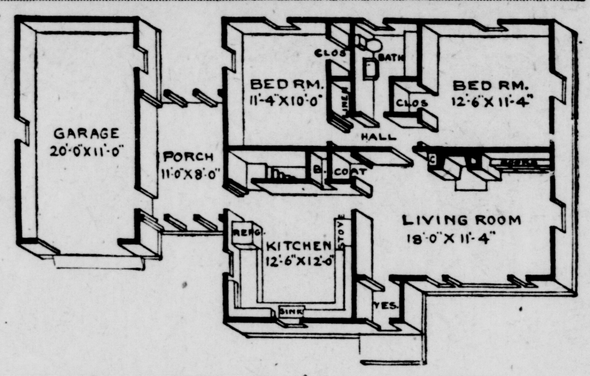
THE FLEMING



Termites Chew Up Millions of Dollars

The lowly termite's daily diet is limited but his terrific appetite for wood is costing the American home owners millions of dollars annually.

No definite figures on the yearly cost of feeding the little white ant are available, but estimates by qualified experts place the property loss between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000.

Wider use of such termite-proof materials as clay wall and floor tile in construction of new homes, the Tile Council of America suggests, would help reduce this loss considerably and make many of the following preventive steps unnecessary:

1. Don't let wood parts of the house contact the ground.
2. Keep property well drained, as termites thrive on moisture. Clay tile floors, impervious to all insects, are practically a must in costal areas, southern climes and regions where moisture is heavy.
3. Eliminate all loose wood from property, since termite colonies originate out-of-doors.
4. To locate termites, which feed beneath the surface, drill holes in suspicious-looking wood.
5. Put turned-down-metal guards between sill and foundations to prevent termites from tunneling near the surface of masonry to reach wood.

Architects Debate Value of Fireplace

The question—Is the fireplace in the American home a thing of the past?—divided a recent convention of architects. One opinion expressed was that a fireplace is "dirty, old and the most costly and useless item" in the home.

Thomas H. Creighton, editor of an architectural magazine, asserted, "Liking to sit around a fire is almost inherited. We shouldn't destroy it merely because we want to think as intellectuals."

Another criticism of functionalism is made by Pietro Belluschi, dean of the Massachuetts Institute of Technology school of architecture and planning. He said visual and emotional beauty were as important as function in building.

Walking on Roof To Patch It Can Add More Leaks

The act of patching a roof often results in more leaks than existed before repair work was started. This is one of the little undersood reasons for completely recovering a weatherbeaten roof instead of patching it.

Accidental splitting or puncturing of old, worn roofing is difficult to avoid when the roof is used as a work platform. The possibility of damage is great because the roof has been weakened by years of service. Patching a leak is recommended only when the roof is relatively new and the damage is localized — a leak caused by a falling tree branch, for example. Otherwise, patching may be ineffective, because roofing wears evenly and the first leak indicates that others will develop soon.

Storage Space In New Home

Just what storage space should you have in a new house, or will you have to have as your family grows? Experience has taught many householders that the following, with little variation, is about the minimum for convenience.

Without this much space, you might as well decide to give away things not in use or build closeting to hold them.

1—An extra closet under the stairway.
2—A linen closet in a room corner.
3—A wardrobe in a bedroom or attic. The latter is excellent for storing out-of-season garments.
4—In the garage, a corner cabinets for garden tools.
5—In the garage or basement, next-to-wall places for snow shovels and ice choppers.
6—Any convenient place, a container for galoshes and rubbers.
7—A shed for bicycles. This could be a lean-to back of the garage.
8—At the summer cottage, a mouse-proof cabine for bed linen and mattresses. Line it with metal screening.
9—For all those extra shoes which are worn only occasionally, a rack inside the closet wall or door.
10—For canning supplies and seldom-used dishes, a wall cabinet high and out of the way.

Color Scheme Gives Character to Kitchen

An attractive kitchen-dinette combines gleaming white enameled walls, ceiling, woodwork and appliances with natural wood cabinets, a rose-red brick section surrounding the stove, and a copper stove-hood.

The linoleum floor covering simulates random-width flooring while the round table, with a built-in "Lazy Susan," is surrounded by Windsor chairs.

The furniture is finished with a walnut stain that is slightly deeper in tone than the floor covering. Counter tops are a rich green, and copper utensils serve as useful decoration.

Combines Charm And Comfort

Rooms	Four
Closets	Five
Cubage	16,500 ft.
Dimensions	32' x 24'

An abundance of windows makes the house seem larger than it actually is; they also dress up both the exterior and interior appearance of "The Fleming." Just about any type of exterior finish can be used with equally successful and attractive results.

The house proper measures 32' x 24', cubage of the house is 16,500 feet. The garage has a cubage of 3600 feet. If desired, a detached garage can be constructed in place of the attached one specified; then, the porchway can be eliminated.

Two most attractive features of the living room are the handsome fireplace and the built-in bookshelves; together they effectively dress-up the back wall of the room. Although decorative, both fireplace and bookshelves are also highly practical and much desired in any home.

A relatively new idea in home planning, and one that is steadily gaining in popularity, is to locate the kitchen in the front part of the house. Then, as in "The Fleming," the bedrooms can be placed in the rear and quieter section of the house.

While no specific area is set apart in the kitchen for a breakfast nook, the room is of ample size to provide plenty of space for family meals. For more formal occasions, the living room can do double duty.

If the lady of the house prefers a first floor laundry to one in the basement, the 11' x 8' porch, connecting the garage and the house proper, can be transformed into a utility room. Provide a door in the back wall for easy access to the yard.

Large closets in both bedrooms, plus a spacious linen closet, a good sized broom closet and a general-purpose coat closet provide the family that builds "The Fleming" with a generous amount of centrally located storage space. Additional storage space is, of course, also available in the full cement basement.

Heating equipment should be placed under the living room. And, if the laundry is to be located in the basement, it should be installed under the kitchen or bedroom.

Decorating Pointers For Small Bedroom

Small bedrooms, characteristic of the small homes being built today, can be given an air of greater spaciousness by following a few suggestions for planning the decorative scheme.

Paint the walls and woodwork the same light shade and finish. Or if papering the walls, select a wallpaper with a small pattern and paint the woodwork the background color of the paper.

Cover the floor with a solid color wall-to-wall carpeting.

Select only the pieces of furniture essential to comfort and convenience, keeping in mind that simple design and light wood finishes will make the room look larger.

Do not clutter the room with too much pattern. Enough can be brought into the scheme with the draperies, lamps, pictures or other decorative accessories.

Transplanting Lilies

Where lilies have to be moved in the home garden there is no better time than when the foliage begins to disintegrate. At that time the exact position of each bulb is known and the danger of accidentally damaging them with the spade or fork is reduced to a minimum. Handle them carefully, taking along all possible feeding roots located at the base. Replant without delay, but if that is not possible, cover well with damp soil until they are planted again.

Home Buyers Under 40 Are On Safe Side

Families should make their plans early and start buying a home before they reach the age of 40, says Conrad P. Harness, public relations director of the National Association of Home Builders.

In an interview on the national radio show, "Housing Headlines" Harness pointed out that those who buy before the age of 40 will have their homes free and clear of debt by the time they reach the retirement age of 65. Then, he asserted, they will find it easier to stretch their social security benefits, which amount to a present national average of $43 a person, or $69 per couple.

Anybody who had to pay rent or meet a mortgage on this annuity would have a tough time, the NAHB official continued. But those who have an assured place in which to live in retirement can stretch that social security income much farther.

Mr. Harness added that much younger families are purchasing homes today, the average age being 31. This, he attributed partly to World War 2, which raised marriage rates, to the increased prosperity of the average worker and the home loan provisions of the GI Bill.

Plan Child's Room To Grow With Him

One of the most perplexing problems of parents is how to periodically change the decor of a child's room as he grows from one stage to another without involving too much expense. It's common wail among parents that "just as soon as I get the nursery finished, he's outgrown it, and I no sooner get it redecorated than he's a teen ager and thinks his new room is "juvenile."

The solution is to plan a room that will grow from the toddler to teenage size with as few major changes as possible. By planning from the beginning, this can be accomplished with a few additions as the child grows older — thus saving the expense and trouble of complete redecorating jobs.

Decorative Schemes For Clothes Closets

Decorative schemes for clothes closets are as varied as for rooms. If paper or fabric is used to line the closets be sure it is of a washable type. If ordinary wallpaper is used protect it with clear lacquer for easy cleaning. Quilted fabrics are popular for linen and clothes closets. They are available in easy cleaned fabrics with shelf edgings to match.

The decorative scheme should be carried out in hangers, garment bags, boxes, hat stands, and all accessories used in the closet. Accessories include transport plastic garment bags that are dustproof and permit their contents to be found without loss of time. Glass shelves above the hangers also show at a glance what is up there. All such materials add sparkle and charm to a closet.

Camouflages Filing Cases in the Home

The filing of papers and reference material usually presents a puzzling problem to the householder. One man who does at home a great deal of his professional work, which involves the filing of letters, papers and drawings, recently solved the problem by buying two second-hand golden oak commercial filing cases and removing the metal hardware. Instead, strong but attractive wooden knobs were used as drawer pulls. Then, placing the files parallel with the wall — on either side of the double door leading from his study to the living room —he had a carpenter build bookcases on the sides.

Enameled to match the woodwork, the filing cabinets now disappear almost completely into the background of the room.

Time to Paint Furnace

While heating equipment is shut down for the summer, all doors, pipes and iron portions should be checked to see if they need to be repainted. Cellar dampness may cause trouble unless this is done.

Urge Fire-Resistant Materials in Cellar

Since most home fires start in the basement, fire hazards for the whole house can be reduced by incorporating fire-resistant materials in the basement.

As the ceiling is especially vulnerable, it should be of plaster, gypsum board or other fire-resistant material. Even in an unfinished basement, the ceiling above the heating unit should have this protection.

In partitioning off the heating plant from the rest of a finished basement, only fire-resistant materials should be used. These cost no more than combustible materials, but will prevent fire spreading should the furnace develop defects or become overheated.

Because flames rush up stairwells with lightning speed, a metal door, or solid wood door clad with metal, and equipped with a self-closing device so that it will not be left open inadvertently, should be provided at the foot of the stairway.

One of the most perplexing problems of parents is how to periodically change the decor of a child's room as he grows from one stage to another without involving too much expense. It's common wail among parents that "just as soon as I get the nursery finished, he's outgrown it, and I no sooner get it redecorated than he's a teen ager and thinks his new room is "juvenile."

The solution is to plan a room that will grow from the toddler to teenage size with as few major changes as possible. By planning from the beginning, this can be accomplished with a few additions as the child grows older — thus saving the expense and trouble of complete redecorating jobs.

Decorative Schemes For Clothes Closets

Decorative schemes for clothes closets are as varied as for rooms. If paper or fabric is used to line the closets be sure it is of a washable type. If ordinary wallpaper is used protect it with clear lacquer for easy cleaning. Quilted fabrics are popular for linen and clothes closets. They are available in easy cleaned fabrics with shelf edgings to match.

The decorative scheme should be carried out in hangers, garment bags, boxes, hat stands, and all accessories used in the closet. Accessories include transport plastic garment bags that are dustproof and permit their contents to be found without loss of time. Glass shelves above the hangers also show at a glance what is up there. All such materials add sparkle and charm to a closet.

Camouflages Filing Cases in the Home

The filing of papers and reference material usually presents a puzzling problem to the householder. One man who does at home a great deal of his professional work, which involves the filing of letters, papers and drawings, recently solved the problem by buying two second-hand golden oak commercial filing cases and removing the metal hardware. Instead, strong but attractive wooden knobs were used as drawer pulls. Then, placing the files parallel with the wall — on either side of the double door leading from his study to the living room —he had a carpenter build bookcases on the sides.

Enameled to match the woodwork, the filing cabinets now disappear almost completely into the background of the room.

Time to Paint Furnace

While heating equipment is shut down for the summer, all doors, pipes and iron portions should be checked to see if they need to be repainted. Cellar dampness may cause trouble unless this is done.

Urge Fire-Resistant Materials in Cellar

Since most home fires start in the basement, fire hazards for the whole house can be reduced by incorporating fire-resistant materials in the basement.

As the ceiling is especially vulnerable, it should be of plaster, gypsum board or other fire-resistant material. Even in an unfinished basement, the ceiling above the heating unit should have this protection.

In partitioning off the heating plant from the rest of a finished basement, only fire-resistant materials should be used. These cost no more than combustible materials, but will prevent fire spreading should the furnace develop defects or become overheated.

Because flames rush up stairwells with lightning speed, a metal door, or solid wood door clad with metal, and equipped with a self-closing device so that it will not be left open inadvertently, should be provided at the foot of the stairway.

FREE WORLD INITIATIVE

President Eisenhower plainly understands the importance of restoring the initiative to the free world in its great struggle with the Soviet Union. He is acting to press a western counter-offensive to take the play out of the hands of the Kremlin.

That is the underlying meaning of his first major speech since Stalin's death, and of the moves the President has made since the talk.

It would have been of extreme value had Mr. Eisenhower merely called the Russians to account on their own peace offensive by demanding deeds instead of words. He did that, but he went beyond. And there it was that he sought to seize the initiative.

He not only bid Moscow to act, but he told them in what directions they ought to act if they mean business.

He called for a Korean settlement that would produce a free and united Korea. He asked for the Reds' long overdue signature on an Austrian peace treaty. He spoke of uniting Germany through free elections. He laid out the prospect of a general Far Eastern settlement that would see an end as well to Red-inspired hostilities in Indo-China and Malaya.

In all these realms, the Kremlin is either actively pursuing aggressive combat or is vigorously blocking settlements which would have distasteful consequences. The Reds are accustomed to putting forth phony appeals for peace in these areas, always, of course, on impossible terms.

Mr. Eisenhower has set down his own appeals this time, in the name of the United States and the whole free community. Terms he has indicated only broadly, but he has unmistakably rejected at the outset the sort of surrender the Reds would have us make.

Certainly the Communists must now reply, unless they wish to be exposed once again as having fostered just one more slightly more elaborate fake campaign.

The response to the President has been enthusiastic at home and abroad. He said little that was really new. But he spoke fervently, lucidly and reverently for peace at a critical moment in history. The words had fresh meaning because they were spoken in a new time, to new enemy leaders.

It is hard to see how Premier Malenkov and his associates can ignore these words, or the actions that are following from this government. If the Russians want peace, they have been given a new opportunity to say so and prove it. If they do not, President Eisenhower has taken a course exactly calculated to expose their real desires.

The President has used the great potential of his prestige and reservoir of good will to exert real leadership. In doing so he has lifted America to its inescapable role among the free powers.

Heaven help the husband who sees his wife's new hat on the table and comments on the beautiful centerpiece.

HUNGARIAN ELECTION

April 17th was election day in Hungary. All the elements that make an election thrilling were present. There were election posters, editorials in all the papers urging citizens to vote, bands playing and flags flying. Only one thing was missing—the suspense over the outcome.

Hungary lies behind the Iron Curtain. Elections are never in doubt there. The Communist Party picks the candidates and the outcome is determined before the ballots are printed. The Reds have no quarrel with elections—as long as they are sure to win them.

Why do the totalitarian states persist in holding mock elections? In some cases the leaders of these states try to give the impression that they are functioning under old laws. The elections are token fulfilment of the letter of the laws although the spirit of the law is not allowed to express itself.

The next rainy election day in this country, when it might be easier to stay at home than to go to the polls, it might be well for Americans to remember what election day is like in Hungary.

'These Days'

THE ROAD TO PEACE

Peace feelers may be designed to discover if the adversary is receptive, or they may be designed for propaganda purposes to weaken unity among other nations. Peace feelers are unnecessary if nations have honorable purposes, as they can make their intentions known through the ordinary channels of diplomatic communications.

Actually, Soviet Russia is represented at the capitals of the Great Powers by ambassadors who can speak to the head of each state directly. Also, Russia is fully represented at the United Nations where its emissaries often speak too long and too often. Therefore, the indirect peace feeler is an unnecessary device if the intent is to accomplish peace.

President Eisenhower has taken a more direct route to peace, namely, he has stated the maximum American terms in clear language. It cannot be assumed that Russia will accept the maximum American position; therefore, it is to be expected that on May 1, the day of revolutionary celebration, either Malenkov or Molotov will state Russia's maximum terms. If that happens, a conference will undoubtedly be arranged, perhaps of foreign ministers, that is, Dulles, Eden and Molotov, or it might include the representatives of other countries, to see whether a common basis may be found.

President Eisenhower's maximum terms for peace are just. His speech on the subject was a magnificent state paper of the highest order. Should it become the basis for discussion for peace, the greatest progress in the direction of peace will have been made since 1943. At the Teheran (1943) and Yalta (1945) conferences, the basis was war, not peace.

If the Russians really mean peace, they are not under any compulsion to accept President Eisenhower's terms as stated; they do have a moral obligation to bargain on the basis of his terms or to state their own. Peace is not readily attainable in the complexities of an armed world. But if peace is desired, a contractual basis can be found. In other periods in human history, ways to peace have been found. During the 19th century, such statesmen as Talleyrand, Stein, Bismarck and even Castlereagh sought peace and found it for 99 years.

If we can, in this generation, find 99 years of peace, or even 50 years of peace, it will be a godsend. In terms of international relations, peace means an avoidance of any general war; it means a period during which such wars as occur are limited.

The Russians will undoubtedly object most to two points in Eisenhower's speech:

1. "The enforcement of all these agreed limitations and prohibitions by adequate safeguards, including a practical system of inspection under the United Nations. . . .

2. "Any nation's right to a form of government and an economic system of its own choosing is inalienable.

"Any nation's attempt to dictate to other nations their form of government is indefensible."

Point two involves definite violations of the Yalta and Potsdam Agreements, which provided for democratic elections under supervision of the Allied powers in those countries which are now known as satellites. That would, in effect, open Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, and perhaps Czechoslovakia and Albania to a new election, under the supervision either of the signatories to the Yalta Agreement or the United Nations.

The effect of that could be that Russia could lose one or more of these satellites. It might change the political map of Europe. It is impossible to believe that Russia will agree to such terms short of an all-out war. Yet, it would be unbelievable that General Eisenhower would ask for less in any statement of his maximum terms.

As regards his demand for "a practical system of inspection under the United Nations," this is a reiteration of the Baruch proposal concerning the atom bomb and is absolutely sound. Any retreat from such inspection would vitiate the entire program. No nation can be trusted, in the present circumstances of an armed world, to police itself, particularly with regard to a disarmament program.

After World War I, Germany was disarmed; yet Hitler built an effective army, stockpiled for a six-year war. After the Washington Conference (1922), Japan was supposed to reduce her fleet to a ratio of 5-5-3. Actually Japan built a secret fleet which proved to be effective for a time in World War II.

Inspection is an essential instrument of world peace and the President was wise in restating it in his terms.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

HARMLESS HEART SYMPTOMS

Most physicians examining patients in whom they find a slight heart murmur or irregularity will assure themselves that no organic disease is present and will then tell the patient that he has no organic disease and so need have no worry about his heart.

The physician knows, however, that at some later date this patient will undergo another physical examination, the murmur or irregularity discovered, the patient told about it and the patient may think the first examiner was mistaken and that he really had organic disease. In order to satisfy himself that the murmur or irregularity is not organic but functional, the physician has the patient take some exercise—slow stationary running, skipping, touching his toes—and finds, as he suspected, that the murmur has not increased (perhaps has disappeared) and the heart is regular, free from an irregularity. This test shows that the heart is normal and it is safe to take exercise.

In his book, "Office Psychiatry," Dr. Louis G. Moench, Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine and Psychiatry, University of Utah School of Medicine, states that from 20 to 50 per cent of heart patients have no demonstrable organic disease. This does not mean that there isn't a great amount of heart disease, because heart disease stands first as a cause of death, but it does mean that nervousness, anxiety about the heart, causes symptoms and actually complicates the symptoms of true or organic heart disease.

One of the commonest types of "heart disease," that is really not organic heart disease, was a product of World War 1. It was called "effort syndrome," "cardiovascilar (heart and bloodvessel) neurosis," "disorderly action of the heart," "soldier's heart," "neurocirculatory asthenia," and "irritable heart" and then, and even today, accounts for 80 per cent of war casualties from heart disease. Common symptoms in this "effort syndrome" include chest pain, fatigue, shortness of breath, and palpitation of the heart.

"Chronically anxious, tense patients breathe irregularly, eventually become aware of it and fear it is a symptom of heart disease. The breathing varies with mood, with attention, and with preoccupation and is related more to attitude than toward exertion."

Dr. Moench explains how this same anxiety causes the other "supposed" symptoms — chest pain, palpitation, fatigue. One visit to the family physician usually relieves the symptoms of functional (not organic) heart disease.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA)—The final test on Republican administration personnel policy will have its showdown in the State Department. Republican senators who failed in their effort to block the appointment of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow are determined to clean out every official who had anything to do with the Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

Such a housecleaning, if carried to extremes, would remove some real top braid. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was himself a special ambassador and United Nations representative under the last administration.

His undersecretary, Gen. Walter B. Smith, was director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Four of Dulles' assistant secretaries of State are U. S. Foreign Service career men who had important positions under Mr. Acheson. They are Livingston T. Merchant, in charge of European affairs; John M. Cabot, Latin-American affairs; Henry A. Byroade, Middle East and African affairs; Robert D. Murphy, United Nations affairs.

Harold F. Linder, assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, wants to resign as soon as Secretary Dulles can find a successor. Paul H. Nitze, another holdover as head of the Policy Planning Staff, will leave soon for a Defense Department job.

George F. Kennan, first head of the Policy Planning Staff, has been dropped by Secretary Dulles. But Kennan's sacrifice—considered a real blow to U. S. Foreign Service morale—has not satisfied Republican politicians who want the scalps of the others.

America Has It Bad, Too

A team of OEEC—Organization for European Economic Cooperation—officials has been in Washington for some days, singing the blues over the outlook in the former Marshall Plan countries unless the U. S. liberalizes its trade policies so as to admit more western European exports.

But they met their match for gloom when they came to the U. S. Treasury to tell their story to Secretary George M. Humphrey Deputy Secretary W. Randolph Burgess and Assistant Secretary Andrew N. Overby.

With charts and slides and diagrams, the Americans pre—national debt of $267 billion, budget unbalanced by $10 billion, Congress demanding foreign aid cuts, tax cuts and all that.

When the presentation was over and the lights went on in the conference room, Secretary Humphrey said, "Well, any questions?"

There was a moment's awful silence. Then Andy Overby put in: "* * * or any suggestions?"

Both sides guffawed, and with the tension thus broken over realization that the U. S. had it bad over here, too, they got down to business.

Another "Conflict of Interest"

One of the men whom Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson wants to appoint as an assistant secretary of Defense—if Congress will only waive the conflict-of-interest law which requires a government official to dispose of his private stock holdings in companies with which the government does business—is Willard F. Rockwell, Pittsburgh industrialist.

Mr. Rockwell is chairman of the board of his own Rockwell Manufacturing Co. He is also chairman of the board of Timken-Detroit Axle, Timken Silent Automatic Co., and Standard Steel Spring. He is a director of American Liability Insurance Co. of Boston, Commercial National Bank and Trust Co. of Pittsburgh.

During World War II Mr. Rockwell served in Army-Navy Munitions Board, War Production Board and U. S. Maritime Commission. But to sell his stock holdings now to take a regular government job would mean too much of a sacrifice. So he's temporarily serving Mr. Wilson merely as a consultant and adviser on logistics.

Senate Poet

Senate debate on the tidelands oil bill, which has been going on so long that few people can remember when it began, has now reached the stage of poetry.

Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, leading opponent of the administration's tidelands bill, came up with this definition of the historical Florida off-shore boundary line, which in 1868 was defined as "following the Gulf Stream":

An imaginary line is the waist,
Which seldom stays long where it's placed:
But ambles and skips
Twixt the shoulders and hips
According to popular taste.

Hello, Mamie?

Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, wife of the Defense Secretary, has confided to women reporters that the greatest convenience in her new Washington apartment home is the White House telephone.

Anytime her husband wants to speak to a fellow cabinet member, all he has to do is pick up the White House phone. That connects him directly with the White House switchboard at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Mrs. Wilson can use the phone to talk to Mamie, too. But the only visitors allowed to use the phone are other cabinet members or their wives.

Backlog of Civil Claims Suits

The U. S. Department of Justice is five years behind in bringing government civil claims suits to trial, according to Warren E. Burger, new assistant attorney general in charge of this work. There are some 15,000 of these backlog cases. If the government collected all that was claimed in them, it would be richer by over $300 million.

Nearly $8 million have been lopped off the department's $191 million budget by Attorney General Herbert Brownell in the interest of economy. But he has given Burger's civil division—formerly known as the claims division—40 instead of 24 lawyers to help clean up.

Assistant Attorney General Burger, who hails from St. Paul, was identified as coming from Minneapolis when he first arrived in Washington — including one such reference in this column. A number of St. Paul's leading citizens, who have a "We Ain't Mad, but—" club to defend local civic pride and protest any confusion between the rival Twin Cities, wrote in letters of protest.

These letters were shown to Mr. Burger with apologies. He looked over the file and then observed wryly, "I detect a strange silence from Minneapolis, and no expressions of gratitude from the citizenry there for the gift that has been made them."

The Shoes of the Idol

The jeweled shoes in front of the famous Temple of Chenna Kesawa in Belur, India, are made available to the stone idol of the temple to be worn on his nightly stroll to see his wife's statue about 20 miles away. The extraordinary thing about these shoes is the fact that their soles wear out as if from excessive walking every two years. Shoemakers have replaced them every two years since 1117.

An Albany announcement said the WPA would cease operating after eight years as a work relief agency.

Corsets Spoil Guesses

New York (AP)—If Hy Malik had his way, women would not be allowed to wear corsets or girdles to amusement parks. Hy explains that these garments are an obstacle to his chosen profession—weight guesser at a New Jersey Amusement Park (Palisades). Hy has been guessing the weights of people for almost two decades. "You can't tell what is behind those corsets when a woman steps on a scale," Malik declared. Malik said that "on a good day" he can guess men's weight's correctly almost 70 per cent of the time. On the other hand, if he can break 50 per cent with the women, he considers himself lucky.

One inch of rain means more than 100 tons of water to an acre.

FREE WORLD INITIATIVE

President Eisenhower plainly understands the importance of restoring the initiative to the free world in its great struggle with the Soviet Union. He is acting to press a western counter-offensive to take the play out of the hands of the Kremlin.

That is the underlying meaning of his first major speech since Stalin's death, and of the moves the President has made since the talk.

It would have been of extreme value had Mr. Eisenhower merely called the Russians to account on their own peace offensive by demanding deeds instead of words. He did that, but he went beyond. And there it was that he sought to seize the initiative.

He not only bid Moscow to act, but he told them in what directions they ought to act if they mean business.

He called for a Korean settlement that would produce a free and united Korea. He asked for the Reds' long overdue signature on an Austrian peace treaty. He spoke of uniting Germany through free elections. He laid out the prospect of a general Far Eastern settlement that would see an end as well to Red-inspired hostilities in Indo-China and Malaya.

In all these realms, the Kremlin is either actively pursuing aggressive combat or is vigorously blocking settlements which would have distasteful consequences. The Reds are accustomed to putting forth phony appeals for peace in these areas, always, of course, on impossible terms.

Mr. Eisenhower has set down his own appeals this time, in the name of the United States and the whole free community. Terms he has indicated only broadly, but he has unmistakably rejected at the outset the sort of surrender the Reds would have us make.

Certainly the Communists must now reply, unless they wish to be exposed once again as having fostered just one more slightly more elaborate fake campaign.

The response to the President has been enthusiastic at home and abroad. He said little that was really new. But he spoke fervently, lucidly and reverently for peace at a critical moment in history. The words had fresh meaning because they were spoken in a new time, to new enemy leaders.

It is hard to see how Premier Malenkov and his associates can ignore these words, or the actions that are following from this government. If the Russians want peace, they have been given a new opportunity to say so and prove it. If they do not, President Eisenhower has taken a course exactly calculated to expose their real desires.

The President has used the great potential of his prestige and reservoir of good will to exert real leadership. In doing so he has lifted America to its inescapable role among the free powers.

Heaven help the husband who sees his wife's new hat on the table and comments on the beautiful centerpiece.

HUNGARIAN ELECTION

April 17th was election day in Hungary. All the elements that make an election thrilling were present. There were election posters, editorials in all the papers urging citizens to vote, bands playing and flags flying. Only one thing was missing—the suspense over the outcome.

Hungary lies behind the Iron Curtain. Elections are never in doubt there. The Communist Party picks the candidates and the outcome is determined before the ballots are printed. The Reds have no quarrel with elections—as long as they are sure to win them.

Why do the totalitarian states persist in holding mock elections? In some cases the leaders of these states try to give the impression that they are functioning under old laws. The elections are token fulfilment of the letter of the laws although the spirit of the law is not allowed to express itself.

The next rainy election day in this country, when it might be easier to stay at home than to go to the polls, it might be well for Americans to remember what election day is like in Hungary.

'These Days'

THE ROAD TO PEACE

Peace feelers may be designed to discover if the adversary is receptive, or they may be designed for propaganda purposes to weaken unity among other nations. Peace feelers are unnecessary if nations have honorable purposes, as they can make their intentions known through the ordinary channels of diplomatic communications.

Actually, Soviet Russia is represented at the capitals of the Great Powers by ambassadors who can speak to the head of each state directly. Also, Russia is fully represented at the United Nations where its emissaries often speak too long and too often. Therefore, the indirect peace feeler is an unnecessary device if the intent is to accomplish peace.

President Eisenhower has taken a more direct route to peace, namely, he has stated the maximum American terms in clear language. It cannot be assumed that Russia will accept the maximum American position; therefore, it is to be expected that on May 1, the day of revolutionary celebration, either Malenkov or Molotov will state Russia's maximum terms. If that happens, a conference will undoubtedly be arranged, perhaps of foreign ministers, that is, Dulles, Eden and Molotov, or it might include the representatives of other countries, to see whether a common basis may be found.

President Eisenhower's maximum terms for peace are just. His speech on the subject was a magnificent state paper of the highest order. Should it become the basis for discussion for peace, the greatest progress in the direction of peace will have been made since 1943. At the Teheran (1943) and Yalta (1945) conferences, the basis was war, not peace.

If the Russians really mean peace, they are not under any compulsion to accept President Eisenhower's terms as stated; they do have a moral obligation to bargain on the basis of his terms or to state their own. Peace is not readily attainable in the complexities of an armed world. But if peace is desired, a contractual basis can be found. In other periods in human history, ways to peace have been found. During the 19th century, such statesmen as Talleyrand, Stein, Bismarck and even Castlereagh sought peace and found it for 99 years.

If we can, in this generation, find 99 years of peace, or even 50 years of peace, it will be a godsend. In terms of international relations, peace means an avoidance of any general war; it means a period during which such wars as occur are limited.

The Russians will undoubtedly object most to two points in Eisenhower's speech:

1. "The enforcement of all these agreed limitations and prohibitions by adequate safeguards, including a practical system of inspection under the United Nations. . . .

2. "Any nation's right to a form of government and an economic system of its own choosing is inalienable.

"Any nation's attempt to dictate to other nations their form of government is indefensible."

Point two involves definite violations of the Yalta and Potsdam Agreements, which provided for democratic elections under supervision of the Allied powers in those countries which are now known as satellites. That would, in effect, open Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, and perhaps Czechoslovakia and Albania to a new election, under the supervision either of the signatories to the Yalta Agreement or the United Nations.

The effect of that could be that Russia could lose one or more of these satellites. It might change the political map of Europe. It is impossible to believe that Russia will agree to such terms short of an all-out war. Yet, it would be unbelievable that General Eisenhower would ask for less in any statement of his maximum terms.

As regards his demand for "a practical system of inspection under the United Nations," this is a reiteration of the Baruch proposal concerning the atom bomb and is absolutely sound. Any retreat from such inspection would vitiate the entire program. No nation can be trusted, in the present circumstances of an armed world, to police itself, particularly with regard to a disarmament program.

After World War I, Germany was disarmed; yet Hitler built an effective army, stockpiled for a six-year war. After the Washington Conference (1922), Japan was supposed to reduce her fleet to a ratio of 5-5-3. Actually Japan built a secret fleet which proved to be effective for a time in World War II.

Inspection is an essential instrument of world peace and the President was wise in restating it in his terms.

HARMLESS HEART SYMPTOMS

Most physicians examining patients in whom they find a slight heart murmur or irregularity will assure themselves that no organic disease is present and will then tell the patient that he has no organic disease and so need have no worry about his heart.

The physician knows, however, that at some later date this patient will undergo another physical examination, the murmur or irregularity discovered, the patient told about it and the patient may think the first examiner was mistaken and that he really had organic disease. In order to satisfy himself that the murmur or irregularity is not organic but functional, the physician has the patient take some exercise—slow stationary running, skipping, touching his toes—and finds, as he suspected, that the murmur has not increased (perhaps has disappeared) and the heart is regular, free from an irregularity. This test shows that the heart is normal and it is safe to take exercise.

In his book, "Office Psychiatry," Dr. Louis G. Moench, Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine and Psychiatry, University of Utah School of Medicine, states that from 20 to 50 per cent of heart patients have no demonstrable organic disease. This does not mean that there isn't a great amount of heart disease, because heart disease stands first as a cause of death, but it does mean that nervousness, anxiety about the heart, causes symptoms and actually complicates the symptoms of true or organic heart disease.

One of the commonest types of "heart disease," that is really not organic heart disease, was a product of World War 1. It was called "effort syndrome," "cardiovascilar (heart and bloodvessel) neurosis," "disorderly action of the heart," "soldier's heart," "neurocirculatory asthenia," and "irritable heart" and then, and even today, accounts for 80 per cent of war casualties from heart disease. Common symptoms in this "effort syndrome" include chest pain, fatigue, shortness of breath, and palpitation of the heart.

"Chronically anxious, tense patients breathe irregularly, eventually become aware of it and fear it is a symptom of heart disease. The breathing varies with mood, with attention, and with preoccupation and is related more to attitude than toward exertion."

Dr. Moench explains how this same anxiety causes the other "supposed" symptoms — chest pain, palpitation, fatigue. One visit to the family physician usually relieves the symptoms of functional (not organic) heart disease.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA)—The final test on Republican administration personnel policy will have its showdown in the State Department. Republican senators who failed in their effort to block the appointment of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow are determined to clean out every official who had anything to do with the Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

Such a housecleaning, if carried to extremes, would remove some real top braid. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was himself a special ambassador and United Nations representative under the last administration.

His undersecretary, Gen. Walter B. Smith, was director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Four of Dulles' assistant secretaries of State are U. S. Foreign Service career men who had important positions under Mr. Acheson. They are Livingston T. Merchant, in charge of European affairs; John M. Cabot, Latin-American affairs; Henry A. Byroade, Middle East and African affairs; Robert D. Murphy, United Nations affairs.

Harold F. Linder, assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, wants to resign as soon as Secretary Dulles can find a successor. Paul H. Nitze, another holdover as head of the Policy Planning Staff, will leave soon for a Defense Department job.

George F. Kennan, first head of the Policy Planning Staff, has been dropped by Secretary Dulles. But Kennan's sacrifice—considered a real blow to U. S. Foreign Service morale—has not satisfied Republican politicians who want the scalps of the others.

America Has It Bad, Too

A team of OEEC—Organization for European Economic Cooperation—officials has been in Washington for some days, singing the blues over the outlook in the former Marshall Plan countries unless the U. S. liberalizes its trade policies so as to admit more western European exports.

But they met their match for gloom when they came to the U. S. Treasury to tell their story to Secretary George M. Humphrey Deputy Secretary W. Randolph Burgess and Assistant Secretary Andrew N. Overby.

With charts and slides and diagrams, the Americans pre—national debt of $267 billion, budget unbalanced by $10 billion, Congress demanding foreign aid cuts, tax cuts and all that.

When the presentation was over and the lights went on in the conference room, Secretary Humphrey said, "Well, any questions?"

There was a moment's awful silence. Then Andy Overby put in: "* * * or any suggestions?"

Both sides guffawed, and with the tension thus broken over realization that the U. S. had it bad over here, too, they got down to business.

Another "Conflict of Interest"

One of the men whom Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson wants to appoint as an assistant secretary of Defense—if Congress will only waive the conflict-of-interest law which requires a government official to dispose of his private stock holdings in companies with which the government does business—is Willard F. Rockwell, Pittsburgh industrialist.

Mr. Rockwell is chairman of the board of his own Rockwell Manufacturing Co. He is also chairman of the board of Timken-Detroit Axle, Timken Silent Automatic Co., and Standard Steel Spring. He is a director of American Liability Insurance Co. of Boston, Commercial National Bank and Trust Co. of Pittsburgh.

During World War II Mr. Rockwell served in Army-Navy Munitions Board, War Production Board and U. S. Maritime Commission. But to sell his stock holdings now to take a regular government job would mean too much of a sacrifice. So he's temporarily serving Mr. Wilson merely as a consultant and adviser on logistics.

Senate Poet

Senate debate on the tidelands oil bill, which has been going on so long that few people can remember when it began, has now reached the stage of poetry.

Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, leading opponent of the administration's tidelands bill, came up with this definition of the historical Florida off-shore boundary line, which in 1868 was defined as "following the Gulf Stream":

An imaginary line is the waist,
Which seldom stays long where it's placed;
But ambles and skips
Twixt the shoulders and hips
According to popular taste.

Hello, Mamie?

Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, wife of the Defense Secretary, has confided to women reporters that the greatest convenience in her new Washington apartment home is the White House telephone.

Anytime her husband wants to speak to a fellow cabinet member, all he has to do is pick up the White House phone. That connects him directly with the White House switchboard at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Mrs. Wilson can use the phone to talk to Mamie, too. But the only visitors allowed to use the phone are other cabinet members or their wives.

Backlog of Civil Claims Suits

The U. S. Department of Justice is five years behind in bringing government civil claims suits to trial, according to Warren E. Burger, new assistant attorney general in charge of this work. There are some 15,000 of these backlog cases. If the government collected all that was claimed in them, it would be richer by over $300 million.

Nearly $8 million have been lopped off the department's $191 million budget by Attorney General Herbert Brownell in the interest of economy. But he has given Burger's civil division—formerly known as the claims division—40 instead of 24 lawyers to help clean up.

Assistant Attorney General Burger, who hails from St. Paul, was identified as coming from Minneapolis when he first arrived in Washington — including one such reference in this column. A number of St. Paul's leading citizens, who have a "We Ain't Mad, but—" club to defend local civic pride and protest any confusion between the rival Twin Cities, wrote in letters of protest.

These letters were shown to Mr. Burger with apologies. He looked over the file and then observed wryly, "I detect a strange silence from Minneapolis, and no expressions of gratitude from the citizenry there for the gift that has been made them."

Corsets Spoil Guesses

New York (AP)—If Hy Malik had his way, women would not be allowed to wear corsets or girdles to amusement parks. Hy explains that these garments are an obstacle to his chosen profession—weight guesser at a New Jersey Amusement Park (Palisades). Hy has been guessing the weights of people for almost two decades. "You can't tell what is behind those corsets when a woman steps on a scale," Malik declared. Malik said that "on a good day" he can guess men's weight's correctly almost 70 per cent of the time. On the other hand, if he can break 50 per cent with the women, he considers himself lucky.

One inch of rain means more than 100 tons of water to an acre.

The Shoes of the Idol

The jeweled shoes in front of the famous Temple of Chenna Kesawa in Belur, India, are made available to the stone idol of the temple to be worn on his nightly stroll to see his wife's statue about 20 miles away. The extraordinary thing about these shoes is the fact that their soles wear out as if from excessive walking every two years. Shoemakers have replaced them every two years since 1117.

Tells of Volunteers

Tokyo, April 25 (AP)—Pvt. Joseph Picerno of 175-05 Liberty avenue, Jamaica, N. Y., said today a Czech doctor was helping the Reds in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang. Picerno, who returned from a Communist prison camp earlier this week, was interviewed at Tokyo Army Hospital. The Communist radio has said Red Cross units from some Iron Curtain countries are aiding the Chinese and North Koreans in Korea. In the summer of 1951 Picerno said he saw a foreigner in civilian clothes in Pyongyang. Guards at the hospital where he was being treated told him the man was a Czech who volunteered to help the Chinese and North Koreans. Picerno said he also saw blonde women in Pyongyang. He and the other allied prisoners at the Pyongyang hospital assumed they were doctors or nurses.

Reds Aim Spearheads

Hanoi, Indochina, April 25 (AP)—Communist-led Vietminh troops advancing across Laos aimed two invasion spearheads at the little kingdom's royal capital of Luangprabang today. One moved southward afterc rushing stubborn resistance from French and Laotian defenders at the mountain post of Mungnpoi, in northern Laos, 60 miles from the capital. The other force came from the east. It included rebel units that participated in the capture of Xiengkhouang, 90 miles southeast of Luang-Prabang.

Woman Recruiter Hurt

Staff Sergeant Dorothy Onward of Menands, attached to the U. S. Air Force recruiting office at Albany, was injured in an accident on Route 9W at Ulster Park about 5:40 p. m. Friday, state police reported. Sgt. Onward, 34, suffered possible concussion, troopers said, and was taken to Kingston Hospital by ambulance. Her condition today was reported as "good." Troopers reported that the automobile was traveling south on Route 9W, left the highway and overturned on a curve.

Savings and Loan Joins Realty Board

The Savings and Loan Association of Kingston was welcomed as a new member of the Ulster County Real Estate Board at a meeting Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The board will invite many other lending institutions and brokers to membership. The move is expected to swell the membership to an all time high.

Following the meeting, the real estate board announced that the results of its campaign to expedite the servicing of G.I. mortgage loans in the area "have been gratifying." The members feel that "this community will now experience an accelerated processing period for all who buy or sell real estate in accordance with the regulations of the Veterans Administration," the announcement said. The service will prove useful to the builder as well as the veteran.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the board will be held May 21. Persons interested in becoming members have been asked to contact Lawrence J. MacAvery, president, or Benson Krom, secretary.

POW Refuses Reds On Trip to Hungary

Tokyo, April 25 (AP)—Pfc. Tibor Rubin could have walked out of the Communist prison camp a free man if he had agreed to go home to Hungary.

"They asked me many times. I told them no," the dark-haired, Hungarian-born youth said in a Tokyo army hospital today.

Rubin, a soldier in the U. S. army, was repatriated at Panmunjom this week. Although he lived in the United States only 18 months, he considers it home.

Says German Camp Worse

"I hope I can become a citizen," the 23-year-old soldier said.

In 30 months as a captive of the Chinese Reds, Rubin went through experiences as terrible as any of the allied prisoners repatriated so far.

Yet, he said 14 months he spent in a German concentration camp during World War 2 were worse.

"Over 2,000 of my buddies died in six months at the camp where I was in North Korea," Rubin said. "In the concentration camp in Germany, I lost my mother and father and my sister."

City Fireman Injured As Car Hits Posts

Fireman Joseph A. Cornelske, 48, of 47 Janet street, received a laceration of the forehead when the automobile he was driving ran off Route 9W and struck guard rail posts and a mail box at Ulster Park, according to a sheriff's office report at 2:30 a. m. today.

Cornelske told Deputy Sheriff Albert E. Eisele, who investigated, that the right front wheel of his automobile struck the soft shoulder of the highway, causing him to lose control of the vehicle, which then struck four guard rail posts, hit a mail box on the property of Mrs. Leo Flannagan, and came to rest on a concrete culvert. The automobile received dents to the front end and possible hidden undercarriage damage, Eisele's report said.

Asks Aircraft Probe

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) today disclosed plans for a special Senate investigation into why Soviet Russia has been able to outproduce this country in some new types of aircraft. In an interview, Bridges said this is one of many issues in Armed Services Subcommittee investigation of aircraft production and procurement for the air forces, navy and marines. "We have broad authority to look into anything we wish," asserted Bridges, chairman of the group.

He said investigators already are looking into reports that identical aircraft cost $250,000 from one manufacturer and more than one million dollars from another.

Vote to Boost Strength

Paris, April 25 (AP)—Ministers from the 14 North Atlantic treaty nations ended their spring meeting today by voting to boost NATO'S air strength by 2,700 war planes and its ground forces by 10 divisions, an aide reported. The foreign, defense and finance ministers wound up their three-day meeting, at which they approved a costly military equipment program and pledged to remain on guard despite Soviet peace hints, by arranging to meet again in October. The new plane program will boost NATO's air strength to a total of 5,600 planes by the end of 1954.

Tells of Being Drafted

Freedom Village, Korea, April 25 (AP)—A South Korean soldier freed by the Communists today said he was drafted into the Red Army and "sent into battle with North Korean soldiers" against his own countrymen. Of the 400 South Korean prisoners returned so far, Pvt. Kim Hung Noh is the first to tell of being forced to fight his comrades. The UN command has accused the Communists of pressing into military service perhaps as many as 50,000 South Koreans the Reds have said were released at the front.

Senate Passes Rent Bill

Washington, April 25 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House today a bill to extend rent controls to July 31 in areas which now have them.

Will Be Speaker At Scouts' 38th Dinner Meeting

DWIGHT RAMSEY

Adult Scouters and their ladies from the 77 Cub Scout and Boy Scout Units in Rip Van Winkle Council covering Ulster and Greene counties will assemble in the cafeteria of the George Washington School in Kingston Tuesday, May 26, for their 38th annual council dinner meeting.

William Leehive of the Council Executive Board will be the master of ceremonies. The Rev. James Riordan of West Hurley will give the invocation. Raymond S. Quackenbush, Council President, of Saugerties, will give the president's annual report covering the activities and progress made by the Council during the past year.

Charles Davis, chairman of the nominating committee will submit a list of nominees for the 1953-54 Council officers. After the new officers have been elected and installed the new president will appoint his operating committee chairmen for the year.

George V. Dennis, Scout executive, will give his report for the year and announcement will be made of various phases of the Council program for the coming year, including the 1953 summer camp season at Camp Tri-Mount; the National Jamboree at Santa Ana, Calif., at which this Council will have 52 boys and six leaders; and training programs for unit leaders.

Three to Get High Award

The highest award a Council may give, the Silver Beaver, for outstanding service to boyhood will be presented to three Scouters of the Council. The selection is made by a committee representing all seven Districts of the Council and the selections are not known until presented.

Dwight M. Ramsay, regional scout executive of Region 2, comprised of the states of New York and New Jersey, will give the principal address. He entered scouting professionally as scout executive at Elgin, Ill., in December 1917 and has served as a district scout executive in Chicago, scout executive at Akron, O., regional scout executive of Region 4 comprising Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, regional scout executive of Region 7 comprising Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin. He joined the national staff in March 1937 as assistant director of operations and later became coordinator of field services. He has headed up Region 2 staff for the past two years.

All district chairmen and the scout office have tickets for the dinner for which reservations must be made by Friday, May 22. All scouters and their wives are invited to attend.

Two Praise Eisenhower

Washington, April 25 (AP)—James S. Copley, chairman of the board of the Copley Press, Inc., and William Shea, vice president of the publishing firm, called on President Eisenhower today. They told reporters Eisenhower gave them a background discussion on a number of issues. Copley expressed the opinion that Eisenhower is doing "a terrific job" in the White House and that the country is solidly behind him. The Copley Press publishes newspapers in California and Illinois.

See Forward Step

Washington, April 25 (AP)—The White House said today Russia's new peace statement may be "a first step toward something concrete" in settling cold war problems.

14 Nations Declare Russia Is Unchanged

Paris, April 25 (AP)—The 14 Atlantic Pact Nations today told Soviet Russia that she has not yet displayed any fundamental change in communism's threat to the security of the free world.

In their final communique on the North Atlantic Treaty Council sessions here, the ministers of the NATO members said they would welcome "genuine efforts to reduce international tension."

They said that the Communist attack on Laos in French Indo-China was only the latest example of policies responsible for aggressive warfare in several parts of the world.

The statement by the NATO Council, coming only a few hours after a lengthy statement of Russian views in Pravda, appeared to challenege the Soviets to substitute performances for peace hints in settling cold war issues.

The communique said the NATO nations were fully agreed in their appraisal of the current international situation.

"This agreement," said the communique, "included their estimate of the recent Soviet moves and gestures. To the extent that these moves and gestures are proved by events to be genuine efforts to reduce international tension, they will be welcomed by member governments, whose policy has always been to seek every opportunity for world peace."

Atom Blast Felt 600 Miles Distant

Las Vagas, Nev., April 25 (AP)—One of the spring series most brilliant and powerful atomic bombs exploded with golden brilliance before dawn today as 16 congressmen and 2,650 troops from all over the nation looked on.

Shortly after the blast, touched off from a 300-foot tower at 4:30 a. m. (PST), troops climbed from their trenches 4,000 yards from ground zero and advanced in a tactical maneuver.

The shot, at the Atomic Energy Commission's Yucca Flat test site 75 miles northwest, was a thing of beauty as seen from here. As it flared a skyfull of fleecy clouds, invisible in the darkness an instant before, were monentarily painted with gold.

Observers at the control tower, where the congressmen were stationed, 10 miles from ground zero, said the shock wave at their vantage point was the strongest of the series. It broke light bulbs and window panes in outbuildings.

The flash was seen as far away as San Francisco—600 miles distant.

Infantry Blasts

pumped shells for eight hours Friday into the Red east coast city of Songjin.

The Navy disclosed that three Marine enlisted men and one U. S. naval officer were wounded, probably by Red shell fire, on an island off Wonsan, Red east coast port city.

Ships to Rescue

Three U. S. destroyers and a cruiser steamed to their rescue under heavy Red fire Thursday and evacuated one of the Marines. The others returned to duty. The warships apparently escaped without a scratch, a Navy spokesman said.

An Eighth Army briefing officer reported three small Red probing attacks were tossed back by Republic of Korea defenders on the eastern front.

B-26 light bombers Friday night unloaded tons of high explosives and incendiary bombs on the Yonpo airfield near Hungnam, east coast city.

Different With British

Seoul, April 25 (AP)—The commander of all British Commonwealth forces in Korea, Lt. Gen. Harry Wells, said today that not one Commonwealth prisoner freed by the Communists so far has told of death marches or similar ill treatment. In an official statement released here tonight, Wells said "from our interviews with repatriated Commonwealth prisoners of war we have gained no knowledge of any death march or similar ill treatment." In general, British and Commonwealth prisoners have told of receiving better treatment than that reported by Americans, South Koreans and other UN captives.

German Boy Sends Thanks to School 6 For Red Cross Gift

In acknowledgement of gift boxes sent to children in other lands as a demonstration of their friendship and good will, letters of appreciation have been received by Junior Red Cross members in local schools. The gift boxes contained educational items—pencils, crayons, erasers, pads, protractors, health and comfort articles, toothpaste, toothbrush, soap, pocket comb, and toys and personal items. These boxes were distributed by other Red Cross societies to individual children in schools and institutions and to child refugees.

Would Like Letters

From Germany the following letter was sent to Kingston Public School 6.

"My dear Givers:

"During Brotherhood Week I received from the school this package. When I looked at the label I saw that it was written in English. I knew immediately that it was sent from American children through the Red Cross. I thank all the children who made this happiness possible for me. I am a displaced person and have lost my home. I believe that is why I received this package. I was only three years old when my parents, my brother and I had to leave our home. We made our new home in Berlin where I attend school and I am in the third grade. I already have had one year of English, don't know too much about it yet but try awful hard to learn it. I would be very happy if I would receive a letter from any of you dear givers. I will end my letter now with the best greetings. I am your friend,

KLAUS BAUMGARTEN
(1) Berlin Schoneberg
Sachendamn Soa III Trp.
Germani U.S.A. Sektor"

Letters to other schools in the city and county were received from France and the Philippine Islands.

The purpose of this part of the Junior Red Cross program is to develop in the youth of America international awareness and attitudes of generosity and good will toward peoples of other countries.

Hunger for Religion Shown by Prisoners

Freedom Village, Korea, April 25 (AP)—A navy chaplain who has greeted every group of disabled prisoners returning from Communist prison camps says they have a deep hunger for religion.

Lt. Cmdr. E. Vaughan Lyons of Wilmington, Del., said he has been "surprised at the number who said they wanted to receive the holy communion as soon as they came into the processing tent."

"Some broke down and cried during holy communion, but the majority were completely absorbed in their prayers. For them the holy communion was an act of thanksgiving, one way of expressing religiously their gratitude for being able to return to freedom and safety," he added.

Two Will Join Church

Lyons, a Presbyterian, is attached to the First Marine Division.

He said two prisoners who told him they never had gone to church said they had resolved to join a church while they were captives.

One of the two, Pfc. Harold L. Witt of Bartlesville, Okla., told Lyon "I've never been to church and I don't know much about it, but when I get home I'm going to church with my wife and join up."

Witt was exchanged yesterday and told of seeing the bodies of American prisoners hauled away on cars from a Communist prison camp called "Death Valley."

Carrier Docks

New York, April 25 (AP)—The huge aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt docked here today for a three-day visit, and 15,000 high school students have been invited to come aboard. The carrier, one of the nation's three largest, docked at the 46th street Hudson river pier after taking part in maneuvers off North Carolina. Visiting students will get to see various aircraft, including the navy's latest jet fighter, and special equipment exhibits.

Bradley Asks Names Of Successors Now

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, has proposed that successors for himself and two of the other three members of the top military planning group be named promptly.

Bradley said last night he has suggested to Secretary of Defense Wilson that the new members be appointed before expiration of the incumbents' terms so they could start studying staff problems.

The joint chiefs chairman spoke from Paris in an interview with NBC Commentator Richard Harkness in Washington.

Bradley's term and that of Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, expire Aug. 1. The term of Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, ends June 30. The remaining member, Adm. William Fechteler, chief of naval operations, has a term running two more years.

Some Republican leaders have been advocating a change in joint chiefs' membership for a fresh approach to military problems. But Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio said there was no discussion of the matter at a meeting yesterday between President Eisenhower and congressional leaders.

Backers See . . .

recommendation of Atty. Gen. Brownell that the boundaries be fixed by a map.

He declared also that recognition of states' boundaries beyond the territorial limit of three miles usually asserted by the federal government invites reprisals from other nations and constitutes a threat to U. S. fishermen. Texas and Florida claim up to 10½ miles.

Criticises Press

Morse at one point contended that "the big press of the country is lined up" with proponents of state ownership and that only after the long-talk tactics began did the debate get much coverage.

But Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), helping Morse out with questions, suggested editors may not have thought stories about the submerged lands were newsworthy.

Morse said that "with some exceptions, objectivity permeates Washington correspondents." He agreed with Douglas that working newspapermen in Washington "with certain exceptions observe a very high degree of journalistic ethics."

Douglas declared that the St. Louis Post-Dispatch had given support for federal ownership without which "his fight would have been almost hopeless." Morse asserted that there is "not a single paper greater than the St. Louis Post-Dispatch" in the country.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D.-Wash.), an opponent of the bill, said in an interview a final vote probably would come by next Thursday or Friday. All night sessions are planned next week if the debate goes on.

Both Jackson and Morse asserted that the opponents would not crumble without a further fight.

In Line With Platform

The President's views were expressed in a letter to Sen. Anderson (D.-N. M.) who, with 24 other senators, had asked his position on boundary claims by the states beyond the traditional three-mile limit.

Eisenhower said his views "are in line with my party's platform," which he quoted as favoring "restoration to the states of their rights to all lands and resources beneath navigable inland and offshore waters within historic boundaries."

The press release from Secretary Mabel Fisher of the Upper Hudson Area CIO said, "Oil and gas resources in the submerged lands of the Gulf of Mexico and the California coast are estimated to be worth from 50 to 100 billion dollars. California, Texas and Louisiana are claiming that these resources belong to them. Three times the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that these states do not own, and never did own, the lands underneath the open sea. These three states now ask Congress to turn over to them these submerged lands and their treasure in gas and oil.

"Twice Congress has voted—in 1946 and 1952—to give this oil and gas to the three states. President Truman blocked the steal both times by a presidential veto. There is a majority in the present Congress that is ready to vote for the big steal. President Eisenhower has indicated that he may approve it . . .

"As much as a six to ten billion dollars or more may eventually flow to the government in gas and oil royalties on these submerged lands. It means that this federal revenue which could be used to help build new schools, hire new teachers, pay better teacher salaries will be taken by oil companies and by the states. . . .

"Senator Lehman is leading the fight against the off-shore oil grab. But Senator Irving M. Ives has not lifted a finger to stop it, as of now, there is every reason to believe that he will give it his support. Such action would be a violation of his responsibilities to his constituents and to the nation. The amount in income that would be lost to New York state if this bill passes has been estimated at more than four billion dollars. . . .

"Ives must be told where the people stand on this issue in no uncertain terms, letters should be sent to him demanding his vote against the bill, and in addition, some kind of effort on his part to assure its defeat."

Medina Won't Run

New York, April 25 (AP)—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina, who presided at the first trial of Communist leaders, says political and civic leaders are vainly trying to get him to run for mayor in November. Medina, who did not identify the leaders, said: "I never ran for anything and I certainly am not going to start now."

More Misery . . .

Communists operate on him because the piece of shrapnel was in a place he did not want them to operate.

Pfc. Thomas Fetty of Fairmont, W. Va., told of a heroic second lieutenant who stuck with him when he was wounded on Jackson Heights.

Fetty said the lieutenant, who probably saved his life, was named "Denny Denmark" and was alive and well when he last saw him Jan. 15, 1952.

Fetty was wounded in the shoulder and head by a burp gun slug and his legs were paralyzed. The lieutenant was not wounded.

"I told him to get off but he said he was my platoon leader," Fetty related. "I told him they would either capture me or kill me and at that time it didn't make no damn difference."

The lieutenant tried to drag Fetty down the hill, but they were surrounded by Chinese. The lieutenant got two of the Chinese with his last hand grenade.

The Chinese searched them and moved them to a bunker and then farther to the rear.

Praises Lieutenant

"The lieutenant was carrying me as much as he could. The lieutenant dressed me. He had a medic aid bag.

"I'd just like to shake his hand," Fetty said.

Fetty said he had $350 in his pocket when captured and had intended to go on rest and relaxation leave ("R&R") the next day.

The Chinese took his money.

He wore his arm in a khaki sling and said it was still paralyzed.

"They treated me like a damn dog," he said.

The chow was lousy. The buildings were lousy. The medical care was lousy. And the weather was lousy."

Russians Reject

tives to true peace endeavors were: At worst "atomic war," at best, "a life of perpetual fear and tension.")

The Soviet statement fully agreed with Eisenhower's plea for a lessening of tension and building peace but it accused him of not being very consistent in his remarks.

Reds Stress Their Ideas

"In his address," it declared, "the President of the United States for some reason considered it possible to connect his proposals of peace with a whole series of preliminary conditions presented by him to the Soviet Union, although these claims are not reinforced by corresponding obligations from the side of the United States."

Making it perfectly clear that they did not subscribe to or agree to many of these "conditions," the Soviet statement pointed out that Russia, too, has claims and ideas about what should be done.

The statement also took up Eisenhower on his remark that deeds, not words, are needed today by saying it is impossible not to agree with the President. In other words, the Soviets say they want some deeds in addition to words from the United States to show it wants peace.

there was a ripping sound, a burst of flames, and then the earthward plunges by the two planes, trailing smoke and flame behind them.

The B-29 hit the waters of the bay near the southern shore and sank, leaving only an oil slick. The jet fell into some woods on the south shore, a short distance inland, and burned on the ground.

None of the bodies of the bomber crew have been recovered. The jet pilot was thrown clear of his plane.

A coast guard boat patrolled the bay through the night, and planes were scheduled to join it in a search today for the bomber.

Crews Identified

The air force identified the jet pilot as Maj. John Davis, 32, of Dayton, O., a test pilot from the Wright Center. He was on temporary assignment with the Republic Corp., which owned the jet.

Crewmen on the bomber, which was on detached service from Wright, were identified as: Capt. J. J. Vapenick, about 30, the pilot, of Cleveland, Capt. H. C. McClanahan, 30, the co-pilot, of Dayton; Tech. Sgt. John R. Clarkson, 31, of Austin, Texas; and Master Sgts. Claude Chemp, 34, of Martins Ferry, O., and D. D. Shaffer, 34, of Dayton.

Business Favors

many, Greece, The Netherlands, Belgium, Italy, Turkey and Great Britain.

Action Seen Unlikely

Informed officials said it appeared unlikely the Eisenhower Administration will heed the advice to turn over all aid duties to the State Department.

The business survey strongly recommends that separate foreign aid missions abroad be eliminated and that the U. S. ambassador in each country be given complete authority in carrying out American policy.

It is understood the business leaders urge steps to encourage the flow of private American capital overseas to replace government grants.

Interference Blamed

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, April 25 (AP)—The official Yugoslav press reported today that consultations between a special government commission and representatives of the Roman Catholic Church on a new religious law here have been broken off. The press reports said the split came because of interference by The Vatican. The first meeting was held two days ago to discuss terms of a new law spelling out the privileges and limitations of religious activity in this Communist country. The law was to be submitted to Parliament for approval later this year.

Local Death Record

Elizabeth Moser

Funeral services for Elizabeth Moser, who died Tuesday, were held yesterday afternoon at the Jenson and Deegan Funeral Home with the Rev. Frank Gollnick officiating. During the bereavement a large number of friends called at the funeral home to express sympathy and there were many floral tributes. Burial was in Montrepose Cemetery.

Mabel P. Boyce

The funeral of Mabel P. Boyce of Kingston was held from the Ernest A. Kelly Funeral Home Friday at 2 p. m., with the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, conducting the service. Many floral offerings were banked about the room and casket. During the time the body was at the funeral home many of her friends called to pay their respects to one they had known and worked with in the church and the Daughters of America of which she was a member. Thursday night the Daughters of America came in a body and held their service. Burial was in Port Ewen Cemetery where the Rev. Mr. Shellenberger conducted the committal service.

Mrs. Blanche S. Van Gaasbeeck

Mrs. Blanche Scoville Van Gaasbeeck, wife of Leslie Van Gaasbeeck of 168 Tremper avenue, died Friday night after a lingering illness. She was born in Cairo June 26, 1874, the daughter of the late Eugene and Roseltha Wright Scoville. In her younger days she made her home in Olive Branch. Mr. and Mrs. Van Gaasbeeck had been married 57 years, 43 years of which were spent in Morristown, N. J. Last October they came to Kingston and had been residing with Mr. Van Gaasbeeck's niece, Mrs. James Pirie. Besides her husband, she is survived by several nieces and nephews. While in Morristown she attended the Methodist Church. Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. from the Sweet and Keyser Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue. Burial will be in Woodstock Cemetery.

Tells of Volunteers

Tokyo, April 25 (AP)—Pvt. Joseph Picerno of 175-05 Liberty avenue, Jamaica, N. Y., said today a Czech doctor was helping the Reds in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang. Picerno, who returned from a Communist prison camp earlier this week, was interviewed at Tokyo Army Hospital. The Communist radio has said Red Cross units from some Iron Curtain countries are aiding the Chinese and North Koreans in Korea. In the summer of 1951 Picerno said he saw a foreigner in civilian clothes in Pyongyang. Guards at the hospital where he was being treated told him the man was a Czech who volunteered to help the Chinese and North Koreans. Picerno said he also saw blonde women in Pyongyang. He and the other allied prisoners at the Pyongyang hospital assumed they were doctors or nurses.

Reds Aim Spearheads

Hanoi, Indochina, April 25 (AP)—Communist-led Vietminh troops advancing across Laos aimed two invasion spearheads at the little kingdom's royal capital of Luangprabang today. One moved southward afterc rushing stubborn resistance from French and Laotian defenders at the mountain post of Mungnpoi, in northern Laos, 60 miles from the capital. The other force came from the east. It included rebel units that participated in the capture of Xiengkhouang, 90 miles southeast of Luang-Prabang.

Woman Recruiter Hurt

Staff Sergeant Dorothy Onward of Menands, attached to the U. S. Air Force recruiting office at Albany, was injured in an accident on Route 9W at Ulster Park about 5:40 p. m. Friday, state police reported. Sgt. Onward, 34, suffered possible concussion, troopers said, and was taken to Kingston Hospital by ambulance. Her condition today was reported as "good." Troopers reported that the automobile was traveling south on Route 9W, left the highway and overturned on a curve.

Savings and Loan Joins Realty Board

The Savings and Loan Association of Kingston was welcomed as a new member of the Ulster County Real Estate Board at a meeting Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The board will invite many other lending institutions and brokers to membership. The move is expected to swell the membership to an all time high.

Following the meeting, the real estate board announced that the results of its campaign to expedite the servicing of G.I. mortgage loans in the area "have been gratifying." The members feel that "this community will now experience an accelerated processing period for all who buy or sell real estate in accordance with the regulations of the Veterans Administration," the announcement said. The service will prove useful to the builder as well as the veteran.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the board will be held May 21. Persons interested in becoming members have been asked to contact Lawrence J. MacAvery, president, or Benson Krom, secretary.

POW Refuses Reds On Trip to Hungary

Tokyo, April 25 (AP)—Pfc. Tibor Rubin could have walked out of the Communist prison camp a free man if he had agreed to go home to Hungary.

"They asked me many times. I told them no," the dark-haired, Hungarian-born youth said in a Tokyo army hospital today.

Rubin, a soldier in the U. S. army, was repatriated at Panmunjom this week. Although he lived in the United States only 18 months, he considers it home.

Says German Camp Worse

"I hope I can become a citizen," the 23-year-old soldier said.

In 30 months as a captive of the Chinese Reds, Rubin went through experiences as terrible as any of the allied prisoners repatriated so far.

Yet, he said 14 months he spent in a German concentration camp during World War 2 were worse.

"Over 2,000 of my buddies died in six months at the camp where I was in North Korea," Rubin said. "In the concentration camp in Germany, I lost my mother and father and my sister."

City Fireman Injured As Car Hits Posts

Fireman Joseph A. Cornelske, 48, of 47 Janet street, received a laceration of the forehead when the automobile he was driving ran off Route 9W and struck guard rail posts and a mail box at Ulster Park, according to a sheriff's office report at 2:30 a. m. today.

Cornelske told Deputy Sheriff Albert E. Eisele, who investigated, that the right front wheel of his automobile struck the soft shoulder of the highway, causing him to lose control of the vehicle, which then struck four guard rail posts, hit a mail box on the property of Mrs. Leo Flannagan, and came to rest on a concrete culvert. The automobile received dents to the front end and possible hidden undercarriage damage, Eisele's report said.

Asks Aircraft Probe

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) today disclosed plans for a special Senate investigation into why Soviet Russia has been able to outproduce this country in some new types of aircraft. In an interview, Bridges said this is one of many issues in Armed Services Subcommittee investigation of aircraft production and procurement for the air forces, navy and marines. "We have broad authority to look into anything we wish," asserted Bridges, chairman of the group.

He said investigators already are looking into reports that identical aircraft cost $250,000 from one manufacturer and more than one million dollars from another.

Vote to Boost Strength

Paris, April 25 (AP)—Ministers from the 14 North Atlantic treaty nations ended their spring meeting today by voting to boost NATO'S air strength by 2,700 war planes and its ground forces by 10 divisions, an aide reported. The foreign, defense and finance ministers wound up their three-day meeting, at which they approved a costly military equipment program and pledged to remain on guard despite Soviet peace hints, by arranging to meet again in October. The new plane program will boost NATO's air strength to a total of 5,600 planes by the end of 1954.

Tells of Being Drafted

Freedom Village, Korea, April 25 (AP)—A South Korean soldier freed by the Communists today said he was drafted into the Red Army and "sent into battle with North Korean soldiers" against his own countrymen. Of the 400 South Korean prisoners returned so far, Pvt. Kim Hung Noh is the first to tell of being forced to fight his comrades. The UN command has accused the Communists of pressing into military service perhaps as many as 50,000 South Koreans the Reds have said were released at the front.

Senate Passes Rent Bill

Washington, April 25 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House today a bill to extend rent controls to July 31 in areas which now have them.

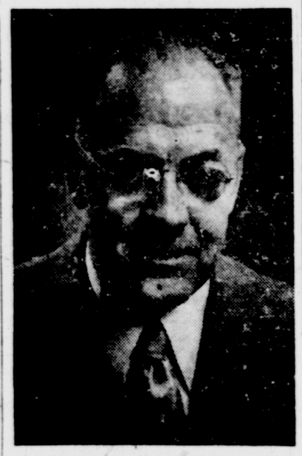
Will Be Speaker At Scouts' 38th Dinner Meeting



DWIGHT RAMSEY

Adult Scouters and their ladies from the 77 Cub Scout and Boy Scout Units in Rip Van Winkle Council covering Ulster and Greene counties will assemble in the cafeteria of the George Washington School in Kingston Tuesday, May 26, for their 38th annual council dinner meeting.

William Leehive of the Council Executive Board will be the master of ceremonies. The Rev. James Riordan of West Hurley will give the invocation. Raymond S. Quackenbush, Council President, of Saugerties, will give the president's annual report covering the activities and progress made by the Council during the past year.

Charles Davis, chairman of the nominating committee will submit a list of nominees for the 1953-54 Council officers. After the new officers have been elected and installed the new president will appoint his operating committee chairmen for the year.

George V. Dennis, Scout executive, will give his report for the year and announcement will be made of various phases of the Council program for the coming year, including the 1953 summer camp season at Camp Tri-Mount; the National Jamboree at Santa Ana, Calif., at which this Council will have 52 boys and six leaders; and training programs for unit leaders.

Three to Get High Award

The highest award a Council may give, the Silver Beaver, for outstanding service to boyhood will be presented to three Scouters of the Council. The selection is made by a committee representing all seven Districts of the Council and the selections are not known until presented.

Dwight M. Ramsay, regional scout executive of Region 2, comprised of the states of New York and New Jersey, will give the principal address. He entered scouting professionally as scout executive at Elgin, Ill., in December 1917 and has served as a district scout executive in Chicago, scout executive at Akron, O., regional scout executive of Region 4 comprising Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, regional scout executive of Region 7 comprising Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin. He joined the national staff in March 1937 as assistant director of operations and later became coordinator of field services. He has headed up Region 2 staff for the past two years.

All district chairmen and the scout office have tickets for the dinner for which reservations must be made by Friday, May 22. All scouters and their wives are invited to attend.

Two Praise Eisenhower

Washington, April 25 (AP)—James S. Copley, chairman of the board of the Copley Press, Inc., and William Shea, vice president of the publishing firm, called on President Eisenhower today. They told reporters Eisenhower gave them a background discussion on a number of issues. Copley expressed the opinion that Eisenhower is doing "a terrific job" in the White House and that the country is solidly behind him. The Copley Press publishes newspapers in California and Illinois.

See Forward Step

Washington, April 25 (AP)—The White House said today Russia's new peace statement may be "a first step toward something concrete" in settling cold war problems.

14 Nations Declare Russia Is Unchanged

Paris, April 25 (AP)—The 14 Atlantic Pact Nations today told Soviet Russia that she has not yet displayed any fundamental change in communism's threat to the security of the free world.

In their final communique on the North Atlantic Treaty Council sessions here, the ministers of the NATO members said they would welcome "genuine efforts to reduce international tension."

They said that the Communist attack on Laos in French Indo-China was only the latest example of policies responsible for aggressive warfare in several parts of the world.

The statement by the NATO Council, coming only a few hours after a lengthy statement of Russian views in Pravda, appeared to challenege the Soviets to substitute performances for peace hints in settling cold war issues.

The communique said the NATO nations were fully agreed in their appraisal of the current international situation.

"This agreement," said the communique, "included their estimate of the recent Soviet moves and gestures. To the extent that these moves and gestures are proved by events to be genuine efforts to reduce international tension, they will be welcomed by member governments, whose policy has always been to seek every opportunity for world peace."

Atom Blast Felt 600 Miles Distant

Las Vagas, Nev., April 25 (AP)—One of the spring series most brilliant and powerful atomic bombs exploded with golden brilliance before dawn today as 16 congressmen and 2,650 troops from all over the nation looked on.

Shortly after the blast, touched off from a 300-foot tower at 4:30 a. m. (PST), troops climbed from their trenches 4,000 yards from ground zero and advanced in a tactical maneuver.

The shot, at the Atomic Energy Commission's Yucca Flat test site 75 miles northwest, was a thing of beauty as seen from here. As it flared a skyfull of fleecy clouds, invisible in the darkness an instant before, were monentarily painted with gold.

Observers at the control tower, where the congressmen were stationed, 10 miles from ground zero, said the shock wave at their vantage point was the strongest of the series. It broke light bulbs and window panes in outbuildings.

The flash was seen as far away as San Francisco—600 miles distant.

Infantry Blasts

pumped shells for eight hours Friday into the Red east coast city of Songjin.

Ships to Rescue

Three U. S. destroyers and a cruiser steamed to their rescue under heavy Red fire Thursday and evacuated one of the Marines. The others returned to duty. The warships apparently escaped without a scratch, a Navy spokesman said.

An Eighth Army briefing officer reported three small Red probing attacks were tossed back by Republic of Korea defenders on the eastern front.

Different With British

Seoul, April 25 (AP)—The commander of all British Commonwealth forces in Korea, Lt. Gen. Harry Wells, said today that not one Commonwealth prisoner freed by the Communists so far has told of death marches or similar ill treatment. In an official statement released here tonight, Wells said "from our interviews with repatriated Commonwealth prisoners of war we have gained no knowledge of any death march or similar ill treatment." In general, British and Commonwealth prisoners have told of receiving better treatment than that reported by Americans, South Koreans and other UN captives.

German Boy Sends Thanks to School 6 For Red Cross Gift

In acknowledgement of gift boxes sent to children in other lands as a demonstration of their friendship and good will, letters of appreciation have been received by Junior Red Cross members in local schools. The gift boxes contained educational items—pencils, crayons, erasers, pads, protractors, health and comfort articles, toothpaste, toothbrush, soap, pocket comb, and toys and personal items. These boxes were distributed by other Red Cross societies to individual children in schools and institutions and to child refugees.

Would Like Letters

From Germany the following letter was sent to Kingston Public School 6.

"My dear Givers:

"During Brotherhood Week I received from the school this package. When I looked at the label I saw that it was written in English. I knew immediately that it was sent from American children through the Red Cross. I thank all the children who made this happiness possible for me. I am a displaced person and have lost my home. I believe that is why I received this package. I was only three years old when my parents, my brother and I had to leave our home. We made our new home in Berlin where I attend school and I am in the third grade. I already have had one year of English, don't know too much about it yet but try awful hard to learn it. I would be very happy if I would receive a letter from any of you dear givers. I will end my letter now with the best greetings. I am your friend,

KLAUS BAUMGARTEN
(1) Berlin Schoneberg
Sachendamn Soa III Trp.
Germani U.S.A. Sektor"

Letters to other schools in the city and county were received from France and the Philippine Islands.

The purpose of this part of the Junior Red Cross program is to develop in the youth of America international awareness and attitudes of generosity and good will toward peoples of other countries.

Hunger for Religion Shown by Prisoners

Freedom Village, Korea, April 25 (AP)—A navy chaplain who has greeted every group of disabled prisoners returning from Communist prison camps says they have a deep hunger for religion.

Lt. Cmdr. E. Vaughan Lyons of Wilmington, Del., said he has been "surprised at the number who said they wanted to receive the holy communion as soon as they came into the processing tent."

"Some broke down and cried during holy communion, but the majority were completely absorbed in their prayers. For them the holy communion was an act of thanksgiving, one way of expressing religiously their gratitude for being able to return to freedom and safety," he added.

Two Will Join Church

Lyons, a Presbyterian, is attached to the First Marine Division.

He said two prisoners who told him they never had gone to church said they had resolved to join a church while they were captives.

One of the two, Pfc. Harold L. Witt of Bartlesville, Okla., told Lyon "I've never been to church and I don't know much about it, but when I get home I'm going to church with my wife and join up."

Witt was exchanged yesterday and told of seeing the bodies of American prisoners hauled away on cars from a Communist prison camp called "Death Valley."

Carrier Docks

New York, April 25 (AP)—The huge aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt docked here today for a three-day visit, and 15,000 high school students have been invited to come aboard. The carrier, one of the nation's three largest, docked at the 46th street Hudson river pier after taking part in maneuvers off North Carolina. Visiting students will get to see various aircraft, including the navy's latest jet fighter, and special equipment exhibits.

Bradley Asks Names Of Successors Now

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, has proposed that successors for himself and two of the other three members of the top military planning group be named promptly.

Bradley said last night he has suggested to Secretary of Defense Wilson that the new members be appointed before expiration of the incumbents' terms so they could start studying staff problems.

The joint chiefs chairman spoke from Paris in an interview with NBC Commentator Richard Harkness in Washington.

Bradley's term and that of Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, expire Aug. 1. The term of Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, ends June 30. The remaining member, Adm. William Fechteler, chief of naval operations, has a term running two more years.

Some Republican leaders have been advocating a change in joint chiefs' membership for a fresh approach to military problems. But Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio said there was no discussion of the matter at a meeting yesterday between President Eisenhower and congressional leaders.

Backers See . . .

recommendation of Atty. Gen. Brownell that the boundaries be fixed by a map.

He declared also that recognition of states' boundaries beyond the territorial limit of three miles usually asserted by the federal government invites reprisals from other nations and constitutes a threat to U. S. fishermen. Texas and Florida claim up to 10½ miles.

Criticises Press

Morse at one point contended that "the big press of the country is lined up" with proponents of state ownership and that only after the long-talk tactics began did the debate get much coverage.

But Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), helping Morse out with questions, suggested editors may not have thought stories about the submerged lands were newsworthy.

Morse said that "with some exceptions, objectivity permeates Washington correspondents." He agreed with Douglas that working newspapermen in Washington "with certain exceptions observe a very high degree of journalistic ethics."

Douglas declared that the St. Louis Post-Dispatch had given support for federal ownership without which "his fight would have been almost hopeless." Morse asserted that there is "not a single paper greater than the St. Louis Post-Dispatch" in the country.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), an opponent of the bill, said in an interview a final vote probably would come by next Thursday or Friday. All night sessions are planned next week if the debate goes on.

Both Jackson and Morse asserted that the opponents would not crumble without a further fight.

In Line With Platform

The President's views were expressed in a letter to Sen. Anderson (D.-N. M.) who, with 24 other senators, had asked his position on boundary claims by the states beyond the traditional three-mile limit.

Eisenhower said his views "are in line with my party's platform," which he quoted as favoring "restoration to the states of their rights to all lands and resources beneath navigable inland and offshore waters within historic boundaries."

The press release from Secretary Mabel Fisher of the Upper Hudson Area CIO said, "Oil and gas resources in the submerged lands of the Gulf of Mexico and the California coast are estimated to be worth from 50 to 100 billion dollars. California, Texas and Louisiana are claiming that these resources belong to them. Three times the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that these states do not own, and never did own, the lands underneath the open sea. These three states now ask Congress to turn over to them these submerged lands and their treasure in gas and oil.

"Twice Congress has voted—in 1946 and 1952—to give this oil and gas to the three states. President Truman blocked the steal both times by a presidential veto. There is a majority in the present Congress that is ready to vote for the big steal. President Eisenhower has indicated that he may approve it . . .

"As much as a six to ten billion dollars or more may eventually flow to the government in gas and oil royalties on these submerged lands. It means that this federal revenue which could be used to help build new schools, hire new teachers, pay better teacher salaries will be taken by oil companies and by the states. . . .

"Senator Lehman is leading the fight against the off-shore oil grab. But Senator Irving M. Ives has not lifted a finger to stop it, as of now, there is every reason to believe that he will give it his support. Such action would be a violation of his responsibilities to his constituents and to the nation. The amount in income that would be lost to New York state if this bill passes has been estimated at more than four billion dollars. . . .

"Ives must be told where the people stand on this issue in no uncertain terms, letters should be sent to him demanding his vote against the bill, and in addition, some kind of effort on his part to assure its defeat."

Medina Won't Run

New York, April 25 (AP)—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina, who presided at the first trial of Communist leaders, says political and civic leaders are vainly trying to get him to run for mayor in November. Medina, who did not identify the leaders, said: "I never ran for anything and I certainly am not going to start now."

More Misery . . .

Communists operate on him because the piece of shrapnel was in a place he did not want them to operate.

Pfc. Thomas Fetty of Fairmont, W. Va., told of a heroic second lieutenant who stuck with him when he was wounded on Jackson Heights.

Fetty said the lieutenant, who probably saved his life, was named "Denny Denmark" and was alive and well when he last saw him Jan. 15, 1952.

Fetty was wounded in the shoulder and head by a burp gun slug and his legs were paralyzed. The lieutenant was not wounded.

"I told him to get off but he said he was my platoon leader," Fetty related. "I told him they would either capture me or kill me and at that time it didn't make no damn difference."

The lieutenant tried to drag Fetty down the hill, but they were surrounded by Chinese. The lieutenant got two of the Chinese with his last hand grenade.

The Chinese searched them and moved them to a bunker and then farther to the rear.

Praises Lieutenant

"The lieutenant was carrying me as much as he could. The lieutenant dressed me. He had a medic aid bag.

"I'd just like to shake his hand," Fetty said.

Fetty said he had $350 in his pocket when captured and had intended to go on rest and relaxation leave ("R&R") the next day.

The Chinese took his money.

He wore his arm in a khaki sling and said it was still paralyzed.

"They treated me like a damn dog," he said.

The chow was lousy. The buildings were lousy. The medical care was lousy. And the weather was lousy."

Russians Reject

tives to true peace endeavors were: At worst "atomic war," at best, "a life of perpetual fear and tension.")

The Soviet statement fully agreed with Eisenhower's plea for a lessening of tension and building peace but it accused him of not being very consistent in his remarks.

Reds Stress Their Ideas

"In his address," it declared, "the President of the United States for some reason considered it possible to connect his proposals of peace with a whole series of preliminary conditions presented by him to the Soviet Union, although these claims are not reinforced by corresponding obligations from the side of the United States."

Making it perfectly clear that they did not subscribe to or agree to many of these "conditions," the Soviet statement pointed out that Russia, too, has claims and ideas about what should be done.

The statement also took up Eisenhower on his remark that deeds, not words, are needed today by saying it is impossible not to agree with the President. In other words, the Soviets say they want some deeds in addition to words from the United States to show it wants peace.

Experiment Flight

there was a ripping sound, a burst of flames, and then the earthward plunges by the two planes, trailing smoke and flame behind them.

The B-29 hit the waters of the bay near the southern shore and sank, leaving only an oil slick. The jet fell into some woods on the south shore, a short distance inland, and burned on the ground.

None of the bodies of the bomber crew have been recovered. The jet pilot was thrown clear of his plane.

A coast guard boat patrolled the bay through the night, and planes were scheduled to join it in a search today for the bomber.

Crews Identified

The air force identified the jet pilot as Maj. John Davis, 32, of Dayton, O., a test pilot from the Wright Center. He was on temporary assignment with the Republic Corp., which owned the jet.

Crewmen on the bomber, which was on detached service from Wright, were identified as: Capt. J. J. Vapenick, about 30, the pilot, of Cleveland, Capt. H. C. McClanahan, 30, the co-pilot, of Dayton; Tech. Sgt. John R. Clarkson, 31, of Austin, Texas; and Master Sgts. Claude Chemp, 34, of Martins Ferry, O., and D. D. Shaffer, 34, of Dayton.

Business Favors

many, Greece, The Netherlands, Belgium, Italy, Turkey and Great Britain.

Action Seen Unlikely

Informed officials said it appeared unlikely the Eisenhower Administration will heed the advice to turn over all aid duties to the State Department.

The business survey strongly recommends that separate foreign aid missions abroad be eliminated and that the U. S. ambassador in each country be given complete authority in carrying out American policy.

It is understood the business leaders urge steps to encourage the flow of private American capital overseas to replace government grants.

Interference Blamed

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, April 25 (AP)—The official Yugoslav press reported today that consultations between a special government commission and representatives of the Roman Catholic Church on a new religious law here have been broken off. The press reports said the split came because of interference by The Vatican. The first meeting was held two days ago to discuss terms of a new law spelling out the privileges and limitations of religious activity in this Communist country. The law was to be submitted to Parliament for approval later this year.

EDMOND J. MONGEON

A Red Cross First Aid Instructor Refresher Course will be conducted at the Kingston City Laboratory the week of April 27, Monday through Thursday, starting at 7:30 p. m., Harold A. Sanford, chairman, safety services, of the local chapter announced today. Edmond J. Mongeon, Eastern Area First Aid & Water Safety Representative, will teach the course.

Mr. Mongeon was field representative for safety services and then assistant director of safety services for the North Atlantic area. From June, 1944 to August, 1945 he was a field supervisor in services to the Armed Forces in the Philippine Islands. Prior to this, he was assistant field director with SAF in the Southwest Pacific Command.

An accredited AAU Intercollegiate Swim Official and a member of the NEAAAU swim committee Mr. Mongeon is also a member of the Board of Directors of the NE Coaches and Officials Association. He is a Lions Club member-at-large, and former vice-president of the Pittsfield, Mass., Lions Club.

Junior Married's Dance Is Slated For Armory, May 16

Anticipating a large turnout, even greater than last spring's overflow crowd, the dance committee of the Junior Married Women's Club of the YWCA, has completed final arrangements for this year's dance to be held in the Grand Ballroom of the New York State Armory, Saturday, May 16.

"Speed" Scherer and his orchestra will provide the music from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m. The program will include the Paul Jones, which contributed much to everyone's good time at last year's affair.

In honor of Armed Forces Day, which is coincident with the date of the dance, Mrs. John Ford's decorations committee is planning a military theme to dress up the ballroom.

The dance chairman, Mrs. Louis Salzmann, is assisted by Mrs. Clyde Wonderly, tickets; Mrs. Donald Gavis, reservations; Mrs. Jansen Fowler, music; and Mrs. Lloyd Findholt, publicity. Tickets may be obtained from any club member or at the door. Any party desiring advance reservations may telephone Mrs. Donald Gavis, 4159-M.

Community Concert Association Opens MembershipCampaign

With the opening of the annual membership campaign Sunday, 4:30 p. m., at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Community Concert Association is preparing for another memorable series of concerts. During the past week negotiations have been underway to book the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra for a date early in December. Efrem Kurtz, conductor of the Houston Symphony Orchestra, Houston, Tex., will be the guest conductor on tour.

Not only the almost 90-piece orchestra will be presented but also as piano soloist with the orchestra, Theodore Lettvin, youthful Chicago-born artist fresh from 70 concerts in Europe. He is the laureate of the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium International Musical competition and winner of the Naumburg and Michaels Memorial awards.

As previously announced Eugene Conley, American lyric tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, will open the series with the October concert. Chosen to sing in leading roles of two premieres at the Met this past season, Conley sang altogether 17 times in starring roles. He sang at President Eisenhower's inauguration in January.

The program for the third concert will be announced at the close of the campaign.

Organized Audience Plan

The association is formed on the organized audience plan whereby concerts are assured without profit or loss to anyone. Admission to programs is by membership card only and those joining the association directly benefit. Any person is eligible for membership simply by paying the yearly dues. Students' due are half the adult rate.

Because of the complete sell-out last season, workers have been canvassing former members during the last few days and a first report is expected at Sunday's meeting. For another sold-out season, 1,014 memberships must be enrolled before next Saturday 5 p. m.

Anyone desiring to attend the concerts next winter must enroll during the coming week with any worker or at headquarters in the Governor Clinton Hotel 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily. Mrs. Reynolds B. Carr, telephone 417 and Mrs. Bernard Forst, 3200; are co-chairmen of the drive. A special telephone has been installed at headquarters for the week and may be reached by calling 2700.

Mrs. Marion Sistare of the New York office will be present during the week to assist the local committee.

Open to Area

Membership is open not only to residents of the city but to anyone in the area. Members attend concerts from Kerhonkson, Westkill, Tannersville, Saugerties and many other parts of the county.

Arrangements for the opening meeting Sunday afternoon have been made by Mrs. Harold Rakov. Almost 100 per cent attendance of captains, workers and board members is expected. Mrs. Sistare will speak briefly of the campaign.

Also planned for the meeting is a movie "Tanglewood on Parade."

In discussing the campaign both Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Forst asks the citizens of the community and area to make the work of the volunteers as easy as possible by getting in their memberships early. They pointed out that it is to the advantage of every member not only to get in his membership promptly but to try to get another new membership along with it as every dollar collected by the association goes into securing more concerts. Thus there is no limit to the possible value of a membership other than the number of seats in the auditorium.

Mrs. Louis Kegler, secretary, made a special point of the fact that no box-office admissions to any of the concerts will be sold, since the artists who appear in the series are selected according to the number of memberships obtained during the drive.

Officers of the association for the year are Lloyd R. LeFever, president; Mrs. Herbert I. Bloom, first vice-president; Leonard H. Stine, second vice-president; Mrs. Kegler, secretary; and Joseph H. Craig, treasurer.

Annette D. Beaver, Jose Ramon Martinez Wed in Port Ewen

Miss Annette Dorothy Beaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Beaver of Port Ewen, became the bride of Jose Ramon Martinez, 506 East 24th street, Brooklyn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clemente Martinez of Havana, Cuba, at 10:30 a. m. on Saturday, April 18, in the Church of the Presentation, Port Ewen. The Rev. Joseph Comyns, CSsR, assistant pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. A reception and luncheon for 50 guests was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The church was decorated with Easter lilies, and white and yellow gladioli. Miss Veronica Coniglio was the organist and accompanied Marion Hayduk, soloist, in the Ave Maria, Panis Angelicus, and Mother Beloved.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white slipper-satin gown styled with a sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and a long full skirt which terminated in a train. Her fingertip-length veil was attached to a satin and net cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of fleur d'amour, white roses and swansonia.

Miss Anne Novak of Brooklyn was the maid-of-honor. She was attired in an ice-blue gown fashioned with a fitted satin bodice, long pointed sleeves and a net skirt. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and swansonia. Miss Joan Beaver was her sister's flower girl. Her gown was of ice-blue nylon net, and she carried a nosegay of red and yellow roses.

Edward Dzurinko of Park Ridge, N. J. was best man. Serving as ushers were brothers of the bride, John and Eugene Beaver of Port Ewen.

The couple left for a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, Pa. They will live in Brooklyn. For traveling, the bride chose a navy blue suit and topper, white and navy-blue accessories, and a corsage of fleur d'amour.

Mrs. Martinez was graduated from Kingston High School, and from Latin-American Institute, New York city.

Mr. Martinez was graduated from Colegio de la Salle, Havana, Cuba, and is employed by Olavarria & Co., Inc., New York.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People,' etc.)

NO GUEST ROOM

A not unusual situation is described as follows: "We have moved to a large city and many of our friends find our house a convenient stopping-off place whenever they come to the city to shop or go to the theatre. Last month we had overnight guests ten days out of the month. Our house is beginning to seem like Grand Hotel, and our budget just can't take it. What can we do without being rude?"

Turn your spare bedroom into a study, or whatever you and your husband would use, with a large desk instead of a bed, and be frank in saying that you have no room for overnight guests.

The Names We Give Them

Dear Mrs. Post: Please settle an argument for me. I contend that husbands and wives should never be referred to as Mr. or Mrs. except when speaking to those in their employ and that a husband or wife should be referred to by first name when speaking to friends and as "my husband," or "my wife" when speaking to casual acquaintances. My sister says I am wrong and that you always refer to your mate as Mr. or Mrs., except when speaking to friends who know both.

Answer: When speaking to strangers or to persons in your employ, you quite properly say Mr. or Mrs., to social acquaintances you say "my husband" or "my wife." To friends you say "Mary" or "John," whether they call them that or not.

Announcing the Birth

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it would be proper to use a Mr. and Mrs. "informal" card to announce the birth of our child? I thought instead of having birth announcements printed I could write the necessary information on the inside of the card at my leisure in the hospital and send these out instead. I would like your opinion of this.

Answer: Of course you can do this, or send your message in any way that you would like to.

Mendelssohn Club Announces Guest Soloist For 50th Anniversary Concert on May 1

William McGrath, tenor, of Medina, will be the guest soloist of the 50th Anniversary concert of the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston Friday evening, May 1.

The concert will be held at Kingston High School. Admission will be by complimentary ticket.

McGrath began the study of several musical instruments in his native Medina when, upon reaching high school, he decided to become a music teacher. As voice coach for the tenor soloist for one particular Christmas program, he had to step in and sing the part himself when a snowstorm prevented the soloist from appearing. This proved the turning point in his plans, because the performance revealed such remarkable qualities that McGrath's teachers were convinced, and convinced him, that he should concentrate on voice.

Wins Competition

The young tenor then began voice study and performed in many local music festivals, the most important being the Allstate competition which he won while still a high school sophomore.

The December after his graduation from high school, McGrath was engaged by the Buffalo Philharmonic as tenor soloist in the Verdi Requiem. Other soloists for the performance were Rose Bampton, Herta Glaz and James Pease —quite a company for so young an artist. This time an unexpected snowstorm almost kept him from appearing. He was delayed, but arrived just in time for the first tenor solo, which he started to sing offstage, and walked on to the stage as he sang. Since that first appearance, he has been a guest with the same orchestra for more than 30 years.

In 1946, the year after his orchestral debut with the Buffalo Philharmonic, he was offered a fellowship to the Juilliard School of Music. The people of Medina furnished him with a sum of money which enabled him to accept the opportunity.

The Medina citizens have been rewarded many times by hearing his voice on the Bell Telephone Hour and the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, and have requested that he present a yearly concert in Medina, the proceeds of which should repay this grant. The concerts have been so popular that the return of the money was soon realized. Even so, McGrath continues to present his annual concert and now the proceeds are used to help other artists as he was helped six years ago.

Toscanini Engages

Toscanini heard McGrath when he appeared on the Metropolitan Auditions, and immediately engaged him to be tenor soloist at his famous Carnegie Hall performance of the Verdi Requiem. He has been soloist with the Shaw Chorale, with the New York Oratorio Society, and in many oratorios in the eastern part of the United States. In the south, he was with the "Highlights of Opera" tour.

Radio Class Play

Presenting another in the series of one-act plays, the KHS Radio Classes will next present On the Air, and Say It With Flowers.

On the Air takes place entirely in a radio studio. The cast is composed of Joe Modica, Dayle Auchmoody, Eileen Sickler, Beverly Schryver, Dorothy Doll, Harry Levy, Joe Stein and Joe Dempsey. Sound effects are by Jack Schoonmaker. Ronald Avery and Bruce Reynolds are the technicians. Mike Flannagan will announce.

Say It With Flowers, the second play, is a teen-age play dealing with a dance and the events leading up to it. The participants are Hazel Gadd, Karen Clausen, Robert Cole, Faith Kingsburg, Paul Johnson, Anne McAuliffe, Mary Smith, Percy Russell, and Bob Scott.

Percy Russell also is in charge of the sound effects, and the technician is Harold Carlson.

Trip to Syracuse

Six Kingston High School students left yesterday for Syracuse to compete with students from all over the state in the annual New York State Citizenship Conference. These students are Marni Paley, Elizabeth Nussbaum, Glenn Edinger, Paula Weiner, Curtiss Swezy and Edwin Strong. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Mildred DeWitt.

The topics they will present their speeches on, are: The personal qualities, methods for leadership and impact of the leader on the group, The qualities we have seen or would like to see in our government representatives, and When should a government representative vote according to his will; and according to the opinion of the people that elected him.

This trip is partly financed by Prisma and Student Council.

Lamp Building Contest

Six winners were selected from 35 entries in the second annual lamp building contest, sponsored by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation at Kingston High School.

Glenn DeBrosky was awarded first prize of $10, with Roy Schneider and Eugene Beaver collecting $6 and $4 each respectively. Honorable mentions were given to Howard Swehla, George Duffner and James Amato.

Judges who selected the winners were Mrs. Spencer Ennist, proprietor of the Governor Clinton Gift Shop; Raymond Herrick, of Ackerman and Herrick's Hardware Store and Charles Fabiano, manager of Union Fern.

After being on display at the Central Hudson building on Broadway, the prize winning lamp from Kingston will go to Poughkeepsie, June 3, to be judged with the winners from 32 other high schools for a grand award of $50.

Girls' State Candidates

Candidates who will attend the Empire Girls' State at Skidmore College, Saratoga, in June include Frieda Cohen, representing Kingston High and Joanne Lee, representing the Woodstock American Legion Post. Liz Nussbaum has been chosen as an alternate.

One week of athletics, picnics, and a thorough study of the government will be enjoyed by the two junior girls. Selection of these students was based on scholarship, leadership and citizenship.

Key Club

Kingston High School was honored in having Mike Epstein elected New York state treasurer of the national Key Club organization at the annual meeting April 18 and 19 at Syracuse.

Also representing KHS were Bruce Bechtold, president of next year's local Key Club; Dick Constant, present New York state treasurer; and Ed Strong. Hubert Hoderath accompanied the group.

Band Assembly

At popular demand of the students, the Kingston High School Band will present an assembly Thursday and Friday May 7 and 8.

The band will present a special repertoire of popular songs while accompaning the students in a community sing.

Dog Show

Dog Lover's Club will hold its annual Dog Show May 2 at 2 p. m. on the MJM field under the guidance of Leo Dohney.

Members of the show committee are Harriet Dyers, chairman with Linda Gunzelmen and Ann Fridel serving as her assistants. Marilyn Weigert is chairman of the prize committee with Vivian Caciappo and Jackie Wiegert assisting.

Over 25 prizes donated by different Kingston merchants will be awarded. Ribbons also will be awarded to the final winners.

Will Visit School

Forty students from the retailing classes of Poughkeepsie High School will visit Kingston's retailing classes Tuesday, April 28. They will be divided among the classes in the morning, will have a luncheon in the cafeteria, and will then go out to work with the Kingston students in the afternoon. The purpose of the visit is for the students to compare the two schools in their methods of training students in work experience.

Junior Prom

The annual Junior Prom will be held tonight in the MJM gym, to the music of Wendell Scherer's Orchestra.

Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Culver, Mr. and Mrs. Limbacher, Mr. and Mrs. Lachmann, Mr. and Mrs. Bechtold, Mr. and Mrs. Kias, Mr. and Mrs. Etienne and Mr. and Mrs. Turner.

Honor Society Sale

Manning Chapter National Honor Society will conduct a food sale Saturday, May 2, at Montgomery Ward on North Front street and the Bull Market on Smith avenue beginning at 1 p. m.

Money earned by this project will help finance the annual picnic, following the spring inductions, and the scholarships that are going to be given at commencement.

Lynda Sulko and Pat Zimmerman are in charge of the sale.

EDMOND J. MONGEON

A Red Cross First Aid Instructor Refresher Course will be conducted at the Kingston City Laboratory the week of April 27, Monday through Thursday, starting at 7:30 p. m., Harold A. Sanford, chairman, safety services, of the local chapter announced today. Edmond J. Mongeon, Eastern Area First Aid & Water Safety Representative, will teach the course.

Mr. Mongeon was field representative for safety services and then assistant director of safety services for the North Atlantic area. From June, 1944 to August, 1945 he was a field supervisor in services to the Armed Forces in the Philippine Islands. Prior to this, he was assistant field director with SAF in the Southwest Pacific Command.

An accredited AAU Intercollegiate Swim Official and a member of the NEAAAU swim committee Mr. Mongeon is also a member of the Board of Directors of the NE Coaches and Officials Association. He is a Lions Club member-at-large, and former vice-president of the Pittsfield, Mass., Lions Club.

Junior Married's Dance Is Slated For Armory, May 16

Anticipating a large turnout, even greater than last spring's overflow crowd, the dance committee of the Junior Married Women's Club of the YWCA, has completed final arrangements for this year's dance to be held in the Grand Ballroom of the New York State Armory, Saturday, May 16.

"Speed" Scherer and his orchestra will provide the music from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m. The program will include the Paul Jones, which contributed much to everyone's good time at last year's affair.

In honor of Armed Forces Day, which is coincident with the date of the dance, Mrs. John Ford's decorations committee is planning a military theme to dress up the ballroom.

The dance chairman, Mrs. Louis Salzmann, is assisted by Mrs. Clyde Wonderly, tickets; Mrs. Donald Gavis, reservations; Mrs. Jansen Fowler, music; and Mrs. Lloyd Findholt, publicity. Tickets may be obtained from any club member or at the door. Any party desiring advance reservations may telephone Mrs. Donald Gavis, 4159-M.

Community Concert Association Opens MembershipCampaign

With the opening of the annual membership campaign Sunday, 4:30 p. m., at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Community Concert Association is preparing for another memorable series of concerts. During the past week negotiations have been underway to book the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra for a date early in December. Efrem Kurtz, conductor of the Houston Symphony Orchestra, Houston, Tex., will be the guest conductor on tour.

Not only the almost 90-piece orchestra will be presented but also as piano soloist with the orchestra, Theodore Lettvin, youthful Chicago-born artist fresh from 70 concerts in Europe. He is the laureate of the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium International Musical competition and winner of the Naumburg and Michaels Memorial awards.

As previously announced Eugene Conley, American lyric tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, will open the series with the October concert. Chosen to sing in leading roles of two premieres at the Met this past season, Conley sang altogether 17 times in starring roles. He sang at President Eisenhower's inauguration in January.

The program for the third concert will be announced at the close of the campaign.

Organized Audience Plan

The association is formed on the organized audience plan whereby concerts are assured without profit or loss to anyone. Admission to programs is by membership card only and those joining the association directly benefit. Any person is eligible for membership simply by paying the yearly dues. Students' due are half the adult rate.

Because of the complete sell-out last season, workers have been canvassing former members during the last few days and a first report is expected at Sunday's meeting. For another sold-out season, 1,014 memberships must be enrolled before next Saturday 5 p. m.

Anyone desiring to attend the concerts next winter must enroll during the coming week with any worker or at headquarters in the Governor Clinton Hotel 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily. Mrs. Reynolds B. Carr, telephone 417 and Mrs. Bernard Forst, 3200; are co-chairmen of the drive. A special telephone has been installed at headquarters for the week and may be reached by calling 2700.

Mrs. Marion Sistare of the New York office will be present during the week to assist the local committee.

Open to Area

Membership is open not only to residents of the city but to anyone in the area. Members attend concerts from Kerhonkson, Westkill, Tannersville, Saugerties and many other parts of the county.

Arrangements for the opening meeting Sunday afternoon have been made by Mrs. Harold Rakov. Almost 100 per cent attendance of captains, workers and board members is expected. Mrs. Sistare will speak briefly of the campaign.

As a special music treat a group of 30 members of the Kingston High School A Cappella Choir under the direction of Leonard Stine will sing several numbers from this year's repetoire.

Also planned for the meeting is a movie "Tanglewood on Parade."

In discussing the campaign both Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Forst asks the citizens of the community and area to make the work of the volunteers as easy as possible by getting in their memberships early. They pointed out that it is to the advantage of every member not only to get in his membership promptly but to try to get another new membership along with it as every dollar collected by the association goes into securing more concerts. Thus there is no limit to the possible value of a membership other than the number of seats in the auditorium.

Mrs. Louis Kegler, secretary, made a special point of the fact that no box-office admissions to any of the concerts will be sold, since the artists who appear in the series are selected according to the number of memberships obtained during the drive.

Officers of the association for the year are Lloyd R. LeFever, president; Mrs. Herbert I. Bloom, first vice-president; Leonard H. Stine, second vice-president; Mrs. Kegler, secretary; and Joseph H. Craig, treasurer.

Annette D. Beaver, Jose Ramon Martinez Wed in Port Ewen

Miss Annette Dorothy Beaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Beaver of Port Ewen, became the bride of Jose Ramon Martinez, 506 East 24th street, Brooklyn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clemente Martinez of Havana, Cuba, at 10:30 a. m. on Saturday, April 18, in the Church of the Presentation, Port Ewen. The Rev. Joseph Comyns, CSsR, assistant pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. A reception and luncheon for 50 guests was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The church was decorated with Easter lilies, and white and yellow gladioli. Miss Veronica Coniglio was the organist and accompanied Marion Hayduk, soloist, in the Ave Maria, Panis Angelicus, and Mother Beloved.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white slipper-satin gown styled with a sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and a long full skirt which terminated in a train. Her fingertip-length veil was attached to a satin and net cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of fleur d'amour, white roses and swansonia.

Miss Anne Novak of Brooklyn was the maid-of-honor. She was attired in an ice-blue gown fashioned with a fitted satin bodice, long pointed sleeves and a net skirt. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and swansonia. Miss Joan Beaver was her sister's flower girl. Her gown was of ice-blue nylon net, and she carried a nosegay of red and yellow roses.

Edward Dzurinko of Park Ridge, N. J. was best man. Serving as ushers were brothers of the bride, John and Eugene Beaver of Port Ewen.

The couple left for a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, Pa. They will live in Brooklyn. For traveling, the bride chose a navy blue suit and topper, white and navy-blue accessories, and a corsage of fleur d'amour.

Mrs. Martinez was graduated from Kingston High School, and from Latin-American Institute, New York city.

Mr. Martinez was graduated from Colegio de la Salle, Havana, Cuba, and is employed by Olavarria & Co., Inc., New York.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People, etc.)

NO GUEST ROOM

A not unusual situation is described as follows: "We have moved to a large city and many of our friends find our house a convenient stopping-off place whenever they come to the city to shop or go to the theatre. Last month we had overnight guests ten days out of the month. Our house is beginning to seem like Grand Hotel, and our budget just can't take it. What can we do without being rude?"

Turn your spare bedroom into a study, or whatever you and your husband would use, with a large desk instead of a bed, and be frank in saying that you have no room for overnight guests.

The Names We Give Them

Dear Mrs. Post: Please settle an argument for me. I contend that husbands and wives should never be referred to as Mr. or Mrs. except when speaking to those in their employ and that a husband or wife should be referred to by first name when speaking to friends and as "my husband," or "my wife" when speaking to casual acquaintances. My sister says I am wrong and that you always refer to your mate as Mr. or Mrs., except when speaking to friends who know both.

Answer: When speaking to strangers or to persons in your employ, you quite properly say Mr. or Mrs., to social acquaintances you say "my husband" or "my wife." To friends you say "Mary" or "John," whether they call them that or not.

Announcing the Birth

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it would be proper to use a Mr. and Mrs. "informal" card to announce the birth of our child? I thought instead of having birth announcements printed I could write the necessary information on the inside of the card at my leisure in the hospital and send these out instead. I would like your opinion of this.

Answer: Of course you can do this, or send your message in any way that you would like to.

Mendelssohn Club Announces Guest Soloist For 50th Anniversary Concert on May 1

William McGrath, tenor, of Medina, will be the guest soloist of the 50th Anniversary concert of the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston Friday evening, May 1.

The concert will be held at Kingston High School. Admission will be by complimentary ticket.

McGrath began the study of several musical instruments in his native Medina when, upon reaching high school, he decided to become a music teacher. As voice coach for the tenor soloist for one particular Christmas program, he had to step in and sing the part himself when a snowstorm prevented the soloist from appearing. This proved the turning point in his plans, because the performance revealed such remarkable qualities that McGrath's teachers were convinced, and convinced him, that he should concentrate on voice.

Wins Competition

The young tenor then began voice study and performed in many local music festivals, the most important being the Allstate competition which he won while still a high school sophomore.

The December after his graduation from high school, McGrath was engaged by the Buffalo Philharmonic as tenor soloist in the Verdi Requiem. Other soloists for the performance were Rose Bampton, Herta Glaz and James Pease—quite a company for so young an artist. This time an unexpected snowstorm almost kept him from appearing. He was delayed, but arrived just in time for the first tenor solo, which he started to sing offstage, and walked on to the stage as he sang. Since that first appearance, he has been a guest with the same orchestra for more than 30 years.

In 1946, the year after his orchestral debut with the Buffalo Philharmonic, he was offered a fellowship to the Juilliard School of Music. The people of Medina furnished him with a sum of money which enabled him to accept the opportunity.

The Medina citizens have been rewarded many times by hearing his voice on the Bell Telephone Hour and the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air, and have requested that he present a yearly concert in Medina, the proceeds of which should repay this grant. The concerts have been so popular that the return of the money was soon realized. Even so, McGrath continues to present his annual concert and now the proceeds are used to help other artists as he was helped six years ago.

Toscanini Engages

Toscanini heard McGrath when he appeared on the Metropolitan Auditions, and immediately engaged him to be tenor soloist at his famous Carnegie Hall performance of the Verdi Requiem. He has been soloist with the Shaw Chorale, with the New York Oratorio Society, and in many oratorios in the eastern part of the United States. In the south, he was with the "Highlights of Opera" tour.

Radio Class Play

Presenting another in the series of one-act plays, the KHS Radio Classes will next present On the Air, and Say It With Flowers.

On the Air takes place entirely in a radio studio. The cast is composed of Joe Modica, Dayle Auchmoody, Eileen Sickler, Beverly Schryver, Dorothy Doll, Harry Levy, Joe Stein and Joe Dempsey. Sound effects are by Jack Schoonmaker. Ronald Avery and Bruce Reynolds are the technicians. Mike Flannagan will announce.

Say It With Flowers, the second play, is a teen-age play dealing with a dance and the events leading up to it. The participants are Hazel Gadd, Karen Clausen, Robert Cole, Faith Kingsburg, Paul Johnson, Anne McAuliffe, Mary Smith, Percy Russell, and Bob Scott.

Percy Russell also is in charge of the sound effects, and the technician is Harold Carlson.

Trip to Syracuse

Six Kingston High School students left yesterday for Syracuse to compete with students from all over the state in the annual New York State Citizenship Conference. These students are Marni Paley, Elizabeth Nussbaum, Glenn Edinger, Paula Weiner, Curtiss Swezy and Edwin Strong. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Mildred DeWitt.

The topics they will present their speeches on, are: The personal qualities, methods for leadership and impact of the leader on the group, The qualities we have seen or would like to see in our government representatives, and When should a government representative vote according to his will; and according to the opinion of the people that elected him.

This trip is partly financed by Prisma and Student Council.

Lamp Building Contest

Six winners were selected from 35 entries in the second annual lamp building contest, sponsored by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation at Kingston High School.

Glenn DeBrosky was awarded first prize of $10, with Roy Schneider and Eugene Beaver collecting $6 and $4 each respectively. Honorable mentions were given to Howard Swehla, George Duffner and James Amato.

Judges who selected the winners were Mrs. Spencer Ennist, proprietor of the Governor Clinton Gift Shop; Raymond Herrick, of Ackerman and Herrick's Hardware Store and Charles Fabiano, manager of Union Fern.

After being on display at the Central Hudson building on Broadway, the prize winning lamp from Kingston will go to Poughkeepsie, June 3, to be judged with the winners from 32 other high schools for a grand award of $50.

Girls' State Candidates

Candidates who will attend the Empire Girls' State at Skidmore College, Saratoga, in June include Frieda Cohen, representing Kingston High and Joanne Lee, representing the Woodstock American Legion Post. Liz Nussbaum has been chosen as an alternate.

One week of athletics, picnics, and a thorough study of the government will be enjoyed by the two junior girls. Selection of these students was based on scholarship, leadership and citizenship.

Key Club

Kingston High School was honored in having Mike Epstein elected New York state treasurer of the national Key Club organization at the annual meeting April 18 and 19 at Syracuse.

Also representing KHS were Bruce Bechtold, president of next year's local Key Club; Dick Constant, present New York state treasurer; and Ed Strong. Hubert Hoderath accompanied the group.

Band Assembly

At popular demand of the students, the Kingston High School Band will present an assembly Thursday and Friday May 7 and 8.

The band will present a special repertoire of popular songs while accompaning the students in a community sing.

Dog Show

Dog Lover's Club will hold its annual Dog Show May 2 at 2 p. m. on the MJM field under the guidance of Leo Dohney.

Members of the show committee are Harriet Dyers, chairman with Linda Gunzelmen and Ann Fridel serving as her assistants. Marilyn Weigert is chairman of the prize committee with Vivian Caciappo and Jackie Wiegert assisting.

Over 25 prizes donated by different Kingston merchants will be awarded. Ribbons also will be awarded to the final winners.

Will Visit School

Forty students from the retailing classes of Poughkeepsie High School will visit Kingston's retailing classes Tuesday, April 28. They will be divided among the classes in the morning, will have a luncheon in the cafeteria, and will then go out to work with the Kingston students in the afternoon. The purpose of the visit is for the students to compare the two schools in their methods of training students in work experience.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Herbert Sutter, the Wagner College athletic director who addressed the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick's second annual "Sports Night" at Trinity Lutheran Church this week, proved to be something of a rare species.

Instead of dwelling on sportsmanship and making a subtle pitch for area athletes who might be interested in his alma mater, Sutter dwelled instead on a subject that is becoming one of growing concern with educators.

His main thesis might make suitable required reading for college and high school administrators who are finding it increasingly difficult—and exasperating—to curb mob pyschology at athletic contests—particularly basketball, the most emotional sports accessible to the American sports follower.

Basketball, you know, still attracts more spectators than any national sport.

Sutter, an old college chum of the Rev. Mr. Gollnick, was hard hitting. He berated administrators for not taking proper steps to cope with what he termed one of the most unsavory aspects of American athletics.

Mob psychology has become rampant in the American high school and college, Prof. Sutter said, and modern audiences go to extremes in villifying opposition players, sometimes their own, and often crucifying officials for human errors. He even took a roundhouse swipe at sports writers for criticizing the officials and rules.

"It has become fashionable with some sports writers," Sutter said, "to dwell more on criticism of officials, the rules and players and less on the objective narrative of the contest itself."

The American sports arena, Sutter observed, has become a clinical area where "the other half" of the normal citizen gives way to the maniac. "It is amazing how some normal, ordinary, peace-loving, God-fearing citizens are transformed into raging maniacs once they enter a sports arena," he observed. "They heap abuse and vilification on players and officials alike and the things they say in the heat of battle would be libelous anyplace else in the world. Some of them feel that the purchase price of a ticket entitles them unburden themselves of everything that is unsavory, nasty and partisan in a person."

Prof. Sutter, a man who has enjoyed huge success as a small college coach for 20 years, said schools and colleges are missing the boat when they fail to indoctrinate the spectator, the vast majority of the student body and adults, while the select few of the varsity athletes are put through rigid processes, physical and mental training.

Spectator interest must be promoted in an objective manner, he said, but it must be kept within bounds so that the rights of officials and players are never violated. Crowds should be taught, he went on, that the officials and players of rival teams are "guests" of the home management and are there on the invitation of the home club.

He might have been talking straight at Kingston High School which has fallen into disrepute in recent years in basketball. Time was when KHS was invincible on the basketball court. Many of our folks had to learn to accept defeat the hard way. It is encouraging to report that some improvement is noted, but there is still a long road ahead before Kingston can regain the Sportsmanship Trophy.

Newburgh Academy, too, had its moments. The situation got so bad in mid-season that Principal Burnett had to call a special assembly and warn the students. He warned them briefly—if the spectator conduct doesn't improve quickly at NFA basketball games, the remainder of the schedule would be played in private.

Sutter was a refreshing personality who steered away from the traditional clinches of the rubber chicken circuit. His appeal for tolerance and sportsmanship from athletic audiences recalled a story attributed to Dr. Frank Meanwell, the great University of Wisconsin basketball coach.

Things got awfully rough at a Big Ten game one night, with booing and catcalls rising in a spectacular crescendo. Finally, Dr. Meanwell became disgusted. He called time out for his team and strode to the center of the floor.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said simply, "just remember that you are ladies and gentlemen."

Ah, that it were always that easy!

200 Players Working Out For LL Teams

Approximately 200 candidates, evenly divided between the American League at the 156th FA diamond and the newly-formed National League at Hasbrouck Park will vie for berths for the 1953 season.

Tryouts will continue Monday at 5:30 at both parks. Boys who have not registered may do so at these session.

The candidates are reminded that they must participate in at least 50 per cent of these tryouts in order to qualify for a regular berth on a Little League team.

New uniforms will be ready for all teams in both the National and American leagues. Teams will carry 15 players each.

Referee Rawson Under Heavy Fire For Brutal Bout

His Explanation: 'Tom Wasn't Hurt'

Boston, April 25 (AP)—Millions in the nation's televised boxing audience continued seething with indignation today over the manner in which lightweight champion Jimmy Carter was permitted to dispose of Boston's Tommy Collins, an amazingly courageous and astoundingly rash challenger.

After Carter knocked down Collins 10 times in 11 minutes, 28 seconds to gain a four-round technical knockout victory in their scheduled 15-round bout last night at the Boston Garden, outraged protests were heard almost everywhere television reaches. Only Boston was blacked out in the nation.

The direct target of the public fury was Referee Tommy Rawson, a highly competent lightweight battler in his own right about two decades ago and now a successful Cambridge contractor. The two members of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission at ringside also drew sharp criticism from TV viewers.

Collins' Statement

But the victim of the most savage battle ever televised, Collins, himself, supported Rawson's officiating with the very first words he uttered reaching his dressing room.

"Of course I don't think Rawson should have stopped the fight earlier," the gallant Collins said through puffed lips. "It was for the world championship. Why should they have stopped it?"

The consensus of the Rawson critics, one of the most outspoken being President George Barton of the National Boxing Association, an actual eyewitness, was that Rawson erred in permitting Collins to suffer so many knockdowns.

"It was the worst exhibition of boxing officiating I have seen in 50 years," Barton said. "I can't understand why the referee permitted Collins to take such a beating. The bout should have been stopped after he had been knocked down for the third or fourth time in the third round."

No "Flush" Champions

"No blow that knocked Collins down was a flush punch. He was knocked down every time by 'feel-out' punches," Rawson explained.

"I never felt at any time that Collins was in danger of being hurt. While wiping off his gloves after the first nine knockdowns, I yelled in his ear 'can you continue?' Each time he replied, 'Yes, I'm fine.'"

Rawson finally stopped the tragically uneven contest when one of Collins' seconds, "Coogie" McFarland, brother of Boxing Commissioner Jimmy McFarland, rushed into the ring after the challenger toppled over for the 10th time.

It is likely that many in the nation-wide television audience would have been amazed if they had been able to view Collins in his dressing room. Less than five minutes after he had been guided from the ring, Collins had showered without assistance and was able to discuss the wrecking of his championship hopes in lucid fashion.

But his face was battered and his left eye almost closed.

Neither of the state boxing commissioners in attendance, newly appointed Henry Lamar, a Harvard sports coach and former heavyweight boxer, and McFarland, also an oldtime boxer, would comment in any fashion about the one-sided battle that shocked the nation.

"I have no comment and I won't have anything to say tonight," Lamar said as his associate nodded agreement.

Although the ill-fated Collins ruled as Boston's current fistic idol, his most rabid supporters agreed he had to deliver an early knockout to dethrone the highly competent Carter. Carter weighed 134½ and Collins 133¾.

Never Even Close

As a result, the champion was a top-heavy 2-1 favorite when he entered the ring before a 12,477 crowd. And, from the very first fistic exchange, Carter demonstrated his superiority in decisive fashion.

The battlers spent the first round feeling each other out and, apparently, Carter learned all he wanted to know during the first three minutes.

As soon as the second session opened, Carter lacerated Collins with his two-fisted attack to the head and body. He put the Bostonian down seven times in the third round and three times more before Rawson intervened at 2:28 in the fourth.

The bout's first financial report, subject to revision, assured Collins of his richest purse, 22½ per cent of both the net receipts of $123,577 and the $50,000 television fee. Carter's was 37½ per cent—the champion's customary share—of the combined revenue.

Where Were the Doctors, He Asks

(By The Associated Press)

Boxing officials, writers and many television viewers throughout the country joined today in protests against Referee Tommy Rawson for not halting sooner the beating of Tommy Collins of Boston by lightweight champion Jimmy Carter at Boston Garden.

The wave of criticism continued hours after Carter knocked Collins down 10 times to gain a fourth round technical knockout last night in their nationally-televised bout.

Words such as "murder," "slaughter," "atrocious," "pitiful," "disgusting," "brutal," and "gruesome" were used freely by TV watchers who swamped newspapers and television stations across the country with telephone calls.

Referee "Explains"

Rawson explained he let the bout continue because "it was a championship fight."

"I thought it my duty to have it end in the most possible decisive fashion," said Rawson, a former professional boxer. "But when Collins' second came into the ring I was counting over him. The Massachusetts Boxing Commission's regulations forced me to stop it."

Massachusetts Boxing Commission Chairman Henry Lamar and Commissioner Tommy McFarland, both capable fighters of years back declined to comment.

But Collins readily backed Rawson's action in allowing the fight to continue.

"I was still swinging, wasn't I?" Collins said. "It was for the world championship, why should he stop it?"

Christenberry Irate

"Everything we've done to make it a clean, competitive sport they've thrown to the wind," declared Robert K. Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

"Where were the doctors? Why didn't they stop it quicker?" said Christenberry after viewing the bout on television in New York.

NBA Commissioner Abe J. Greene said at his home in Paterson, N. J., that "it seemed the fight went far beyond the time it should have been stopped."

Harold Kaese, columnist for the Boston Globe, wrote "it was pitiful to see" and "where does the contest leave off and humanity step in?"

Boston City Councillor Frederick C. Hailer Jr., said the fight was "a show of barbarism" and said he will ask the State Boxing Commission to make an investigation.

"To let a boy with Collins' courage almost get killed isn't the sport of boxing," Hailer declared angrily. "The Boxing Commission should be made to answer for this. It could have been a tragedy."

Yankees' Fifth Pennant Shaping Up as Easiest

Fast Break May Engulf Rivals

Just how good are the 1953 New York Yankees? Nobody knows yet, but off the first 10 games they appear to be finding the task of winning their fifth straight pennant the easiest of the lot.

The Yanks, riding a four game winning streak, lead the league by two games. They've won eight and lost just two to the same clubs that beat them in five of the first nine a year ago.

The Yankees of 1952 floundered through the first month and it wasn't until late May that they climbed above the .500 mark to stay. But this season only Alex Kellner, the Philadelphia lefthander, has found their number.

Kellner, who became the first three-game winner in the majors this season by whipping Boston yesterday, shut out New York on opening day and came back five days later to repeat the whitewashing — something that hadn't happened to a Yankee team since 1934.

Against everybody else the Yanks have made balance pay off—just enough hitting to go with reasonably good pitching to come out on top.

Babe Saves Yankees

Yesterday's 4-1 victory over Washington was a good example. The fellows the Yanks usually look to for power—Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and old John Mize—went hitless. So rookie third baseman Loren Babe and Gene Woodling, the hustling outfielder, chipped in with homers and Eddie Lopat added to the attack with a double, later scoring the tie-breaking run in the fifth.

The St. Louis Browns, who had been the Yankees' nearest rivals, dropped back a game by losing, 3-0, to the Chicago White Sox. Cleveland defeated Detroit, 4-1, and Philadelphia downed Boston, 7-2. Now the Browns, White Sox, Indians and Athletics all trail New York by two games.

In the National League the Phillies extended their lead to a full game by whipping Pittsburgh, 5-3, on the two-hit pitching of veteran Jim Konstanty. Brooklyn smothered New York, 12-4. St. Louis at Chicago and Cincinnati at Milwaukee were rained out.

Mike Garcia, one of Cleveland's 22-game winners last season, won his first game this year as he weathered a nine-hit Detroit attack.

Gene Bearden, a Brownie castoff, starred in the White Sox victory in St. Louis. He came in for Lou Kretlow after St. Louis had loaded the bases in the first inning on walks wtih only one out and shut out the Browns on three hits.

Boston managed to break Kellner's string of scoreless innings at 21 2/3 when George Kell doubled home Dick Gernert with two out in the fourth but the Arizona southpaw was the master the rest of the way.

Konstanty, making his first appearance this year, had a no hitter going for Philadelphia until Danny O'Connell singled with two out in the seventh. The other Pittsburgh hit came in the eighth when Dick Cole doubled.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Herbert Sutter, the Wagner College athletic director who addressed the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick's second annual "Sports Night" at Trinity Lutheran Church this week, proved to be something of a rare species.

Instead of dwelling on sportsmanship and making a subtle pitch for area athletes who might be interested in his alma mater, Sutter dwelled instead on a subject that is becoming one of growing concern with educators.

His main thesis might make suitable required reading for college and high school administrators who are finding it increasingly difficult—and exasperating—to curb mob pyschology at athletic contests—particularly basketball, the most emotional sports accessible to the American sports follower.

Basketball, you know, still attracts more spectators than any national sport.

Sutter, an old college chum of the Rev. Mr. Gollnick, was hard hitting. He berated administrators for not taking proper steps to cope with what he termed one of the most unsavory aspects of American athletics.

Mob psychology has become rampant in the American high school and college, Prof. Sutter said, and modern audiences go to extremes in villifying opposition players, sometimes their own, and often crucifying officials for human errors. He even took a roundhouse swipe at sports writers for criticizing the officials and rules.

"It has become fashionable with some sports writers," Sutter said, "to dwell more on criticism of officials, the rules and players and less on the objective narrative of the contest itself."

The American sports arena, Sutter observed, has become a clinical area where "the other half" of the normal citizen gives way to the maniac. "It is amazing how some normal, ordinary, peace-loving, God-fearing citizens are transformed into raging maniacs once they enter a sports arena," he observed. "They heap abuse and vilification on players and officials alike and the things they say in the heat of battle would be libelous anyplace else in the world. Some of them feel that the purchase price of a ticket entitles them unburden themselves of everything that is unsavory, nasty and partisan in a person."

Prof. Sutter, a man who has enjoyed huge success as a small college coach for 20 years, said schools and colleges are missing the boat when they fail to indoctrinate the spectator, the vast majority of the student body and adults, while the select few of the varsity athletes are put through rigid processes, physicel and mental training.

Spectator interest must be promoted in an objective manner, he said, but it must be kept within bounds so that the rights of officials and players are never violated. Crowds should be taught, he went on, that the officials and players of rival teams are "guests" of the home management and are there on the invitation of the home club.

He might have been talking straight at Kingston High School which has fallen into disrepute in recent years in basketball. Time was when KHS was invincible on the basketball court. Many of our folks had to learn to accept defeat the hard way. It is encouraging to report that some improvement is noted, but there is still a long road ahead before Kingston can regain the Sportsmanship Trophy.

Newburgh Academy, too, had its moments. The situation got so bad in mid-season that Principal Burnett had to call a special assembly and warn the students. He warned them briefly—if the spectator conduct doesn't improve quickly at NFA basketball games, the remainder of the schedule would be played in private.

Sutter was a refreshing personality who steered away from the traditional clinches of the rubber chicken circuit. His appeal for tolerance and sportsmanship from athletic audiences recalled a story attributed to Dr. Frank Meanwell, the great University of Wisconsin basketball coach.

Things got awfully rough at a Big Ten game one night, with booing and catcalls rising in a spectacular crescendo. Finally, Dr. Meanwell became disgusted. He called time out for his team and strode to the center of the floor.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said simply, "just remember that you are ladies and gentlemen."

Ah, that it were always that easy!

200 Players Working Out For LL Teams

Approximately 200 candidates, evenly divided between the American League at the 156th FA diamond and the newly-formed National League at Hasbrouck Park will vie for berths for the 1953 season.

Tryouts will continue Monday at 5:30 at both parks. Boys who have not registered may do so at these session.

The candidates are reminded that they must participate in at least 50 per cent of these tryouts in order to qualify for a regular berth on a Little League team.

New uniforms will be ready for all teams in both the National and American leagues. Teams will carry 15 players each.

Referee Rawson Under Heavy Fire For Brutal Bout

His Explanation: 'Tom Wasn't Hurt'

Boston, April 25 (AP)—Millions in the nation's televised boxing audience continued seething with indignation today over the manner in which lightweight champion Jimmy Carter was permitted to dispose of Boston's Tommy Collins, an amazingly courageous and astoundingly rash challenger.

After Carter knocked down Collins 10 times in 11 minutes, 28 seconds to gain a four-round technical knockout victory in their scheduled 15-round bout last night at the Boston Garden, outraged protests were heard almost everywhere television reaches. Only Boston was blacked out in the nation.

The direct target of the public fury was Referee Tommy Rawson, a highly competent lightweight battler in his own right about two decades ago and now a successful Cambridge contractor. The two members of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission at ringside also drew sharp criticism from TV viewers.

Collins' Statement

But the victim of the most savage battle ever televised, Collins, himself, supported Rawson's officiating with the very first words he uttered reaching his dressing room.

"Of course I don't think Rawson should have stopped the fight earlier," the gallant Collins said through puffed lips. "It was for the world championship. Why should they have stopped it?"

The consensus of the Rawson critics, one of the most outspoken being President George Barton of the National Boxing Association, an actual eyewitness, was that Rawson erred in permitting Collins to suffer so many knockdowns.

"It was the worst exhibition of boxing officiating I have seen in 50 years," Barton said. "I can't understand why the referee permitted Collins to take such a beating. The bout should have been stopped after he had been knocked down for the third or fourth time in the third round."

No "Flush" Champions

"No blow that knocked Collins down was a flush punch. He was knocked down every time by 'feel-out' punches," Rawson explained.

"I never felt at any time that Collins was in danger of being hurt. While wiping off his gloves after the first nine knockdowns, I yelled in his ear 'can you continue?' Each time he replied, 'Yes, I'm fine.'"

Rawson finally stopped the tragically uneven contest when one of Collins' seconds, "Coogie" McFarland, brother of Boxing Commissioner Jimmy McFarland, rushed into the ring after the challenger toppled over for the 10th time.

It is likely that many in the nation-wide television audience would have been amazed if they had been able to view Collins in his dressing room. Less than five minutes after he had been guided from the ring, Collins had showered without assistance and was able to discuss the wrecking of his championship hopes in lucid fashion.

But his face was battered and his left eye almost closed.

Neither of the state boxing commissioners in attendance, newly appointed Henry Lamar, a Harvard sports coach and former heavyweight boxer, and McFarland, also an oldtime boxer, would comment in any fashion about the one-sided battle that shocked the nation.

"I have no comment and I won't have anything to say tonight," Lamar said as his associate nodded agreement.

Although the ill-fated Collins ruled as Boston's current fistic idol, his most rabid supporters agreed he had to deliver an early knockout to dethrone the highly competent Carter. Carter weighed 134½ and Collins 133¾.

Never Even Close

As a result, the champion was a top-heavy 2-1 favorite when he entered the ring before a 12,477 crowd. And, from the very first fistic exchange, Carter demonstrated his superiority in decisive fashion.

The battlers spent the first round feeling each other out and, apparently, Carter learned all he wanted to know during the first three minutes.

As soon as the second session opened, Carter lacerated Collins with his two-fisted attack to the head and body. He put the Bostonian down seven times in the third round and three times more before Rawson intervened at 2:28 in the fourth.

The bout's first financial report, subject to revision, assured Collins of his richest purse, 22½ per cent of both the net receipts of $123,577 and the $50,000 television fee. Carter's was 37½ per cent—the champion's customary share—of the combined revenue.

Rochester Team Leads State Pins

Rochester, N. Y., April 25 (AP)—The Geddes team of Syracuse moved into the lead last night in the five-man team event of the New York State men's bowling tournament.

The team rolled 3,117, including a 235-pin handicap, to bump the Balls team of Yonkers from the top spot in the event. The Balls team took the lead last Sunday with 3,114.

In the all-events, Vic Ri Pani, of Rochester, took the lead with 1,968, including a 297-pin handicap. He replaced Top Di Tucci, also of Rochester.

Rosario Cordaro, of Rochester, moved into third place after rolling 1,957, including a 351-pin handicap. Phil Hoyt, of Rochester, dropped from second to fourth with a 1,948 score.

In the doubles event, Hub Freeman and Al Preiss, of Rochester, moved into third place with 1,326, including a 114-pin handicap.

The University of North Carolina played four home football games last fall and did not win any.

Where Were the Doctors, He Asks

(By The Associated Press)

Boxing officials, writers and many television viewers throughout the country joined today in protests against Referee Tommy Rawson for not halting sooner the beating of Tommy Collins of Boston by lightweight champion Jimmy Carter at Boston Garden.

The wave of criticism continued hours after Carter knocked Collins down 10 times to gain a fourth round technical knockout last night in their nationally-televised bout.

Words such as "murder," "slaughter," "atrocious," "pitiful," "disgusting," "brutal," and "gruesome" were used freely by TV watchers who swamped newspapers and television stations across the country with telephone calls.

Referee "Explains"

Rawson explained he let the bout continue because "it was a championship fight."

"I thought it my duty to have it end in the most possible decisive fashion," said Rawson, a former professional boxer. "But when Collins' second came into the ring I was counting over him. The Massachusetts Boxing Commission's regulations forced me to stop it."

Massachusetts Boxing Commission Chairman Henry Lamar and Commissioner Tommy McFarland, both capable fighters of years back declined to comment.

But Collins readily backed Rawson's action in allowing the fight to continue.

"I was still swinging, wasn't I?" Collins said. "It was for the world championship, why should he stop it?"

Christenberry Irate

"Everything we've done to make it a clean, competitive sport they've thrown to the wind," declared Robert K. Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

"Where were the doctors? Why didn't they stop it quicker?" said Christenberry after viewing the bout on television in New York.

NBA Commissioner Abe J. Greene said at his home in Paterson, N. J., that "it seemed the fight went far beyond the time it should have been stopped."

Harold Kaese, columnist for the Boston Globe, wrote "it was pitiful to see" and "where does the contest leave off and humanity step in?"

Boston City Councillor Frederick C. Hailer Jr., said the fight was "a show of barbarism" and said he will ask the State Boxing Commission to make an investigation.

"To let a boy with Collins' courage almost get killed isn't the sport of boxing," Hailer declared angrily. "The Boxing Commission should be made to answer for this. It could have been a tragedy."

Yankees' Fifth Pennant Shaping Up as Easiest

Fast Break May Engulf Rivals

Just how good are the 1953 New York Yankees? Nobody knows yet, but off the first 10 games they appear to be finding the task of winning their fifth straight pennant the easiest of the lot.

The Yanks, riding a four game winning streak, lead the league by two games. They've won eight and lost just two to the same clubs that beat them in five of the first nine a year ago.

The Yankees of 1952 floundered through the first month and it wasn't until late May that they climbed above the .500 mark to stay. But this season only Alex Kellner, the Philadelphia lefthander, has found their number.

Kellner, who became the first three-game winner in the majors this season by whipping Boston yesterday, shut out New York on opening day and came back five days later to repeat the whitewashing—something that hadn't happened to a Yankee team since 1934.

Against everybody else the Yanks have made balance pay off—just enough hitting to go with reasonably good pitching to come out on top.

Babe Saves Yankees

Yesterday's 4-1 victory over Washington was a good example. The fellows the Yanks usually look to for power—Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and old John Mize—went hitless. So rookie third baseman Loren Babe and Gene Woodling, the hustling outfielder, chipped in with homers and Eddie Lopat added to the attack with a double, later scoring the tie-breaking run in the fifth.

The St. Louis Browns, who had been the Yankees' nearest rivals, dropped back a game by losing, 3-0, to the Chicago White Sox. Cleveland defeated Detroit, 4-1, and Philadelphia downed Boston, 7-2. Now the Browns, White Sox, Indians and Athletics all trail New York by two games.

In the National League the Phillies extended their lead to a full game by whipping Pittsburgh, 5-3, on the two-hit pitching of veteran Jim Konstanty. Brooklyn smothered New York, 12-4. St. Louis at Chicago and Cincinnati at Milwaukee were rained out.

Mike Garcia, one of Cleveland's 22-game winners last season, won his first game this year as he weathered a nine-hit Detroit attack.

Gene Bearden, a Brownie castoff, starred in the White Sox victory in St. Louis. He came in for Lou Kretlow after St. Louis had loaded the bases in the first inning on walks wtih only one out and shut out the Browns on three hits.

Boston managed to break Kellner's string of scoreless innings at 21 2/3 when George Kell doubled home Dick Gernert with two out in the fourth but the Arizona southpaw was the master the rest of the way.

Konstanty, making his first appearance this year, had a no hitter going for Philadelphia until Danny O'Connell singled with two out in the seventh. The other Pittsburgh hit came in the eighth when Dick Cole doubled.

BOND ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., ADOPTED APRIL 21, 1953, APPROPRIATING $18,647.66 TO FINANCE THE COMPLETION OF CONSTRUCTION OF SANITARY AND STORM SEWERS IN TWAALFSKILL DRAINAGE DISTRICT 6-A, INCLUDING THE APPROPRIATION OF $3,147.66 AS THE DOWN PAYMENT, AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $15,500 SERIAL BONDS OF THE CITY TO FINANCE THE REMAINDER OF THE APPROPRIATION.

THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, IN THE COUNTY OF ULSTER, NEW YORK, CONVENED IN RECESSED REGULAR SESSION, HEREBY ORDAINS (by the favorable vote of not less than two-thirds of all the members of said Council) AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. For the financing of the completion of sanitary and storm sewers in Washington Avenue, rear of Elizabeth Street and from the sewer tunnel to Twaalfskill Creek, including the necessary appurtenances thereto, pursuant to recommendations of the Board of Public Works, the amount of $18,647.66 is hereby appropriated, including the appropriation of $3,147.66 as the down payment. The estimate of the maximum cost of said specific object or purpose is $18,647.66 and the plan of financing includes the down payment referred to in Section 3 hereof, the issuance of serial bonds of the City in the principal amount of $15,500 to finance the remainder of the appropriation, and the levy of a tax upon all the taxable real property in the City to pay the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon.

Sec. 2. Serial bonds of the City in the principal amount of $15,500 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to the provisions of the Local Finance Law, constituting Chapter 33-a of the Consolidated Laws of the State of New York, as amended.

Sec. 3. The following additional matters are hereby determined and stated:

(a) The period of probable usefulness of the specific object or purpose for which the bonds authorized by this ordinance are to be issued, within the limitations of $11.00 a. 4 of said Local Finance Law, is thirty (30) years.

(b) Current funds are required to be provided prior to the issuance of the bonds authorized by this ordinance in an amount equal to at least sixteen per centum (16%) of the estimated cost and such current funds have already been provided in the amount of $3,147.66 by appropriation in the budget of the City for the fiscal year 1953 under the caption "Down Payment—Capital Improvements" and the said sum of $3,147.66 is hereby authorized to be withdrawn from the said budget appropriation and shall be applied to the improvement described in Section 1 hereof.

Sec. 4. Each of the bonds authorized by this ordinance and any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds shall contain the recital of validity prescribed by §52.00 of said Local Finance Law and said bonds and any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds shall be general obligations of the City of Kingston, payable as to both principal and interest by a general tax upon all the taxable real property within the City, without limitation as to rate or amount. The faith and credit of the City of Kingston are hereby irrevocably pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds and any notes issued in anticipation thereof and provision shall be made annually in the budgets of the City by appropriation for (a) the amortization and redemption of the bonds and notes to mature in such year and (b) the payment of interest to be due and payable in such year.

Sec. 5. Subject to the provisions of this ordinance and pursuant to §30.00 of said Local Finance Law relative to the authorization of the issuance of bond anticipation notes and of §50.00 and §356.00 to 60.00 of said Law, the powers and duties of the Common Council relative to prescribing the terms, form and contents and as to the sale and issuance of the bonds authorized by this ordinance and of any notes authorized and issued in anticipation of said bonds, are hereby delegated to the City Treasurer as the chief fiscal officer of the City.

Sec. 6. The validity of the bonds authorized by this ordinance, and of any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds, may be contested only if:

(a) such obligations are authorized for an object or purpose for which the City is not authorized to expend money, or

(b) the provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of the publication of this ordinance are not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity, is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

(c) such obligations are authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall be published at least twice in the "Kingston Daily Freeman" and in the "Ulster County News & Kingston Leader" (which newspapers are allied to and support the two political parties which cast the greater number of votes at the preceding general election and are the official newspapers of the City), together with a notice prescribed by §81.00 of the Local Finance Law appended by the City Clerk, and shall take effect immediately after such publication.

THIRD: That you make proclamation, in the manner prescribed by Section 222-c of the Code of Criminal Procedure, notifying all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other Officers who have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at such Court, or who shall have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations to the said Court at the opening thereof, at the first day of its sitting.

WITNESS: Hon. William Deckelman, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, at the Court House in the City of Kingston, the 9th day of April in the year one thousand nine hundred and fifty-three.

HOWARD C. ST. JOHN
District Attorney for the County of Ulster

In pursuance of the above precept, I hereby make proclamation that a term of Supreme Court of Ulster County and Jail Delivery will be held at the Court House in Kingston in and for the County of Ulster the 4th day of May, 1953 at 2 o'clock in the P. M. of that day, and all persons who will prosecute against persons confined in the Jail of said County are required to be then and there present, to proceed as may be just: and all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance or otherwise, are required to appear thereat: and all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other Officers who may have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said Court or who may have taken any inquisition or the examination of any prisoner or witness, are required to return such recognizance inquisition and examination to the said Court at the opening thereof, at the first day of the sitting thereof and to be then and there present with their rolls and records, indictments and remembrances to do those things which to their office pertain.

Dated, City of Kingston N. Y., April 10, 1953.

Ike Just Average

New York, April 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower was just an average grade school boy in Abilene, Kan., not above getting into mischief—so says Elmer S. McCormick, who was one of his teachers. "He was just an average student," McCormick said on a Mutual Broadcasting System radio show last night, "and like most of the other boys in his class, I once caught him smoking in the barn behind the schoolhouse."

Golf

Pinehurst, N. C.—Former champions Mal Galletta and Bill Campbell gained the finals of north and south amateur golf championships.

Las Vegas, Nev.—Lee Worsman shot a 36-hole 139 for the lead in the Tournament of Champions—ailing Sam Snead was last in the field.

Tennis

Houston, Tex.—Vic Seixas and Billy Talbert were rained out of their River Oaks semifinal match.

Racing

New York — Sabette ($92.50) scored an upset in the Maud Muller Purse at Jamaica.

Hot Weather Gun Care

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

There has been a great deal written about taking care of weapons under really adverse circumstances, in rain, snow or cold, or after exposure to salt water from usage in a coastal duck blind. That's all to the good, because if you don't want your pet musket to rust like a collection of old chains, precautions must be taken to protect it against such rough usage.

But not much has been said about gun care during the summer months. Oddly enough that is one season when a rack of guns can go to pot in a hurry. For outside rusting of rifles, shotguns, or pistols during the warm months there is one chief cause—perspiration.

It is the perspiration from your hands, naturally heavier during the warm months, that does the business. Every time you handle a gun barrel during the summer, unless you're wearing rubber gloves, you inevitably deposit a thin residue of perspiration.

When that evaporates it leaves behind a trace of salt. Later, a damp or rainy day comes along, the salt picks up moisture and your gun has water on it. Eventually that means rust pits to cut through the finish of your pet—it always happens to the best gun on your rack—and you have grief.

Even if you are careful about handling your own weapons, and are prompt to wipe them over with a lightly oiled rag, or with any of the 40-odd-corrosion preparations, there's always some character who craves to look 'em over—and leaves his fingerprints behind in the process.

Around my place we have a quaint little custom to discourage curious gun handlers. When they pick up one of my pet pea-shooters they are handed a nice oily rag with which to wipe off all traces, salt-bearing or not. That rag is deliberately a much used one, plenty dark and they catch on right now.

Naturally, you don't want to hide away your best guns—half the pleasure in owning 'em comes from being able to snap 'em up to the shoulder and reminisce about that long shot last fall, so you keep them out for all to handle and see. The only answer for that is regular checking with the oily rag, or one of the silicone-impregnated wipers.

If you want to put them away temporarily, much simpler than any messy grease job is the use of sealed plastic bags containing dessicant salts or one of the vapor-inhibiting compounds.

Another midsummer mistake is leaving your gun in a padded case behind the back seat of the car, where the sun pours on it. The natural sweating of the metal, condensation under temperature changes, plus the water-absorbent qualities of the case liner bring on fast rust. The answer? Carry the cased gun in a reasonably cool section of the car, away from the direct rays of the sun, and don't leave any weapon in a padded case too long.

To remove minor rust freckles, touch the spots with your barrel-cleaning solvent, or with a good penetrating oil, and let it soak in overnight. Then touch up the spots, very lightly, with the finest steel wool they have down at the hardware store. Don't cut through the blueing any more than is necessary. Now coat the cleaned spots with oil and keep 'em that way, summer or winter.

WHEN DO FISH FEED?

THE OBVIOUS ANSWER IS WHEN THEY ARE HUNGRY. DIGESTION IS SLOW WHEN WATER TEMPERATURE IS LOW AND FISH ARE INACTIVE. AS WATER WARMS, DIGESTION SPEEDS UP AND FISH MAY FEED MORE THAN ONCE EVERY DAY IF TEMPERATURE IS IDEAL, ALTHOUGH MANY ANGLERS WRONGLY THINK SUCH FISH FEED ONLY ONCE A WEEK! IN COOLER WATER, FISH DEEP. IN WARMEST WATER, FISH DEEP OR IN SHADE.

IDEAL WATER TEMPERATURES FOR POPULAR FISH ARE: TROUT, ABOUT 50° TO 70° F.; LAKE TROUT, 35° TO 48° F.; SMALLMOUTH BASS, 58° TO 70° F.; LARGEMOUTH BASS, 60° TO 90° F.; WALLEYES, 55° TO 70° F.; MUSKY, PIKE AND PANFISH, 60° TO 80° F.

Derby Hopeful

Correspondent, California-bred three-year-old owned by Mrs. Gordon Guiberson, of San Francisco, beat five other Kentucky Derby eligibles in Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland race track, Lexington, Ky., April 23. His time in mile and an eighth Derby warmup was 1:49, one-fifth second faster than record set in same race by Coaltown in 1948.

Worsham Holds Champions Lead

Las Vegas, Nev., April 25 (AP)—Nine golfers broke par and Tommy Bolt broke a putter and bent a driver to set up the third day of play today in the $35,000 Tournament of Champions.

The par-breakers did it with generally steady golf. Bolt was about as unsteady as they come.

On the back nine, after a good start the sometimes terrible-tempered Mr. B. wound up the day using a No. 2 iron for a putter, and a driver that he bent back into shape himself. He also wound up tied for 18th in a field of 20.

On top at the half-way mark in a bitter chase for a $10,000 first prize was Lew Worsham, the 1947 National Open champion from Oakmont, Pa. Worsham shared the lead the first day, but took over alone with a five-under par 139. He was three under par 72 going into the 17th hole, with a chance of duplicating his first day's 68. Then he missed a three-foot putt on 17, went into a lake on 18 to take a stroke penalty, and finished with a one-under-par 71.

It was good enough to put him one stroke up on Cary Middlecoff, Al Besselink, Chandler Harper and Earl Stewart Jr., who slipped from his first day's tie with Worsham for the lead.

At 141 were Johnny Palmer, Jimmy Demaret and Ted Kroll. Lloyd Mangrum was all alone at 142. Those nine of the country's best—all winners of major tournaments the past year—were the par-breakers.

Tess Moss Bangs 560

One of the top female bowlers of the 1952-53 season, Tess Moss aims to wind the campaign at her all-time peak.

Last night she hammered the Women's Major uprights for a 560 blast (166-195-199) to take individual honors for the session.

Runnerup Elizabeth Schoonmaker Egan posted 208-545 and Louise Jordan pounded 201-523. Dot Flemings fired 517 and Rose Schatzel rounded out the Big Five with 502.

Other upper echelon scorers were Elizabeth Bruck 494, Betty Helmbold 490, Betty Bailey 488, Jessie Burnett and Ada Markle 476; Matilda Bruck, Marie Kelekian and Phyllis Roosa 470.

College Students Resent Abolishing of Regents

Albany, April 25 (AP)—A proposal that State Regents' examinations be abolished in secondary schools had been rejected by a committee of college students attending the third annual State Intercollegiate Mock Senate.

The group acted yesterday after the three-day session opened in the State Capitol. About 100 students from 18 colleges are attending.

The Senate's afternoon session was addressed by Speaker Oswald D. Heck of the State Assembly and Miss Ruth Miner, executive deputy secretary of state.

Two parties were formed. They were the United Party, led by Tom Kenney of Siena College and the States Party, headed by Al Roberts of Harpur College.

Police Are Hunting For Heroin Cache

The search began yesterday after the arrest of four men, described as members of "one of the biggest dope rings operating in this country today."

Assistant U. S. Attorney Lloyd F. McMahon said they had enough heroin hidden away to supply 500,000 addicts.

"We know," he said, "this ring is in possession of over 100 pounds of pure heroin, hidden in caches throughout the city and amounting to assets of well over one million dollars."

The ring allegedly obtained the heroin from France and supplied peddlers throughout the United States.

Face 100 Years

Among the four men seized was white-haired Jean Laget, 60, dubbed the ringleader, known in France as "John the White Haired" and in America as "The Silver Fox."

Joseph C. Ryan, federal narcotics supervisor here, called Laget "the most flagrant narcotics operator it has ever been my experience to come across."

The other three, termed by Ryan as "tops in their line," were Hugo Rossi, 41; Enrique Sauzet, 40, and Andrew Alberti, 32, all of New York. All were held in heavy ball for a hearing May 8.

They face possible prison sentences of 100 years each if convicted on the various charges of possessing and selling narcotics.

Stiff Sentence

New York, April 25 (AP)—Fines totaling $3,500, with the alternative of 70 days in the workhouse, were imposed yesterday upon Mrs. Lee Maggio, 29-year-old dress firm manager, whom Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh called "the most serious scofflaw." She pleaded guilty to 70 traffic violations. Mrs. Maggio, 5355 Henry Hudson Parkway, Riverdale, the Bronx, who has described herself as the estranged wife of a policeman, ran into financial difficulties even before entering court. She was served with a court order in connection with a dental bill. A few minutes later, in court, it developed she had acquired two additional traffic tickets since her last court appearance, on April 10. The chief magistrate gave Mrs. Maggio, the mother of a four-year-old child, one week to pay the fines, saying that if the money were not paid next Friday, "the jail sentence will have to be served."

LEGAL NOTICES

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK—In the Matter of DAVIS GALE, Bankrupt. Bankruptcy No. 88035.

On reading and filing the petition of N. Jansen Fowler, the trustee herein, verified March 20, 1953, and on all the other proceedings heretofore had herein from which it appears that Davis Gale, the bankrupt herein, and Virginia B. Gale, his wife, were at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy herein, the owners as tenants by the entirety of real property situate in the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, hereinafter described, subject to two certain mortgages in the total amount of approximately $7,600, and that Virginia B. Gale has offered to purchase all the right, title and interest of the bankrupt from the trustee herein for the sum of $150, it is ORDERED, that all persons interested as creditors of Davis Gale, bankrupt, show cause before this Court at the office of Normington Schofield, Referee in Bankruptcy, at Dutchess County Court House, Poughkeepsie, New York, on the 14th day of May, 1953, at 11:00 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, why the offer of Virginia B. Gale to pay the sum of $150 for all the right, title and interest of the said bankrupt in and to the premises hereinafter described, should not be accepted, or the offer of any person appearing at said time and place and making a higher offer should not be accepted. The premises to be sold are located in the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York and are located on Quaker Street in the hamlet of Tillson and are more particularly described in a deed from Kenneth K. Clark to Davis Gale and Virginia B. Gale, his wife, recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on November 27, 1950 in Liber 784 of Deeds, at page 558. The premises are subject to two mortgages in the total sum of approximately $7,600, with interest, and subject to taxes, assessments and any and all other liens thereon.

Dated, April 23, 1953.

The ordinance published herewith has been adopted on the 21st day of April, 1953, and the validity of the obligations authorized by such ordinance may be hereafter contested only if such obligations were authorized for an object or purpose for which the City of Kingston, New York is not authorized to expend money or if the provisions of law which should have been complied with as of the date of publication of this notice were not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the publication of this notice, or such obligations were authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

BERNHARDT S. KRAMER
City Clerk

BOND ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., ADOPTED APRIL 21, 1953, APPROPRIATING $18,647.66 TO FINANCE THE COMPLETION OF CONSTRUCTION OF SANITARY AND STORM SEWERS IN TWAALFSKILL DRAINAGE DISTRICT 6-A, INCLUDING THE APPROPRIATION OF $3,147.66 AS THE DOWN PAYMENT, AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $15,500 SERIAL BONDS OF THE CITY TO FINANCE THE REMAINDER OF THE APPROPRIATION.

THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, IN THE COUNTY OF ULSTER, NEW YORK, CONVENED IN RECESSED REGULAR SESSION, HEREBY ORDAINS (by the favorable vote of not less than two-thirds of all the members of said Council) AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. For the financing of the completion of sanitary and storm sewers in Washington Avenue, rear of Elizabeth Street and from the sewer tunnel to Twaalfskill Creek, including the necessary appurtenances thereto, pursuant to recommendations of the Board of Public Works, the amount of $18,647.66 is hereby appropriated, including the appropriation of $3,147.66 as the down payment. The estimate of the maximum cost of said specific object or purpose is $18,647.66 and the plan of financing includes the down payment referred to in Section 3 hereof, the issuance of serial bonds of the City in the principal amount of $15,500 to finance the remainder of the appropriation, and the levy of a tax upon all the taxable real property in the City to pay the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon.

Sec. 2. Serial bonds of the City in the principal amount of $15,500 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to the provisions of the Local Finance Law, constituting Chapter 33-a of the Consolidated Laws of the State of New York, as amended.

Sec. 3. The following additional matters are hereby determined and stated:

(a) The period of probable usefulness of the specific object or purpose for which the bonds authorized by this ordinance are to be issued, within the limitations of $11.00 a. 4 of said Local Finance Law, is thirty (30) years.

(b) Current funds are required to be provided prior to the issuance of the bonds authorized by this ordinance in an amount equal to at least sixteen per centum (16%) of the estimated cost and such current funds have already been provided in the amount of $3,147.66 by appropriation in the budget of the City for the fiscal year 1953 under the caption "Down Payment—Capital Improvements" and the said sum of $3,147.66 is hereby authorized to be withdrawn from the said budget appropriation and shall be applied to the improvement described in Section 1 hereof.

Sec. 4. Each of the bonds authorized by this ordinance and any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds shall contain the recital of validity prescribed by §52.00 of said Local Finance Law and said bonds and any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds shall be general obligations of the City of Kingston, payable as to both principal and interest by a general tax upon all the taxable real property within the City, without limitation as to rate or amount. The faith and credit of the City of Kingston are hereby irrevocably pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds and any notes issued in anticipation thereof and provision shall be made annually in the budgets of the City by appropriation for (a) the amortization and redemption of the bonds and notes to mature in such year and (b) the payment of interest to be due and payable in such year.

Sec. 5. Subject to the provisions of this ordinance and pursuant to §30.00 of said Local Finance Law relative to the authorization of the issuance of bond anticipation notes and of §50.00 and §56.00 to 60.00 of said Law, the powers and duties of the Common Council relative to prescribing the terms, form and contents and as to the sale and issuance of the bonds authorized by this ordinance and of any notes authorized and issued in anticipation of said bonds, are hereby delegated to the City Treasurer as the chief fiscal officer of the City.

Sec. 6. The validity of the bonds authorized by this ordinance, and of any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds, may be contested only if:

(a) such obligations are authorized for an object or purpose for which the City is not authorized to expend money, or

(b) the provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of the publication of this ordinance are not substantially compiled with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

(c) such obligations are authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall be published at least twice in the "Kingston Daily Freeman" and in the "Ulster County News & Kingston Leader" (which newspapers are allied to and support the two political parties which cast the greater number of votes at the preceding general election and are the official newspapers of the City), together with a notice prescribed by §81.00 of the Local Finance Law appended by the City Clerk, and shall take effect immediately after such publication.

PROCLAMATION

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
To the Sheriff of the County of Ulster GREETINGS:

Whereas, a Trial Term of Supreme Court and Jail Delivery is to be held in and for the County of Ulster, at the Court House in the City of Kingston, on May 4, 1953

We command you in pursuance of the provisions of Section 222-a of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in that case made and provided:

FIRST: That you summon the several persons who shall have been drawn in said County of Ulster, pursuant to law, to serve as Trial Jurors at the said Court to appear thereat.

SECOND: That you bring before the said Court all prisoners then being in the Jail of said County, together with all process and proceedings in any way concerning them in your hands as such Sheriff.

THIRD: That you make proclamation, in the manner prescribed by Section 222-c of the Code of Criminal Procedure, notifying all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other Officers who have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at such Court, or who shall have taken any inquisition, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations to the said Court at the opening thereof, at the first day of its sitting.

WITNESS: Hon. William Deckelman, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, at the Court House in the City of Kingston, the 9th day of April in the year one thousand nine hundred and fifty-three.

HOWARD C. ST. JOHN
District Attorney for the County of Ulster

In pursuance of the above precept, I hereby make proclamation that a term of Supreme Court of Ulster County and Jail Delivery will be held at the Court House in Kingston in and for the County of Ulster the 4th day of May, 1953 at 2 o'clock in the P. M. of that day, and all persons who will prosecute against persons confined in the Jail of said County are required to be then and there present, to proceed as may be just: and all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance or otherwise, are required to appear thereat; and all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other Officers who may have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said Court or who may have taken any inquisition or the examination of any prisoner or witness, are required to return such recognizance inquisition and examination to the said Court at the opening thereof, at the first day of the sitting thereof and to be then and there present with their rolls and records, indictments and remembrances to do those things which to their office pertain.

Dated, City of Kingston N. Y., April 10, 1953.

Hot Weather Gun Care

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

There has been a great deal written about taking care of weapons under really adverse circumstances, in rain, snow or cold, or after exposure to salt water from usage in a coastal duck blind. That's all to the good, because if you don't want your pet musket to rust like a collection of old chains, precautions must be taken to protect it against such rough usage.

But not much has been said about gun care during the summer months. Oddly enough that is one season when a rack of guns can go to pot in a hurry. For outside rusting of rifles, shotguns, or pistols during the warm months there is one chief cause—perspiration.

It is the perspiration from your hands, naturally heavier during the warm months, that does the business. Every time you handle a gun barrel during the summer, unless you're wearing rubber gloves, you inevitably deposit a thin residue of perspiration.

When that evaporates it leaves behind a trace of salt. Later, a damp or rainy day comes along, the salt picks up moisture and your gun has water on it. Eventually that means rust pits to cut through the finish of your pet—it always happens to the best gun on your rack—and you have grief.

Even if you are careful about handling your own weapons, and are prompt to wipe them over with a lightly oiled rag, or with any of the 40-odd-corrosion preparations, there's always some character who craves to look 'em over—and leaves his fingerprints behind in the process.

Around my place we have a quaint little custom to discourage curious gun handlers. When they pick up one of my pet pea-shooters they are handed a nice oily rag with which to wipe off all traces, salt-bearing or not. That rag is deliberately a much used one, plenty dark and they catch on right now.

Naturally, you don't want to hide away your best guns—half the pleasure in owning 'em comes from being able to snap 'em up to the shoulder and reminisce about that long shot last fall, so you keep them out for all to handle and see. The only answer for that is regular checking with the oily rag, or one of the silicone-impregnated wipers.

If you want to put them away temporarily, much simpler than any messy grease job is the use of sealed plastic bags containing dessicant salts or one of the vapor-inhibiting compounds.

Another midsummer mistake is leaving your gun in a padded case behind the back seat of the car, where the sun pours on it. The natural sweating of the metal, condensation under temperature changes, plus the water-absorbent qualities of the case liner bring on fast rust. The answer? Carry the cased gun in a reasonably cool section of the car, away from the direct rays of the sun, and don't leave any weapon in a padded case too long.

To remove minor rust freckles, touch the spots with your barrel-cleaning solvent, or with a good penetrating oil, and let it soak in overnight. Then touch up the spots, very lightly, with the finest steel wool they have down at the hardware store. Don't cut through the blueing any more than is necessary. Now coat the cleaned spots with oil and keep 'em that way, summer or winter.

WHEN DO FISH FEED?

THE OBVIOUS ANSWER IS WHEN THEY ARE HUNGRY. DIGESTION IS SLOW WHEN WATER TEMPERATURE IS LOW AND FISH ARE INACTIVE. AS WATER WARMS, DIGESTION SPEEDS UP AND FISH MAY FEED MORE THAN ONCE EVERY DAY IF TEMPERATURE IS IDEAL, ALTHOUGH MANY ANGLERS WRONGLY THINK SUCH FISH FEED ONLY ONCE A WEEK! IN COOLER WATER, FISH DEEP. IN WARMEST WATER, FISH DEEP OR IN SHADE.

IDEAL WATER TEMPERATURES FOR POPULAR FISH ARE: TROUT, ABOUT 50° TO 70° F.; LAKE TROUT, 35° TO 48° F.; SMALLMOUTH BASS, 58° TO 70° F.; LARGEMOUTH BASS, 60° TO 90° F.; WALLEYES, 55° TO 70° F.; MUSKY, PIKE AND PANFISH, 60° TO 80° F.

His time in mile and an eighth Derby warmup was 1:49, one-fifth second faster than record set in same race by Coaltown in 1948.

Worsham Holds Champions Lead

Las Vegas, Nev., April 25 (AP)—Nine golfers broke par and Tommy Bolt broke a putter and bent a driver to set up the third day of play today in the $35,000 Tournament of Champions.

The par-breakers did it with generally steady golf. Bolt was about as unsteady as they come.

On the back nine, after a good start the sometimes terrible-tempered Mr. B. wound up the day using a No. 2 iron for a putter, and a driver that he bent back into shape himself. He also wound up tied for 18th in a field of 20.

On top at the half-way mark in a bitter chase for a $10,000 first prize was Lew Worsham, the 1947 National Open champion from Oakmont, Pa. Worsham shared the lead the first day, but took over alone with a five-under par 139. He was three under par 72 going into the 17th hole, with a chance of duplicating his first day's 68. Then he missed a three-foot putt on 17, went into a lake on 18 to take a stroke penalty, and finished with a one-under-par 71.

It was good enough to put him one stroke up on Cary Middlecoff, Al Besselink, Chandler Harper and Earl Stewart Jr., who slipped from his first day's tie with Worsham for the lead.

At 141 were Johnny Palmer, Jimmy Demaret and Ted Kroll. Lloyd Mangrum was all alone at 142. Those nine of the country's best—all winners of major tournaments the past year—were the par-breakers.

Runnerup Elizabeth Schoonmaker Egan posted 208-545 and Louise Jordan pounded 201-523. Dot Flemings fired 517 and Rose Schatzel rounded out the Big Five with 502.

Other upper echelon scorers were Elizabeth Bruck 494, Betty Helmbold 490, Betty Bailey 488, Jessie Burnett and Ada Markle 476; Matilda Bruck, Marie Kelekian and Phyllis Roosa 470.

College Students Resent Abolishing of Regents

Albany, April 25 (AP)—A proposal that State Regents' examinations be abolished in secondary schools had been rejected by a committee of college students attending the third annual State Intercollegiate Mock Senate.

The group acted yesterday after the three-day session opened in the State Capitol. About 100 students from 18 colleges are attending.

The Senate's afternoon session was addressed by Speaker Oswald D. Heck of the State Assembly and Miss Ruth Miner, executive deputy secretary of state.

The senators chose James Scott of Hofstra College president of their mock sessions.

Two parties were formed. They were the United Party, led by Tom Kenney of Siena College and the States Party, headed by Al Roberts of Harpur College.

Wet Weather in Store

(By The Associated Press)

Spring storms—both rain and snow—whipped over wide areas of the mid-continent today. Pleasant weather was reported in most other sections of the country. However, wet weather appeared headed for northeastern states.

Police Are Hunting For Heroin Cache

New York, April 25 (AP)—A team of federal agents prowled the city's narcotics haunts today in search of more than 100 pounds of pure heroin believed cached here by "The Silver Fox" gang.

The search began yesterday after the arrest of four men, described as members of "one of the biggest dope rings operating in this country today."

Assistant U. S. Attorney Lloyd F. McMahon said they had enough heroin hidden away to supply 500,000 addicts.

"We know," he said, "this ring is in possession of over 100 pounds of pure heroin, hidden in caches throughout the city and amounting to assets of well over one million dollars."

The ring allegedly obtained the heroin from France and supplied peddlers throughout the United States.

Face 100 Years

Among the four men seized was white-haired Jean Laget, 60, dubbed the ringleader, known in France as "John the White Haired" and in America as "The Silver Fox."

Joseph C. Ryan, federal narcotics supervisor here, called Laget "the most flagrant narcotics operator it has ever been my experience to come across."

The other three, termed by Ryan as "tops in their line," were Hugo Rossi, 41; Enrique Sauzet, 40, and Andrew Alberti, 32, all of New York. All were held in heavy bail for a hearing May 8.

They face possible prison sentences of 100 years each if convicted on the various charges of possessing and selling narcotics.

Stiff Sentence

New York, April 25 (AP)—Fines totaling $3,500, with the alternative of 70 days in the workhouse, were imposed yesterday upon Mrs. Lee Maggio, 29-year-old dress firm manager, whom Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh called "the most serious scofflaw." She pleaded guilty to 70 traffic violations. Mrs. Maggio, 5355 Henry Hudson Parkway, Riverdale, the Bronx, who has described herself as the estranged wife of a policeman, ran into financial difficulties even before entering court. She was served with a court order in connection with a dental bill. A few minutes later, in court, it developed she had acquired two additional traffic tickets since her last court appearance, on April 10. The chief magistrate gave Mrs. Maggio, the mother of a four-year-old child, one week to pay the fines, saying that if the money were not paid next Friday, "the jail sentence will have to be served."

Grand Union Head To Lead CP Drive

Lansing P. Shield, president of the Grand Union Company of East Paterson, N. J., will serve as national chairman of the 1953 United Cerebral Palsy Campaign for $7,500,000, it was announced today by Leonard H. Goldenson, president of UCP and president of American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc. The campaign will begin May 1 and continue through the month.

In announcing Shield's acceptance of the chairmanship of this fourth annual UCP campaign, Goldenson said: "Cerebral Palsy represents a serious problem to the welfare of the nation. There are more than half a million cerebral palsied children and adults. With proper treatment, education and other care, many of them can become productive, self-sufficient citizens. I hope that all Americans will join together to help provide them with this opportunity and thus make their talents available for the common good."

Active in '52 Campaign

Shield, who has been president of the Grand Union Company since 1947, is a member of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. In addition, he is associated with the following other organizations: director and member of the executive committee of the American Reserve Insurance Company; director and member of the executive committee and past chairman of the National Association of Food Chains; director of the Super Market Institute, member of the Board of Trustees and life trustee of Rutgers University. He served as campaign chairman of United Cerebral Palsy of New York last year.

The money to be raised in the UCP Campaign is needed for continuation and expansion of direct services to the Cerebral Palsied, as well as for research into its causes, improving treatment and possible prevention, training of sorely needed specialists, and many other services.

Four Officers Fined in Gambling Film Charge

New York, April 25 (AP)—Motion pictures showing bookmakers in action on Brooklyn streets have resulted in fines against four police officers for failing to suppress open gambling.

After police departmental hearings at which the film was shown, Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan ruled the four were guilty and levied fines of 10 days pay each.

They are Deputy Inspector Daniel Mooney, 41; Lt. Frank Fritz, 48, and Patrolman Edward Callahan, 29, and Charles Jenks, 52. Mooney was ruled guilty of "laxity in supervision."

Five others were cleared of the charges. They are Sgt. Thomas Gegan, 48, and Patrolman Irving Bishop, 31; Thomas Hastings, 30; Morris Rosen, 35, and Milton Farrington, 26.

Eviction of Negroes Stayed by Protest

New York, April 25 (AP)—A Negro family still had an apartment in a big Bronx housing development today—saved from eviction by a court order after a mass demonstration of Negroes and whites.

With a deadline set yesterday for the family to leave their apartment in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Parkchester Development, more than 100 people gathered in the building to protest.

Outside, 30 pickets, carrying signs condemning the eviction order, paraded for seven hours.

The company claims Michael Decatur, 35, a dining car waiter, and his family took over the apartment of a white family without notifying the management.

It obtained a court order six months ago directing the family to leave yesterday, but Supreme Court Justice Albert Cohen delayed the eviction at least another four days to hear further arguments.

Want Chinese Out

Seoul, April 25 (AP)—South Koreans paraded the streets of Seoul and Pusan for the third consecutive day today with banners protesting any armistice before the Chinese are driven from Korea and North Korean Reds are disarmed. Seoul walls and fences were plastered with crude signs reading: "Don't be fooled by the Kremlin's peace offensive." "Unification of all Korea or death." "We will never stop fighting the Reds in Korea." "United Nations must not sign armistice before Communists are driven from Korea."

Hearing Adjourned

New York, April 25 (AP) — An arbitration hearing between the Bee Line Inc. and Local 252, CIO Transport Workers Union, has been adjourned until May 4 at 1 p. m. The bus firm yesterday started presentation of testimony in the contract dispute before an arbitration panel headed by former Nassau County Surrogate Leone Howell.

Tags for Indians

Tallahassee, Fla. (AP)—Florida's Seminole Indians, who haven't adopted many of the white man's ways, don't even have the same kind of automobile license plates as most of the residents of the state. The Seminoles get special tags with the words "Seminole Indian" on them instead of the usual letters and numbers. The state distributes them to the Indians free. Around 170 tags are given out each year.

Giant Smuggling Ring Is Smashed

New York, April 25 (AP)—Smashing of a mammouth gold and diamond smuggling business, yielding millions of profits, was claimed today by the federal government.

The case was cracked after a 26-month investigation that stretched around the world.

It resulted in the indictment yesterday of nineteen jewelers, all but one of them New Yorkers, and three other men. Sixthy-three others had been indicted earlier.

The ring allegedly smuggled more than 25 million dollars a year in gold and diamonds across international boundaries.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Louis I. Kaplan said much of the gold was bought under license at the legal price of $35.16 an ounce, but was sold at more than double that in black markets of India, France, Italy and South America.

Lone-Wolf Tracker

A lone-wolf secret service agent, Edward F. Sweeney, was credited with breaking the case.

Among those indicted yesterday was Richard Thomas McGrath, an investigator for the U. S. Assay Office here, accused of taking bribes from jewelers to conceal the black market destination of gold purchases.

Besides the 18 New Yorkers named as gold black marketeers, a grand jury also indicted Charles Benton Berry, also a jeweler of Minneapolis, Minn.

Abraham Neumann, of Montreal,, Canada, and Szyja Ortner, of Antwerp, Belgium, were indicted on charges of smuggling $40,000 worth of diamonds a month into this country for about a year.

Long Island Man Leases Onteora Trail Station

Kenneth V. Rice, formerly of Queens Village, L. I., has leased the Socony Vacuum service station on the Onteora Trail near the Sunset Drive-In Theatre and will operate it under the name, K & B Service Station. His son, William, will join him in the operation.

Rice, who is now living at 134 North Front street, came here after eight months in South Carolina where he worked with the duPont Company on the H-bomb project. He was a member of the New York Police Department for 20 years previous to that.

The station was built one year ago. It offers complete service station facilities, including lubrication, tire and battery service.

Report on Houses

Washington, April 25 (AP)—The Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA) said today 51 per cent of houses programmed for private construction in critical defense areas are under construction and 35 per cent are completed. The report, as of April 15, said 51,907 of the 102,438 programmed units had been put under construction and 36,486 completed. Critical defense areas are defined under present law as those in which construction of a defense installation has cramped a community's housing.

Zoo Elephant Won't Stay in Outdoor Pen

New York, April 25 (AP)—A timid young elephant who wants to be alone is upsetting the warm weather routine at the Bronx Zoo.

Candy, a Siamese elephant, doesn't want to stay in her outdoor pen. Yesterday she refused to venture away from the locked door barring her way to her indoor quarters.

A zoo official said the 18-month-old elephant does not ramp and play in the proper elephantine spirit. He adds:

"For a while we laid chunks of bread down the ramp just to get her outside, but when the bread was gone, she'd turn and hang around the door. She passed the fall and winter in seclusion that gave her monastic ideas, I guess."

The official said the once Candy sheds her timidity children may ride on her back.

An estimated 53 million bushels of corn in the United States was destroyed by the European corn borer in 1952.

Cleaner Water

New York, April 25 (AP) — Cleaner and better swimming at New York area beaches this year was promised anew by a city official yesterday. Commissioner Frederick H. Zurmuhlen of the Department of Public Works told a forum of the New York State Society of Professional Engineers that almost all untreated sewage being discharged near beaches and recreational areas will be eliminated by the end of 1953 or early 1954. He cited the construction last year of three sewage plants which now treat 314,000,000 gallons of sewage daily.

In the Deep South of the United States, the presence of robins shows that winter has arrived.

The report, as of April 15, said 51,907 of the 102,438 programmed units had been put under construction and 36,486 completed. Critical defense areas are defined under present law as those in which construction of a defense installation has cramped a community's housing.

Zoo Elephant Won't Stay in Outdoor Pen

New York, April 25 (AP)—A timid young elephant who wants to be alone is upsetting the warm weather routine at the Bronx Zoo.

Candy, a Siamese elephant, doesn't want to stay in her outdoor pen. Yesterday she refused to venture away from the locked door barring her way to her indoor quarters.

A zoo official said the 18-month-old elephant does not ramp and play in the proper elephantine spirit. He adds:

"For a while we laid chunks of bread down the ramp just to get her outside, but when the bread was gone, she'd turn and hang around the door. She passed the fall and winter in seclusion that gave her monastic ideas, I guess."

The official said the once Candy sheds her timidity children may ride on her back.

An estimated 53 million bushels of corn in the United States was destroyed by the European corn borer in 1952.

Cleaner Water

New York, April 25 (AP)—Cleaner and better swimming at New York area beaches this year was promised anew by a city official yesterday. Commissioner Frederick H. Zurmuhlen of the Department of Public Works told a forum of the New York State Society of Professional Engineers that almost all untreated sewage being discharged near beaches and recreational areas will be eliminated by the end of 1953 or early 1954. He cited the construction last year of three sewage plants which now treat 314,000,000 gallons of sewage daily.

In the Deep South of the United States, the presence of robins shows that winter has arrived.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

In looking through a 1906-7 Freeman Directory of Kingston one realizes the changes which have taken place here in the last 47 years. Who remembers when W. H. Rider sold or rented pianos at 304 Wall street. His advertisement is on the back cover. At that time, John M. Mayer, was well known for manufacturing buckboards, combination delivery wagons, trucks and business wagons. He was located corner Mill and Chambers streets, in Rondout. He was also listed at 111 East 11th street New York. I am sure I read items about his work being exceptional in the wagon line in some of the old Freemans. Those were also the days when H. W. Palen's Sons were located at 519 Broadway. At the time they sold coal lumber and building materials. They also made up blinds, doors and all kinds of woodwork in their electric wood-working factory.

Strange as it may seem in the 1906 directory there is a good photograph of Dr. C. O. Sahler's Sanitarium being built. On the picture it looks somewhat like the George Washington School when it was in process of being built. The same location just 47 years apart. At the time the advertisement said "Location unsurpassed. Well-shaded lawns. Table supplied from our own gardens and dairy. New building, modern in every particular, just completed."

Looking back to see who was who in 1906. Aaron Wesley Thompson was the mayor with Albert Mauterstock his assessor, with William Vallette clerk to the assessor. Roscoe Irwin was city judge and Philip Elting was corporation counsel. Stephen D. Hood (a lawyer by profession) was chief of police. At the time Walter C. Dolson was postmaster and Edgar E. Ougeltree, was deputy postmaster. George A. Plant was superintendent of the Rondout Station. Kingston had some 11 letter carriers and Rondout had five. The names of the staff of the entire school system are given. I see at Kingston Academy names I knew. Myron J. Michael who was principal, Henrietta L. Manning, who was in years to come to teach me Latin at Kingston High School. Mary E. Noone from whom I took English and Mary E. Hussey who was my study hall teacher. Some of the teachers at School 3 I also remember. Patrick H. Cullen the principal. Mary Halloran. Miss Deichelmann. Miss Larkin.

It seems that in those days the present Orpheum was called the Rondout Opera House of which W. G. Finley was manager, for they give the location as Broadway, corner Spring street in Rondout. I remember the old Griffiths Hall down at 15-17 Hasbrouck avenue where various social orders used to have affairs. Michael's Hall at 53 Broadway was right across the street from my father's store and over where Weber's Pharmacy is today. Washington Hall also was popular in Rondout at the time, it was owned by George Zeeh and was down at 108-110 Abeel street. We used to watch basketball down there, and Andrew Murphy was one of the outstanding players at the time. He was also popular in local parades for he carried the big drum and could cross his arms and play the drum sticks without the loss of a beat.

There is a very good picture in the book of Harry P. Carr's sporting goods store at 306½ Wall street. They sold everything from guns to Edison phonographs, even telephones, telegraph instruments and did wiring of all kinds.

Square Club Entertains Visitors

Shrine Hospital Work Viewed by Woodstock Masons

During the regular monthly meeting of Woodstock Square Club Thursday night at Woodstock Town Hall with President George Laws presiding, a large delegation of visitors was present and an interesting motion picture was shown depicting the work among crippled children at the Shrine Hospital at San Francisco. The meeting was called to order at 8 p. m. by President Laws, followed by prayer by Chaplain the Rev. Harvey Todd.

A welcome was extended the visitors by president Laws. Among those present were members of the Ulster County Shrine Club who arrived by chartered bus; members of Ulster Lodge, 193, of Saugerties; Rondout Lodge, 343, and Kingston Lodge, 10, of Kingston; also members of Cyprus Temple of Albany. Including members of the Woodstock Square Club there were over 200 present.

Hutty Welcomes Guests

The welcome address by President Laws was followed by singing of God Bless America led by Allan Watrous. Warren Hutty was called upon and he welcomed the visiting Masons and Shriners to the Woodstock Square Club. All business for the evening was suspended and the time was devoted to fellowship.

Herbert C. Myers, president of the Ulster County Shrine Club, was introduced by President Laws and after brief remarks introduced Chief Rabban Louis Jarrett of Albany who spoke briefly on the Shrine Club. Rollin H. Thomas recorder of Cyprus Temple, Albany, and Carl W. Liss of Schenectady, past potentate of Cyprus Temple were presented.

Officers of the Ulster County Shrine Club were introduced by President Herbert C. Myers. Those presented were Past President William Zeigler of Saugerties; George Shivery of Kingston, second vice-president; Lewis Wilson of Woodstock, third vice-president; Harry Hutton of Kingston, treasurer; Arthur Jansen of Kingston, past president and Gordon Craig of Kingston, past president and present secretary.

An interesting motion picture was then shown by Carl W. Liss, past potentate of Cyprus Temple. The picture showed activities at the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children at San Francisco and was entitled The Story of Linda. It depicted the story of a crippled girl and her stay at the hospital. Shown in the picture was her attendance at the East-West football game which is sponsored by the Shriners annually and the funds derived are used for the crippled children at the hospital. There were scenes of her stay at the hospital and of her leaving the hospital cured. Past President Walter Van Wagenen of the local club assisted in showing the film.

Lewis Jarrett of Albany Shrine Club, chief rabban of Cyprus Temple brought greetings from the Temple.

At the conclusion of the session refreshments were served, the buffet supper being served by the wives of members of the Square Club. On the refreshment committee was Adolph Heckeroth, Joseph Holdridge Sr., Leon P. Carey and Albert Montgomery.

Why We Say--

. . . From Rome

Pleads Guilty to Perjury

New York, April 25 (AP)—Suspended Patrolman John A. Carey, 39, of (39-20 62nd street) Woodside, Queens, yesterday pleaded guilty to a second degree perjury charge stemming from the Brooklyn probe of policemen's finances. Carey entered his plea before Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz. He faces a prison sentence of one to three years. The officer was indicted last Feb. 16 by Brooklyn's rackets grand jury. He allegedly failed to list in a financial questionnaire $17,000 worth of stocks owned by his wife. No date for sentencing was set. Carey was continued in $5,000 bail.

Weather Bureau Out

Bear Mountain, April 25 (AP)—The Weather Bureau here yesterday was notified by its Washington headquarters that it is to cease operation at 4 p. m. (EST), May 15. The announcement said the closing was due to the reprogramming schedule of the entire weather system. It said that forecasting for New York's Orange and Putnam counties would be handled by the Albany office. The Bear Mountain station, the only U. S. Weather Office between New York and Albany, was started in March, 1932.

Father's House Again

Warwick, Va., April 25 (AP)—A sickening feeling gripped Fire Capt. J. R. Bateman as his fire vehicle neared a flaming structure yesterday. He recalled that seven years ago when he answered an alarm on the particular street, it was his father's house afire. Yesterday, just as on that cold morning in February, 1946, his father's home was ablaze—and burned to the ground this time.

Plates for Hams

Tallahassee, Fla. (AP)—You can tell an amateur radio operator by his automobile license plate in Florida. The state issues special tags to all ham operators who want them. They carry the call letters and numbers of the amateurs' radio stations instead of the usual markings. The hams pay a dollar extra for their made-to-order tags.

County Water Supply Catholic Guild Holds Communion Breakfast

A newly-formed Ulster county unit of the Catholic Guild of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of New York held its first annual communion breakfast Sunday, April 19.

Men of the Guild with members of their families and friends participated in the 9 a. m. Mass at the Church of St. John's in Stony Hollow.

Greetings were extended to the group by the pastor, the Rev. James Riordan. The sanctuary was adorned with the Stars and Stripes, the Gold and White Papal Flag and the Blue and Gold Guild Banner.

After the Mass the group proceeded to the Maverick Inn on Route 28, where breakfast was served.

The principal address was given by the Rev. Edwin McCabe, Maryknoll missioner, who was stationed in China for 12 years. Father McCabe was laboring among the Chinese when the Communists came into power. He witnessed the change from a year of watchful waiting on the part of Communist Officials to the full exercise of Communist ideology with the domination of every phase of community life, this including the indoctrination of the school children resulting in the traditionally home loving and obedient Chinese tots turning on their own parents and testifying against them as traitor (i.e., to the Red Regime).

Heroism Is Told

General chairman of the day's activities was Andrew J. Savage assisted by the following committee: Joseph T. Stenson, Vincent A. Callahan, Charles E. Murphy and George F. McNamara. Toastmaster at the breakfast was Paul E. Joyce. Music at the Mass was rendered by Mrs. A. A. Champanier of Woodstock.

A party of New Yorkers composed of Francis McDonald, president of the Guild in New York city, Mr. and Mrs. John Salmon and Mr. and Mrs. John Englert left Brooklyn at 5:30 a. m. to take part in the initial activities of the newly-formed unit.

Among the communications was read a letter from the commissioner of the department, commending the members on their initiative in forming the guild and wishing the guild success in all its future activities.

Miss Carol Van Wagenen, daughter of the Stanley Van Wagenens was in the violin section of the orchestra which consisted of 800 pieces. Members of the orchestra, selected from schools as far west as Chicago, were chosen for their exceptional musical ability.

At a recent meeting of the Ninth District of New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Ernest A. Bell, Ulster county chairman was present. Delegates of the Wallkill Woman's Club attending were Mrs. Charles E. Penney, Club President, Mrs. Leslie C. Edsall and Mrs. DeWitt G. Crowell. Other club members attending were Mrs. James B. Crowell, Mrs. Paul Gaffney, Mrs. Louisa Parliman, Mrs. Clarence Spencer, Mrs. Wilfred Sullivan and Mrs. Lloyd Whipple.

The annual school exhibit will be held in the schools of the Wallkill Central District on Tuesday and Wednesday evening, April 28 and 29. Classrooms in the branch schools, Forest Road, Leptondale, Plattekill and Modena and Bentons Corners will be open from 7:30 to 9 Tuesday evening. The rooms at the Wallkill Central School and the Main Street annex will be open from 7:30 to 9:30 on Wednesday evening. There will be an exhibit of some of the work done by pupils during the school year. Teachers will be on hand to meet parents and others interested in the work of pupils. There also will be adult education projects on exhibit.

Wallkill Reformed Church notes: Sunday school at 10 a. m. Regular morning worship service at 11 a. m., with George E. Waldbillig, a student of New Brunswick Seminary, conducting the rites. Music will be under the direction of Mrs. Hubert Hendrie, choirmaster and organist. Mrs. Hendrie will play Schubert's Serenade for the prelude and Allegro Mo no Troppo as the postlude. Flowers wil be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Decker in memory of her parents, Mr.and Mrs. Leonard Lippencott. Junior Youth Fellowship will meet at 4 and Senior Youth Fellowship at 7 p. m. in the church hall. Tuesday evening there will be choir rehearsal at 7:30. May 7, will be Family Night for the Sunday school members and their parents, and families. May 12, Spring Institute Missionary Society at Callicoon Center.

New Paltz

Little Leaguers Hold First Meeting of Year

New Paltz, April 24—The Little League held its first meeting of the new season Wednesday night at the high school. Little Leaguers enjoyed a film on the World Series and also witnessed themselves as they marched in last year's Memorial Day parade.

A general meeting for all new LL's was called for Sunday afternoon when tryouts will be held. The following week members will meet for the regular practice session.

To date, 110 boys have signed to take part. An urgent need is for more coaches and team managers.

Drive Nets $1,273

New Paltz, April 24—The Red Cross drive in the village of New Paltz netted $1,273.55, Mrs. Walter Rost and Samuel Savago, chairmen, announced today. They reported that the $1,300 quota will be surpassed when final tabulations are received.

Mu, Sigma Epsilon, honorary music society at the local college, sponsored the music concert but as yet a final report has not been made.

Plans Spring Concert

New Paltz, April 24—The Women's Glee Club of the local college will present its spring concert Tuesday, May 5, at 8:30 p. m.

A conservative player might fail to reach a game in today's hand, but most experts would consider it well worth a play for 10 tricks. Since Murray Schnee, of Kew Gardens, has been a well-known bridge expert for many years, he bid the game like a flash and easily found the winning line of play.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and East took the ace and returned the suit. Schnee naturally came up with the king of diamonds and looked for a way to limit the loss to three tricks. It was obvious that the club finesse had to be taken sooner or later, and since entries to the South hand were rather scarce, he decided to try this maneuver at once.

When the finesse of dummy's jack of clubs held, Schnee returned to his hand with the king of hearts. West's spade discard made it evident that East would sooner or later take two trump tricks. Since East had already taken the ace of diamonds, declarer could afford to lose no other tricks.

Not at all dismayed by this unfortunate turn of events, Schnee finessed dummy's queen of clubs and cashed the ace of clubs in order to discard a diamond. He next led dummy's last club.

East dared not ruff, for then South could happily discard the low spade at no cost. East therefore discarded his last diamond, and declarer ruffed. South entered dummy with the ace of trumps and led a diamond back.

After ruffing the diamond, Schnee led a trump and allowed East to take his two trump tricks. At this point East was down to his two spades. He led the ten of spades hopefully, but declarer played low and let the trick ride around to dummy's queen. This endplay thus brought the contract home.

Mother is Queen

Mother's Day is "Coronation Day" in every American family . . . the day Mom is crowned "Queen of Hearts" by all her loving subjects.

Let's show Mother how much she really means to us by our thoughtfulness and devotion. Let's always try to make her eyes shine, her heart sing—not just on Her day, but on every day.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

In looking through a 1906-7 Freeman Directory of Kingston one realizes the changes which have taken place here in the last 47 years. Who remembers when W. H. Rider sold or rented pianos at 304 Wall street. His advertisement is on the back cover. At that time, John M. Mayer, was well known for manufacturing buckboards, combination delivery wagons, trucks and business wagons. He was located corner Mill and Chambers streets, in Rondout. He was also listed at 111 East 11th street New York. I am sure I read items about his work being exceptional in the wagon line in some of the old Freemans. Those were also the days when H. W. Palen's Sons were located at 519 Broadway. At the time they sold coal lumber and building materials. They also made up blinds, doors and all kinds of woodwork in their electric wood-working factory.

Strange as it may seem in the 1906 directory there is a good photograph of Dr. C. O. Sahler's Sanitarium being built. On the picture it looks somewhat like the George Washington School when it was in process of being built. The same location just 47 years apart. At the time the advertisement said "Location unsurpassed. Well-shaded lawns. Table supplied from our own gardens and dairy. New building, modern in every particular, just completed."

Looking back to see who was who in 1906, Aaron Wesley Thompson was the mayor with Albert Mauterstock his assessor, with William Vallette clerk to the assessor. Roscoe Irwin was city judge and Philip Elting was corporation counsel. Stephen D. Hood (a lawyer by profession) was chief of police. At the time Walter C. Dolson was postmaster and Edgar E. Ougeltree, was deputy postmaster. George A. Plant was superintendent of the Rondout Station. Kingston had some 11 letter carriers and Rondout had five. The names of the staff of the entire school system are given. I see at Kingston Academy names I knew. Myron J. Michael who was principal, Henrietta L. Manning, who was in years to come to teach me Latin at Kingston High School. Mary E. Noone from whom I took English and Mary E. Hussey who was my study hall teacher. Some of the teachers at School 3 I also remember. Patrick H. Cullen the principal. Mary Halloran. Miss Deichelmann, Miss Larkin.

It seems that in those days the present Orpheum was called the Rondout Opera House of which W. G. Finley was manager, for they give the location as Broadway, corner Spring street in Rondout. I remember the old Griffiths Hall down at 15-17 Hasbrouck avenue where various social orders used to have affairs. Michael's Hall at 53 Broadway was right across the street from my father's store and over where Weber's Pharmacy is today. Washington Hall also was popular in Rondout at the time, it was owned by George Zeeh and was down at 108-110 Abeel street. We used to watch basketball down there, and Andrew Murphy was one of the outstanding players at the time. He was also popular in local parades for he carried the big drum and could cross his arms and play the drum sticks without the loss of a beat.

There is a very good picture in the book of Harry P. Carr's sporting goods store at 306½ Wall street. They sold everything from guns to Edison phonographs, even telephones, telegraph instruments and did wiring of all kinds.

Square Club Entertains Visitors

Shrine Hospital Work Viewed by Woodstock Masons

During the regular monthly meeting of Woodstock Square Club Thursday night at Woodstock Town Hall with President George Laws presiding, a large delegation of visitors was present and an interesting motion picture was shown depicting the work among crippled children at the Shrine Hospital at San Francisco. The meeting was called to order at 8 p. m. by President Laws, followed by prayer by Chaplain the Rev. Harvey Todd.

A welcome was extended the visitors by president Laws. Among those present were members of the Ulster County Shrine Club who arrived by chartered bus; members of Ulster Lodge, 193, of Saugerties; Rondout Lodge, 343, and Kingston Lodge, 10, of Kingston; also members of Cyprus Temple of Albany. Including members of the Woodstock Square Club there were over 200 present.

Hutty Welcomes Guests

The welcome address by President Laws was followed by singing of God Bless America led by Allan Watrous. Warren Hutty was called upon and he welcomed the visiting Masons and Shriners to the Woodstock Square Club. All business for the evening was suspended and the time was devoted to fellowship.

Herbert C. Myers, president of the Ulster County Shrine Club, was introduced by President Laws and after brief remarks introduced Chief Rabban Louis Jarrett of Albany who spoke briefly on the Shrine Club. Rollin H. Thomas recorder of Cyprus Temple, Albany, and Carl W. Liss of Schenectady, past potentate of Cyprus Temple were presented.

Officers of the Ulster County Shrine Club were introduced by President Herbert C. Myers. Those presented were Past President William Zeigler of Saugerties; George Shivery of Kingston, second vice-president; Lewis Wilson of Woodstock, third vice-president; Harry Hutton of Kingston, treasurer; Arthur Jansen of Kingston, past president and Gordon Craig of Kingston, past president and present secretary.

An interesting motion picture was then shown by Carl W. Liss, past potentate of Cyprus Temple. The picture showed activities at the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children at San Francisco and was entitled The Story of Linda. It depicted the story of a crippled girl and her stay at the hospital. Shown in the picture was her attendance at the East-West football game which is sponsored by the Shriners annually and the funds derived are used for the crippled children at the hospital. There were scenes of her stay at the hospital and of her leaving the hospital cured. Past President Walter Van Wagenen of the local club assisted in showing the film.

Lewis Jarrett of Albany Shrine Club, chief rabban of Cyprus Temple brought greetings from the Temple.

At the conclusion of the session refreshments were served, the buffet supper being served by the wives of members of the Square Club. On the refreshment committee was Adolph Heckeroth, Joseph Holdridge Sr., Leon P. Carey and Albert Montgomery.

Why We Say--

. . . From Rome

Pleads Guilty to Perjury

New York, April 25 (AP)—Suspended Patrolman John A. Carey, 39, of (39-20 62nd street) Woodside, Queens, yesterday pleaded guilty to a second degree perjury charge stemming from the Brooklyn probe of policemen's finances. Carey entered his plea before Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz. He faces a prison sentence of one to three years. The officer was indicted last Feb. 16 by Brooklyn's rackets grand jury. He allegedly failed to list in a financial questionnaire $17,000 worth of stocks owned by his wife. No date for sentencing was set. Carey was continued in $5,000 bail.

Weather Bureau Out

Bear Mountain, April 25 (AP)—The Weather Bureau here yesterday was notified by its Washington headquarters that it is to cease operation at 4 p. m. (EST), May 15. The announcement said the closing was due to the reprogramming schedule of the entire weather system. It said that forecasting for New York's Orange and Putnam counties would be handled by the Albany office. The Bear Mountain station, the only U. S. Weather Office between New York and Albany, was started in March, 1932.

Father's House Again

Warwick, Va., April 25 (AP)—A sickening feeling gripped Fire Capt. J. R. Bateman as his fire vehicle neared a flaming structure yesterday. He recalled that seven years ago when he answered an alarm on the particular street, it was his father's house afire. Yesterday, just as on that cold morning in February, 1946, his father's home was ablaze—and burned to the ground this time.

Plates for Hams

Tallahassee, Fla. (AP)—You can tell an amateur radio operator by his automobile license plate in Florida. The state issues special tags to all ham operators who want them. They carry the call letters and numbers of the amateurs' radio stations instead of the usual markings. The hams pay a dollar extra for their made-to-order tags.

County Water Supply Catholic Guild Holds Communion Breakfast

A newly-formed Ulster county unit of the Catholic Guild of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of New York held its first annual communion breakfast Sunday, April 19.

Men of the Guild with members of their families and friends participated in the 9 a. m. Mass at the Church of St. John's in Stony Hollow.

Greetings were extended to the group by the pastor, the Rev. James Riordan. The sanctuary was adorned with the Stars and Stripes, the Gold and White Papal Flag and the Blue and Gold Guild Banner.

After the Mass the group proceeded to the Maverick Inn on Route 28, where breakfast was served.

The principal address was given by the Rev. Edwin McCabe, Maryknoll missioner, who was stationed in China for 12 years. Father McCabe was laboring among the Chinese when the Communists came into power. He witnessed the change from a year of watchful waiting on the part of Communist Officials to the full exercise of Communist ideology with the domination of every phase of community life, this including the indoctrination of the school children resulting in the traditionally home loving and obedient Chinese tots turning on their own parents and testifying against them as traitor (i.e., to the Red Regime).

Heroism Is Told

Father McCabe illustrated his talks with many interesting anecdotes of the heroic virtue displayed by Chinese Christians in holding on to their spiritual ideals in defiance of Communists force threats and torture. In particular, the Communists are intent on the destruction of the Legion of Mary. The Legion of Mary, an association of the Catholic laity, whose object is the assistance of bishops and priests in their apostolic work of saving and sanctifying souls. Under the present Communist regime, which imprisons and banishes the clergy and religious. Preservation of spiritual ideals and the teaching of the practice of doctrines of the faith depend to a large degree on the zeal of the members of the Legion of Mary.

General chairman of the day's activities was Andrew J. Savage assisted by the following committee: Joseph T. Stenson, Vincent A. Callahan, Charles E. Murphy and George F. McNamara. Toastmaster at the breakfast was Paul E. Joyce. Music at the Mass was rendered by Mrs. A. A. Champanier of Woodstock.

A party of New Yorkers composed of Francis McDonald, president of the Guild in New York city, Mr. and Mrs. John Salmon and Mr. and Mrs. John Englert left Brooklyn at 5:30 a. m. to take part in the initial activities of the newly-formed unit.

Among the communications was read a letter from the commissioner of the department, commending the members on their initiative in forming the guild and wishing the guild success in all its future activities.

A conservative player might fail to reach a game in today's hand, but most experts would consider it well worth a play for 10 tricks. Since Murray Schnee, of Kew Gardens, has been a well-known bridge expert for many years, he bid the game like a flash and easily found the winning line of play.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and East took the ace and returned the suit. Schnee naturally came up with the king of diamonds and looked for a way to limit the loss to three tricks. It was obvious that the club finesse had to be taken sooner or later, and since entries to the South hand were rather scarce, he decided to try this maneuver at once.

When the finesse of dummy's jack of clubs held, Schnee returned to his hand with the king of hearts. West's spade discard made it evident that East would sooner or later take two trump tricks. Since East had already taken the ace of diamonds, declarer could afford to lose no other tricks.

Not at all dismayed by this unfortunate turn of events, Schnee finessed dummy's queen of clubs and cashed the ace of clubs in order to discard a diamond. He next led dummy's last club.

East dared not ruff, for then South could happily discard the low spade at no cost. East therefore discarded his last diamond, and declarer ruffed. South entered dummy with the ace of trumps and led a diamond back.

After ruffing the diamond, Schnee led a trump and allowed East to take his two trump tricks. At this point East was down to his two spades. He led the ten of spades hopefully, but declarer played low and let the trick ride around to dummy's queen. This endplay thus brought the contract home.
